RECORD OF FORMER RACES.

Yesterday's 'Varsity race was the forty-ninth between Yale and Harvard. The first race was rowed in 1852, each university having won twenty-four times up to yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, June 25.—The faded, almost forgotten prestige of Yale's oarsmanship on the Thames was restored today when three Blue crews swept the river and put the Elis back on the pinnacle of rowing fame from which they were shoved by the Crimson almost half a score of years ago. The Yale 'Varsity beat Harvard this afternoon in impressive style.

There was no close finish of a few feet to confuse the judges. It was a procession. The Yale second 'Varsity beat Harvard in the morning race a quarter of a length, and tonight in the dusk the Yale freshmen defeated the Harvard cubs by more than a length. It was so dark that to the spectators the finish was a secret. Only the judges knew.

Tonight Yale owns New London. The old whaling town has come back to its own, and the invading oarsmen from Massachusetts are in the pale background. Through the streets the cry is "Yale! Yale! Yale!" and Harvard's aristocracy has departed low in its mind. The sudden reverse came as a shock for Boston came here today en masse, prepared to boast of Crimson superiority.

The hawkers loaded up with Yale colors reaped a harvest. They sold out all their blue, but had on hand much crimson which they could not dispose of.

English Methods Prevail.

The peculiar thing about it was that Yale came here in droves today prepared to win. There was a supreme confidence in the air over Guy Nickalls's crews which has not been felt over a Yale crew in many years. Nickalls is being praised to the skies tonight. His English stroke and his British fads have triumphed. The crews with the English thole pins and the English-rigged boats are on top. All praise to the victors.

The Crimson Varsity crew today pulling for their Alma Mater before the biggest gathering of spectators that has assembled here in years was a distinct disappointment. Harvard rowed with an apathy and indifference which was a puzzle to the experts who have seen in the Harvard crew one of the finest eights ever developed at Cambridge.

There was a "kick" and a "punch" in the Yale stroke which Harvard lacked. The Crimson had a fine crew. It rowed like a machine, it rowed just as it was instructed to; but with all its finesse and its harmony it lacked the power and the stamina to pull it through to a victorious finish.

It is significant that not once during the four-mile gruelling pull did Harvard show a flash of fighting spirit. They took defeat gamely enough, not a man fell short of his duty until the finish mark was reached; but nevertheless the Crimson did not have the determination and the go that Yale showed.

Yale men are proud of their crew. At the start they fought hard to get an advantage, and they got it. It required courage and good watermanship to hold this advantage, and Yale did it. Much credit is due to McLane, the coxswain, who was always shouting encouragement at his men. Not once in the first three miles of the race did he know where the Harvard shell was. He knew only one thing—that it was behind him. He drilled this idea into his men. It

REWARD OF $10,000 IN JEWEL ROBBERY

Offer Discloses Loss of Necklace of 71 Pearls in Southampton—Details Kept Secret.

Private detectives in this city were sent out last night in search of a pearl necklace of great value and a marquise diamond ring, which disappeared on June 21 or June 22 from a residence at Southampton, L. I. Minute descriptions of the missing jewels were sent to pawnshops in this city and elsewhere.

While it is believed that the person having the jewels cannot pawn them with safety, he still has a chance to make a rich haul. The owner of the missing jewels is advertising a reward of $10,000 for their return and no questions asked.

An advertisement put in the lost and found column of THE TIMES this morning says:

> $10,000 REWARD
> will be paid and absolutely no questions asked for the return of the 71 pearl necklace with pearl clasp, also marquise diamond ring, missed as of June 21-22 from owner's residence, Southampton, Eastern Long Island; proportionate reward for the return of any part of the missing articles, and liberal reward will also be paid for information leading to the recovery of missing articles. Dreicer & Co., 560 5th Av., New York City.

Members of the firm of Dreicer & Co. refused last night to tell who had lost the jewels. The offer of the reward is intended as a pledge of complete immunity to the person who voluntarily returns the jewels by communicating with the firm, whether that person had anything to do with their disappearance or not.

Porch climbers have robbed three homes in East Hampton within the last week. Charles L. Hackstaff was among the losers through depredations there. Prominent people of New York, who recently have taken Summer homes at Southampton include Henry Phipps, who rented Windymere, the home of Mrs. De Lancey Nicoll; J. Steven Ullman, Mrs. Russell W. Headley, Sr., Mrs. G. Eric W. McDonald, Stephen C. Clark, Mrs. Jefferson Caddington, George F. Maxwell, Mrs. Herbert A. Scheftel, and Frederick Y. Baliel.

The Southampton police said last night that no report of any burglary had been made there.

AMERICA SAVES $100,000,000

Secretary Lane Says Tourists Spend It Here Instead of Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—"Seeing America first" has become a reality on account of the European war, with the embargo that has been placed on tourist travel. Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is of the opinion that at least $100,000,000 has been spent by Americans in Europe every year, and that this amount is being spent in the United States this year by the people who would have gone to Europe under ordinary circumstances.

The Interior Department has reports showing that there is an unprecedented number of visitors to the national parks which are under the care of the department.

"The department," said Mr. Lane today, "is gratified with the public interest in the development of the great national parks. The number of visitors has been steadily increasing, but this Summer's travel will be far ahead of other seasons. As the magnitude, beauty, and healthfulness of the parks are better understood, it may be expected that the yearly travel to them will rapidly increase. Thus the damage caused by the war is being neutralized by inducing Americans to spend their vacation money at home. The whole country is the gainer by this intermingling of the people of the East and the West."

NASHVILLE SCANDAL GROWS.

Receiver Asked for City After Arrest of the Treasurer.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 25.—The disappearance of eleven of the city cash books covering the period of 1908 to 1912 was announced today, and was followed by the filing of a bill in Chancery by Controller Burns and other citizens asking for a receivership to take charge of the affairs of Nashville. Next followed the arrest of City Treasurer Charles A. Myers, charged with the appropriation of $10,000 of municipal funds. The warrant against Myers was obtained by Burns, who is resisting the fight of all of the other city officials arrayed against him. He charges that the Treasurer misappropriated the sum named and obtained it from the local banks as interest money. Myers was held in $20,000 to answer to the Grand Jury.

The arrest of the City Treasurer, following similar action a week ago against the City Finance Commissioner and the disappearance of Assistant City Treasurer West, will, it is thought, hasten a receivership of the city and probably cause numerous other arrests.

Bondholders of Nashville securities to the amount of several millions are inquiring closely into city affairs. Only recently the city disposed of $2,000,000 in New York, one-half of which was used to cover a deficit.

DYING MAN TRIED TO WORK.

Hit by Motor Cycle, Cleaner Had "No Time to be Sick."

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, June 25.—Though mortally hurt by a motor cycle ridden by Frank Purdy of Portchester today, Frederick Birkmer, a street sweeper, insisted on going back to work.

Birkmer was sweeping near the residence of Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh, and backed into the motor cycle. He fell, hitting his head. Purdy worked over him twenty minutes and the sweeper regained consciousness as he was being lifted into an ambulance. Breaking away he picked up his broken broom. "I haven't time to be sick," he said.

At the hospital it was found Birkmer's skull was fractured. After his head had been bandaged and he was waiting to be taken to the operating room he got out of bed and started to leave the hospital. He fell unconscious and died at 5 o'clock.

Purdy was paroled.

FIGHTS TO KEEP ARMY EXPERTS

Ordnance Officers, Resigning, Go with Private Concerns Making War Munitions.

GARRISON WANTS A RULING

Asks Attorney General if Officers Possess an Inalienable Right to Leave the Service.

HE WON'T LET TWO GO

Issue Raised Squarely for the First Time—Government Workmen Enticed by Higher Pay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary of War Garrison has asked Attorney General Gregory for an opinion whether officers of the United States Army have an inalienable right to resign their commissions in time of peace. The decision will be of far-reaching consequence not only to the Government itself, but to every branch of the United States service—the Navy, the Marine Corps, and the Coast Guard Serive—as well as the Army.

The appeal to the Department of Justice for an opinion on this question, which, strangely enough, has never been determined in the history of the Government, despite the fact that officers, both of the Army and Navy, have, at various times, insisted that they had the right to resign, grows out of the large number of resignations of officers of the Ordnance Department of the Army in the past six months to enter the manufacturing field as ammunition experts.

Since last December six ordnance officers have resigned. Secretary Garrison, acting for the President as Commander in Chief of the Army, has accepted four of these resignations, but has refused to accept the other two until the question whether an officer has an inalienable right to resign in time of peace has been decided by the Attorney General.

Some of the officers who resigned wished to accept employment with munition and ammunition manufacturing companies. One of the officers whose resignation has been accepted has joined the forces of the Remington Arms-Union Metallic Cartridge Company.

The officers of the Ordnance Department whose resignations were offered and accepted were:

Major Walter G. Penfield, Ordnance Department, (Captain of Infantry,) resigned March 1, 1915; an expert in the manufacture of ammunition and small arms, formerly connected with the Frankford Arsenal at Philadelphia.

Captain Birch O. Mahaffy, Ordnance Department, (First Lieutenant of the Coast Artillery Corps,) resigned Dec. 9, 1914.

Captain Charles S. Donovin, Ordnance Department, (First Lieutenant of Infantry,) resigned Dec. 28, 1914.

Captain Creedy C. Sheppard, Ordnance Department, (First Lieutenant of the Coast Artillery,) resigned recently; had been an expert employed at the Springfield Arsenal.

The two officers who resigned, but whose resignations have not been accepted, pending the delivery of Attorney General Gregory's opinion, are:

Lieut. Col. Odus C. Horney, Ordnance Department, one of the permanent staff officers of ordnance, now in charge of the powder plant of the United States Government at Picatinny Arsenal, near Dover, N. J.

Major William A. Phillips, an Infantry officer detailed to the Ordnance Department's Staff, for a number of years on duty at the Frankford Arsenal at Philadelphia, but now assigned to duty at the Army Proving Grounds at Sandy Hook.

Officers of the army tonight refused to discuss any of these cases for publication and high officials declined to comment on them. The exodus of these ordnance experts from the service began last December, and the question whether the department should continue to accept such resignations does not appear to have raised a serious issue until the receipt of the resignations of Lieut. Col. Horney and of Major Phillips. It is understood that both of these officers desire to become affiliated with munition companies. As officers of the United States Army they could not become identified with any concern which manufacture war supplies which go to any belligerent nation in Europe. Private manufacturing companies have a right, under the present status of national and international law, to manufacture and sell munitions of war to any belligerent.

Munition Plants Multiply.

The demand made by European belligerents upon private concerns in this country for the manufacture of guns, powder, and ammunition during the last nine months, has caused a remarkable development of munition plants. Factories formerly engaged in the manufacture of other products have received sub-contracts for forgings and other forms of war material. The facilities of automobile plants even have been placed in some instances at the disposal of contractors for war supplies. The orders given by agents of belligerent Governments have created an extraordinary and abnormal demand for labor, skilled artisans, and for ordnance experts.

It was learned tonight that numerous private concerns, which embarked on the manufacture of war munitions, have discovered the need of military experts to direct the processes of manufacture and are in the market for ordnance officers of the army if they can be obtained.

Scores of skilled workmen are leaving the employment of the Government arsenals to accept more highly remunerative employment with private ammunition and gunmaking companies. Many workmen have left the Frankford Arsenal at Philadelphia, and for the first time in years that arsenal needs employes, despite the fact that it is situated in one of the greatest labor markets of the country. These men are experts in their lines and have signed long-term contracts at pay considerably in excess of what the Government was paying them. Colonel George Montgomery, in command of the arsenal, has recommended to the War Department a 25 per cent. increase in the wages of skilled mechanics at the arsenal, and Assistant Secretary of War Henry Breckenridge has urged that this recommendation be approved.

Resignations Often Rejected.

Officers of the army and navy have frequently tendered their resignations and had them accepted, but the issue now put up squarely to Attorney General Gregory is whether the Government is required to accept an army officer's resignation when the latter insists upon his desire to leave the service and the army is reluctant to let him go.

Both in the army and navy the rule has been to accept or reject applications of officers for resignation, in the

PRESIDENT CHEERED ON TRIP TO CORNISH

Tells a Springfield Admirer That He'll Avoid War if He Can Do So.

BIG CROWD WELCOMES HIM

He Settles Down for a Fortnight's Golfing, Automobiling, Reading, and Rest.

CORNISH, N. H., June 25.—President Wilson, accompanied by his daughter, Margaret, and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician, arrived at his Summer home here soon after 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was met at the railroad station at Windsor, Vt., by his cousin, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, and motored to Cornish.

As the President's car stopped at Springfield, Mass., this morning, he shook hands with a group of railway workers, one of whom said to him:

"Keep us out of war, Mr. President."

"I will if I can," was the President's reply.

Under orders from his physician to take a complete rest, the President settled down at the "Summer White House" for a brief vacation to prepare himself for the arduous work he is expecting within the next few months in connection with the European and Mexican situations.

He brought few official documents with him, and officials at the White House had orders to lay before him only the most pressing business. Secretary Lansing will do most of the actual work on the note to Great Britain now being prepared; but the President has already gone over with him the broad questions of policy involved and will see the note before it is officially forwarded to London. He read with deep interest today unofficial forecasts from Berlin of the possibility of Germany's submarine warfare being somewhat modified, but refused to make any comment.

Receives an Ovation En Route.

The President arrived here this afternoon after a trip through Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Vermont, marked by frequent ovations from crowds which gathered at every station. He refused to make any speeches, but smiled broadly at laudatory comments from several hundred men, women, and children with whom he shook hands. The crowds were much larger and more enthusiastic than have ever before greeted the President on his way here, and many persons told him that they approved his course in regard to the foreign situation.

"You have been writing great letters to those foreign Governments," said one working woman, as she clasped the President's hand. He thanked her.

"Excuse the dirt," apologized a factory employe, extending a grimy hand to the President. "I don't mind that," the President replied, as he shook hands.

"You've been working too hard, and I hope you have a good vacation," was the greeting of another woman. "I hope so, too," answered Mr. Wilson.

As the President stood talking to the crowd at one stop a man remarked that he looked heavier than he did last year The President said he weighed about the same.

"Your face looks fuller," said the man.

"I guess I have more cheek," replied the President, amid laughter.

Cheered by His Townspeople.

Practically the entire population of Windsor and this village were at the station to greet the President as he stepped from his private car. They cheered him again and again, and for a few minutes he was completely hemmed in by people who wanted to welcome him back to the Summer capital.

The President's joy was evident later in the afternoon, when his daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, with her husband and baby boy, arrived here for a visit. Francis Woodrow Sayre, the President's only grandson, whom he saw christened a few weeks ago at Williamstown, Mass., cooed with delight and cuddled in his grandfather's arms.

Harlakenden House, the property of Winston Churchill, the novelist, which is occupied by the President and his family, has been completely renovated since their last visit here. Mr. Wilson spent almost the entire afternoon and evening looking over the estate and attending to some correspondence, but took a short automobile ride before dinner. He plans to devote practically all his time while here to golfing, automobiling, reading and resting. He will play golf each morning twenty miles away at Hanover, N. H., and in the afternoons he will motor through the picturesque Connecticut Valley.

The President learned today of the marriage on the day he left Washington of John Slye, one of his Secret Service men, and Miss Johanna Henrick of Washington. The couple are spending their honeymoon here. As Slye finished his tour of duty in helping guard the President today, he was met by his bride.

CHICAGO TAX PENALTIES.

Wealthy Men Find It Costly Not to Turn In Lists.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Heavy penalties have been imposed on wealthy residents of Chicago because of failure to file personal property tax lists this year. In some cases men and women will be asked to pay thousands of dollars more than they would have been required to pay had they filed schedules. The only relief now is with the Board of Review.

Several business men decided to follow the example of Julius Rosenwald and make informal statements, accepting the penalty in preference to giving a detailed statement of their business. The courts have decided that a penalty of 50 per cent. of the assessment is all the punishment that can be inflicted. Mr. Rosenwald has the largest individual assessment, $2,000,000, to which a penalty of $1,000,000 has been added.

Among the Chicagoans penalized and the amount of the penalties are: John Borden, $25,000; M. C. Coleman, $50,000; S. M. Hager, $24,000; Archbishop Quigley, $6,300; J. W. Thorne, $50,000; W. F. Dummer, $180,000; Mrs. C. K. Pomroy, $48,000; Miss F. Skinner, $80,000; Medill McCormick, $50,000, and Mrs. Medill McCormick, $105,000.

ANOTHER BILLION VOTED BY FRANCE

Deputies Cheer Finance Minister, Voicing the Inflexible Determination of the Nation.

SHE "WILL GO TO THE END"

Socialists Avow Loyal Support of Efforts to Oust Invaders and Bring Permanent Peace.

PARIS, June 25.—Following an eloquent speech by M. Alexandre Ribot, Minister of Finance, and an illuminating debate in which the Socialists proffered absolute support for carrying on the war, the Chamber of Deputies today passed the bill appropriating 5,600,000,000 francs ($1,120,000,000) to cover national expense for the three months beginning July 1. The vote was 492 to 1.

M. Ribot, in his address, said he recognized the necessity of France buying as little abroad for the requirements of war as possible. To do so, he asserted, would be one of the most important economies for the country. This would tend also to facilitate exchange, although up to the present there had not been the least monetary depreciation. French credit was intact, and France felt no embarrassment, notwithstanding all her requirements.

M. Ribot said that in April public subscriptions amounted to 995,000,000 francs ($199,000,000) and that in May the public took 1,007,000,000 francs ($201,400,000) in national defense bonds.

The Minister of Finance in measured and sober eloquence said he could affirm once more that the people of France would go to the end, no matter how long the war might last, and that in the midst of her difficulties France had taken a vow which she should keep. The country, he added, would reject indignantly any one showing weakness for an instant.

The Deputies listened in silence to the speaker, the proceedings being in remarkable contrast to the disorderly session of yesterday. More than once the Deputies rose to their feet as a mark of respect, applauding M. Ribot.

Premier Viviani exclaimed once upon what he called M. Ribot's successful efforts in behalf of workmen's pensions. To this the Minister of Finance replied:

"This is not the hour to recall the stages of my career. I have lived, I have acted, and in ageing I try not to constrict my ideas."

Upon finishing his explanation of the bill, M. Ribot was surrounded by Ministerial colleagues and others, political opponents, all offering congratulations, while the members of the House stood and gave him an ovation.

Deputy Bedoupe, speaking for the Socialists, said they would vote the credit necessary to oust the invaders and obtain permanent peace.

His colleague, M. Renaudel, advocated industrial mobilization, saying:

"We must not be caught unprepared by peace as we were by war. No soldier in the trenches must feel that his children lack anything essential."

Deputy Renaudel urged that supplemental supplies necessary for France be obtained in the colonies, "whose sons already have given their blood magnificently to naturalize themselves." and added:

"They are no longer Algerians and Senegalese—only Frenchmen."

TO CONSULT DERNBURG ON REPLY TO AMERICA

Propagandist Will Reach Berlin Today and Will Be Called Before Officials at Once.

BERLIN, (via London,) June 25.—Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, returning from the United States on the Norwegian steamer Bergensfjord, has sent a wireless message to relatives here saying that he expects to reach Berlin on Saturday evening.

It has been learned upon good authority that Dr. Dernburg will immediately be called into consultation concerning the forthcoming German answer to the second American note on the Lusitania incident.

CHRISTIANIA, (via London,) June 25.—The steamer Bergensfjord, on which Dr. Bernhard Dernburg was a passenger on his way from the United States to Germany, arrived last night at Bergen, after being detained at Kirkwall, Scotland, by the British authorities.

During the detention of the Bergensfjord at Kirkwall Dr. Dernburg was not examined by British officials, merely giving his word of honor that he did not bring with him any documents, the transmission of which would be harmful to the allied cause. When the passports of the steamer's passengers were examined it was required that they show their American citizenship papers.

Dr. Dernburg was met at Bergen by representatives of German, Norwegian, and American newspapers, but he refused to be interviewed, or to issue any statement regarding his mission in America.

With Dr. Dernburg was the Princess von Hatzfeldt Trachenberg, wife of the counselor of the German Embassy in Washington. They are continuing their journey through Christiania to Berlin.

KEPT PLEDGE TO DERNBURG.

London Press Explains Temporary Detention of His Ship.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—The Times says it is informed that the action of the British Admiralty in detaining the steamship Bergensfjord, on which Dr. Dernburg was a passenger, indicated no intention to depart from the promise that Dr. Dernburg should not be molested on the voyage home.

"We understand," it says, "that the steamer was detained for reasons totally unconnected with the presence of Dr. Dernburg as a passenger, and that it has now been released."

The Daily Mail says that the Bergensfjord was detained because the British authorities had reason to think that its passengers might include, apart from Dr. Dernburg, certain "undesirable enemy aliens." The vessel was searched but no arrests were made. The Bergensfjord sailed from Kirkwall on Thursday for its destination.

Germany Orders Silence on Belgian Annexation

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—The Amsterdam correspondent of The Morning Post declares that German newspapers have been ordered by the Government to abstain from the discussion of any plans for the eventual annexation of Belgium by Germany.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, (via The Hague,) June 25.—The fall of Lemberg is absorbing public interest and few persons outside of official circles are discussing the American situation. Sounding German opinion discloses the fact that everybody expects a satisfactory solution of the American controversy as a foregone conclusion.

Diplomatic circles are particularly optimistic. Again there is reason to believe that powerful factors are hard at work seeking to lay the ghost of a possible diplomatic break. These persons are bringing pressure to bear in high quarters with a view to obtaining certain modifications in the submarine warfare, which it is thought would end the differences with America. The sensational silencing of Count von Reventlow has caused widespread satisfaction everywhere, except in reactionary political, naval, and military circles and undoubtedly has contributed much toward clearing the atmosphere.

The text of the German note is still in doubt, the final form and contents not yet having been definitely fixed, yet I learn that the rough draft probably will be finished tomorrow. It will have to go the rounds of various departments, including the Admiralty, where, as was the case with the previous note, it will undoubtedly suffer many time-consuming, but inevitable alterations.

The report that President Wilson is taking a two weeks' vacation is regarded as a hopeful sign here, but there is much disappointment in high quarters because he did not send a note to England before going away from Washington.

Tageblatt Answers Jingoes.

The Berliner Tageblatt, which often unofficially voices the views of Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg, says in the course of a remarkably sane editorial, headed "We and Americans," seeking to get at the root of the cause of the strained feelings between the two nations:

"It must not be overlooked that reports which have reached America that the Germans were facing the possibility of war with America with the utmost unconcern have created a very bad impression there. On this occasion we desire to state most emphatically that such frivolous expressions of opinion have emanated from very few papers and personages, and that they represent the diametrical opposite of what a vast majority of the German people feel and wish.

"But every foolish jingoistic word has, of course, been made capital of. There are, therefore, in the United States, too, those who are blamable for the fact that the feeling between the two nations is not as it ought to be. The present relations are not so bad, and with mutual good-will a clearing up of the situation and an understanding are possible.

"Only one point will be difficult to reconcile in the conflicts of opinion, namely, the ammunition question.

"Even if the ammunition shippers appeal to the letter of the law, we feel it imperative to go beyond the letter of the law to reach a new regulation of the ammunition question. Also we must stand our ground on the contention that Germany cannot give up the submarine arm in the fight against sea power, but we hope that on this important point, too, a peaceful understanding with the great American Republic can be achieved. It is known to us that among clear-sighted citizens of America, notably in the Middle West and West, there is a wish and purpose to do us justice. Therefore, those on the other side of the Atlantic should also know that by far the greatest part of the German people, just as much as the German Government, has a sincere desire to live further with America in peace and friendship."

Some Warlike Comment.

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, (via London,) June 25.—The Kreuzzeitung, in a long editorial today, attacks the Lokal Correspondenz Agency for venturing to say that it might be wise to grant the request of the United States that submarines refrain from attacking passenger vessels carrying Americans.

The Kreuzzeitung says "we could hardly believe our eyes when we read the offending article," and adds: "To give such a guarantee would simply permit the shipment of further war mu-

GERMANY TO EMPLOY 720,000 FRESH TROOPS

Swiss Authority Says Eighteen New Army Corps Are Nearly Ready.

ZURICH, (via London,) June 25.—According to an authoritative military source Germany will be able to place eighteen more army corps in the field by the end of July. These are composed chiefly of the second category of the Landsturm, comprising men who have never performd military service, but are now in training, and inland reserves which have been resting in the interior of Germany.

It is calculated that these new corps will about equal in number the exhausted troops returning from Galicia, who will enjoy partial rest, doing service as inland reserves.

If the war strength of a German army corps is estimated at 40,000 men, the number of these new troops will be approximately 720,000.

BRITISH SUBMARINE COMMANDER GETS V. C.

Nasmith, His Officers and Crew Rewarded for Exploits in Sea of Marmora.

LONDON, June 25.—It was officially announced today that the Victoria Cross had been awarded to Lieutenant Commander Martin E. Nasmith for taking his submarine into the Sea of Marmora and sinking various Turkish transports, stoneships, and a gunboat.

To two officers of the submarine, Lieutenants Guy D'Oyly-Hughes, and Robert Brown, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. Each of the crew received the Distinguished Service medal.

NORTHCLIFFE CALLS FOR TRUTH ABOUT THE WAR

London Times Takes a Gloomy View of the Situation and Sees No Prospect of Early Change.

LONDON, June 25.—A demand that "the truth about the war" be told to the nation is voiced by The Times in an editorial. It asserts that there is no immediate prospect of being able to compel the Germans to withdraw within their own frontiers, and that it will take months to provide the British forces with the big guns, high explosives, and machine guns which are necessary.

"The country has got to set its teeth," says The Times, "disregard confusing bulletins, and face the probability of a prolonged and unprogressive campaign in the west, while General von Mackensen's successful march probably has postponed a resumption of the Russian offensive for several months until they also are provided with guns and shells.

"To put it briefly, the Allies on both fronts are being held with no prospect of an early change. Moreover, the outlook in the Dardanelles, of which the less said the better, long ago ceased to offer prospects of a swift and easy diversion in the middle east."

The London Times is one of Lord Northcliffe's papers which has waged an energetic campaign for greater publicity in connection with the war. His attacks upon the British Government are credited with being largely responsible for the formation of the new coalition Ministry and the appointment of David Lloyd George as Minister of Munitions.

SAYS TEUTONIC ALLIES ARE ALMOST BANKRUPT

Peace Now Would Mean Their Financial Collapse, Neutral Banker Asserts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—A well-informed neutral banker, who returned recently from Vienna, gives The Times the following account of the financial position of Austria-Hungary and Germany:

"Money is plentiful in Austria—that is to say, paper money and silver and nickel coins. More than £300,000,000 ($1,500,000,000) of paper money has been issued in the Dual Monarchy since the beginning of the war. The gold covering for paper circulation has decreased during the same period from nearly £70,000,000 ($350,000,000) to about £30,000,000, ($150,000,000;) but gold is needed only for purchases of food and war materials from abroad, and these are restricted to a minimum.

"At one moment, when the Russians were nearly through the Carpathian passes and people in Budapest were looking for dwellings as far south as Agram, the capital of Croatia, Austrian paper was at a discount of more than 40 per cent. in Rumania, Switzerland, and other countries; but with the improvement of the military situation the discount fell, and it stands now at about 20 per cent.

"If hostilities were to cease, and peace were to be signed tomorrow, Austria-Hungary would immediately become bankrupt. She might be able to pay a dividend of 11 per cent. to her creditors, but not more.

"Germany would also be bankrupt, though in her case the dividend might be as high as 15 or 16 per cent.

"Austria-Hungary needs more than £20,000,000 ($100,000,000) in gold every year for the service of her foreign debt alone, and all the large Austro-Hungarian banks have heavy gold debts abroad.

"Of course, Austrian and German financiers are buoyed up by the belief that a huge war indemnity will be secured, and that the enemy will have to pay for all their expenditures."

RUSSIANS HURL GERMANS BACK ON THE DNIESTER

Some of Linsingen's Army, After Terrific Four-Day Battle, Are Driven Across the River.

LOSSES CALLED ENORMOUS

Army from Lemberg Also Halted in Attempt at Great Flanking Movement.

GERMANS ADMIT REVERSES

Say Foe Is Sacrificing Troops with Desperate Recklessness in Bessarabia as Well as Galicia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, June 25, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The first movement of the Germans after occupying Lemberg was to attempt to advance southeastward along the Lemberg-Beregane Railway, with the object of cutting off the Russian forces operating on the Dniester. This advance so far has been checked and on the Dniester itself the Russians are displaying great energy.

A large force of Germans which on Wednesday crossed the river near Zurawano has been jammed on to the bank and on to the islands. They have suffered enormous losses. Further east, near Halicz, a very mixed force of Austrians has been thrown back to the river. In these engagements Russian light and heavy artillery gave effective support.

The operations on the Dniester are at present the only clear feature of the general military situation. The struggle for possession of this important river means in any case delay and distraction for the Germans, and with the Russian Army in full fighting order and daily improving its technical resources and with an immense front for manoeuvring and counter-manoeuvring the possibilities for conjecture are practically unlimited.

For the moment of almost equal importance with the efforts of the army is a remarkable revival of activity in Russia itself. From all parts of the empire municipal and zemstvo workers, manufacturers, financiers and engineers are thronging to the cities with offers of help in the matter of army supplies.

Germans Repulsed at Three Points.

PETROGRAD, June 25.—This official statement on the progress of hostilities was given out tonight:

During the course of the night of June 24 and the whole of the following day in the Shavli region an artillery duel proceeded, with advance guard encounters on the front of Latzkovo-Popeliary and along the right bank of the Niemen River. To the west of the Middle Niemen the German offensive during the night, between the Kovno-Wirballen Railway and the Amalva marshes, was repulsed by our fire.

On the Narew front the fighting was confined to sharp artillery firing and local outpost encounters. The firing was most violent during the night of the 21st in the district of the Omulew and Orzyc Valleys. After artillery preparation the Germans took the offensive along these rivers, but were soon stopped. In this action we took in the Omulew section eighty prisoners, but in the Orzyc Valley we were forced to give way. One of our works was completely destroyed by the enemy's annihilating fire.

On the Vistula front, south of the Pilica, the enemy yesterday thrice attempted to make headway, with weak effectives, west of Coeleff, but were repulsed with great losses.

In the direction of Zolkiew and Lemberg there was no important change. The enemy attempted to attack us along the railway leading from Kamenka to Brzezany.

On the Dniester River during the night of the 23d we drove back beyond the river the remainder of the Germans who cross the previous day in the Kozany district. In the region of Martynoffstany on the evening of the 23d we captured the remnants of the enemy who had crossed the Dniester, altogether 15 officers and about 700 men.

Notwithstanding the disastrous results of these crossings, the Germans and Austrians attempted the very same night to throw their forces across the Dniester by bridges constructed south of Bukaszowice, they having previously only crossed near the village of Rousedyvany. The fighting continues.

On the rest of the Dniester front below these points mentioned there is no change.

A previous bulletin dated the 23d, gave details of the repulse of the Teutonic forces by the Russians at three points on the Dniester. This reads:

There has been no important change on the Vindava and Dubysa Rivers.

On the front of the Narew and Vistula there have been only small outpost affairs.

Calm has prevailed on the Tanew front.

In the direction of Zolkiew and Lvov (Lemberg) the evening of the 22d and the whole of the 23d were occupied by the enemy in attempting to renew their ulterior offensive, seeking with particular obstinacy to advace in the direction of the villages of Czijikouff and Dimitrovze, along the railroad between Lvov and Brzezany. Nevertheless, thanks to our troops' energetic counter-attacks, these attempts failed.

On the front of Journavo-Demesskovitz there has been a fierce engagement which thus far has developed under conditions favorable to us.

Important German forces which on the morning of the 23d crossed in the Zozany region to the left bank of the Dniester suffered enormous losses. Driven back to the river, they were forced to assume the defensive under very difficult conditions, some of their troops being crowded on islands in the river and others clinging to the left bank.

Near Martyovo and our Rousedviany the Austrians crossed the left bank of the Dniester, but by impetuous counter-strokes our troops threw them back to the river. Up to 10 o'clock on the morning of the 23d the enemy lost about 40 officers and 1,700 men of various regiments, whom we took prisoners. The enemy is endeavoring to hold his ground in houses close to the river and is offering desperate resistance. In these fights our heavy and light artillery gave us effective support.

In the Kosmierjine district on the Dniester, southeast of Nijniff, our troops are taking the offensive. Approaching Mount Dezymianna, occupied and strongly organized by the enemy, they intrenched themselves and at dawn the 23d made a dashing assault on the mountain. The enemy, in the face of a bayonet attack, fell back in disorder to the second line of his works. Pressing close at his heels, our troops entered the works and put to the bayonet almost the entire garrison holding the hill. The remnants, consisting of 2 officers and 210 men, were made prisoners.

Berlin Admits Some Reverses.

BERLIN, (via London,) June 25.—With reference to the statement in today's official communication regarding General Linsingen's partial retirement to the south bank of the Dniester River, special dispatches received from Czernowitz, Bukowina, describe the desperate exertions of the Russians for several days to regain their lost ground on the Dniester line and in Bessarabia.

The fighting, according to these dispatches, has been uninterrupted for four days and nights, and the Russians wasted the lives of their troops by recklessly marching them in masses into the Austrian fire. Large heaps of Russian dead, it is asserted, lie before the Austrian trenches.

The fighting is declared to be particularly desperate eastward of Zale Szczyky. The Russians are said to be charging repeatedly along the river. At a few places they have succeeded in fighting their way to near the Austrian position, but suffered frightful losses and were compelled to retire before the determined Austrian resistance.

Similar scenes, it is asserted, are being enacted daily in Bessarabia. The Russians fighting here have been recruited chiefly from the Home Guards and by levies on the eastern provinces.

Following is the official account of the operations along the eastern front issued by the War Office:

The Village of Kopaczyska, which we recaptured the day before yesterday, was evacuated again yesterday. (Kopaczyska is on the Omulew River, in Poland, sixteen miles northwest of Ostrolenka.) Southeast of Schocrzele, in the neighborhood of the Village of Stegna, our troops penetrated, after stubborn fighting at close quarters, into a part of the enemy's line and established themseles there.

In the southeastern theatre troops under General von Woyrech crossed the territory south of the Ilza during their pursuit.

The situation in the army under Field Marshal von Mackensen generally is unchanged.

Northwest of Halicz parts of the army under General von Linsingen had to be withdrawn before superior enemy counter-attacks at Martinow toward the southern bank of the Dniester. Further up the stream we are making progress in our attack, the left wing of the army standing at Chodorow.

VIENNA, June 25, (via London.)—The following official communication was issued today:

Between Halicz and Zurawna (in Galicia) fighting is proceeding. Counter-attacks by the Russians on the north bank of the Dniester have been repulsed. Our attack is progressing.

Advancing from Zydaczow yesterday we captured Chodorow. Otherwise the situation on the Dniester is unchanged, as is the case with the situation east of Lemberg and near Rawa Ruska and on the Tanew, (to the northwest of Lemberg.)

In Poland the allied troops are pursuing the Russians, who are retreating toward Zawichost, Ozarow, and Sienno.

AUSTRIAN PRESS HEADQUARTERS, (via London,) July 25.—The results of the success achieved by General von Boehm-Ermolli's army in taking Lemberg and in the battles to the east of the Galician capital are making themselves felt also on the Dniester.

Since taking Mikolaiow this army has been operating with General Linsingen's army to the south and has been pressing the Russians back irresistibly upon their positions north of the Dniester.

The Russians are offering a desperate resistance on the Dniester, especially in the centre, to permit their retreating armies to save themselves and their war material. The retreat of the Russians along the San and in the angle of the Vistula continues under conditions which are bringing successful results to the pursuing army of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand.

TOOK 130,000 GERMANS IN 7 WEEKS' RETREAT

Russians Also Said to Have Captured 60 Cannon and 300 Machine Guns.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—The Petrograd correspondent of The Daily Mail, commenting on the fact that the Russian Army has remained intact during seven weeks' retreat in Galicia, says this army has inflicted tremendous losses on the enemy, having captured in the course of these operations 130,000 men, nearly 300 machine guns, and 60 cannon. He continues:

"That the Russian flanks are firm is proved by their successes on the Dniester and Tanew Rivers. The military organ, the Russky Invalide, suggests that the only thing that now matters is to keep the enemy occupied while Russia's allies in the west are getting up strength.

"It is generally conceded that the Russians will evacuate more territory if it is necessary in order to find favorable positions on which to make a stand."

CZAR'S RULE IN LEMBERG.

Germans Say Families of Ex-Officials Were Reduced to Beggary.

BERLIN, June 25, (via London.)—The Berlin Tageblatt has received a dispatch from its correspondent at Lemberg descriptive of the situation in that city, which reads as follows:

"Reviewing the nine months' rule of the Russians in Lemberg, it is found that among the chief sufferers in the Galician capital are certain former Government officials whose salaries could no longer be paid.

"Prominent families were reduced to begging in the streets, and compelled to satisfy their hunger in the kitchens of other people. Well-known men of Lemberg chopped and sold wood, while their wives baked and peddled bread and cakes around the city.

"The prices of food reached exorbitant figures. Butter cost six crowns ($1.20) per kilogram, (2.20 pounds, or equivalent to 55 cents a pound.) The City of Lemberg issued emergency two-crown notes which, however, had a barter value of only one crown.

"Regular Russian policemen and Cossacks patroled the city. The schools were permitted to stay open only with the express consent of the Military Governor. At least five hours every week had to be devoted to the study of the Russian language. Only textbooks approved for use in Russian schools were permitted in Lemberg. The Russian calendar was introduced. Certain prominent residents favorable to Russia assisted the invaders, and one of these, M. Gluszkiewicz, a well-known Ruthenian leader, was later rewarded by being named Mayor of Przemysl.

"All men of military age were taken into custody by the Russian authorities, as were also all pensioned Austrian and Hungarian officers. These included General Ryck, a veteran of Sebastopol, over 80 years of age.

"The Russian municipal officials began leaving the city the latter part of May, and all had disappeared before Lemberg fell. Emperor Nicholas paid one visit to the Galician capital while it was under Russian control. Ruthenian books were destroyed by the Russian authorities, and the exchange of telegrams and letters in the Ruthenian language was prohibited.

Stops Aid to Russians in Germany.

BERLIN, June 25, (via London.)—The Russian Aid Committee, which has been receiving money steadily from the Russian Government to assist needy Russians in Germany, today announced the suspension of its work, it being stated that the Russian Government had discontinued sending money. The committee has been supporting between 5,000 and [illegible] persons.

WITH GAS AND FLAME GERMANS MAKE GAIN

They Win Ground on the Meuse Heights, but Paris Reports They Lost It Again.

SUCCESS IN THE ARGONNE

The Kaiser's Forces, According to Berlin, Have Carried a Trench and Two Blockhouses There.

LONDON, June 25.—A successful night attack by the Germans on the Heights of the Meuse, with the aid of asphyxiating bombs and flaming liquids, is recorded in the official bulletin from Paris.

The assailants are said to have recovered part of their lost second line of trenches, but, according to the French report, they were thrown out by a vigorous counter-attack, and a second assault failed.

The Berlin account of the day's operations makes no reference to this engagement, which was apparently very violent, but tells of taking another trench and two blockhouses on the western border of the Argonne.

There has been considerable fighting in the region north of Arras. The French say that they are making progress between Souchez and Angers. This is to the northeast of Souchez and on the direct road toward Lens, the main objective of the French campaign in this sector.

The afternoon bulletin says:

In the region to the north of Arras French troops last night delivered an attack between Angres and Souchez, and made further progress. In the Labyrinth a German counter-attack has been repulsed. This engagement was followed by a violent bombardment of our trenches, to which our batteries made reply.

In the Champagne district, near Rheims, as well as in the region of Perthes, the enemy yesterday and during last night exploded two groups of mines, but did not deliver any infantry attack. They were not even able to occupy the excavations made by these mine explosions.

In the Argonne and at Vauquois the fighting with mines continues, and there occurred several local engagements in which the throwing of bombs and of hand-grenades was a feature.

On the heights of the Meuse, at the Calonne trench, the Germans last evening delivered a very violent attack along our entire front, accompanied by the hurling of asphyxiating bombs and flaming liquids. After having succeeded in penetrating that portion of their former second line of defenses which we occupied, they were thrown out of these positions by an energetic counter-attack on our part. At midnight the enemy attempted a further offensive return. The assailants found themselves under a fire from our barriers and they were dispersed with heavy losses.

In Lorraine the enemy yesterday on two different occasions endeavored to retake the positions he had lost near Leintrey. He was completely repulsed.

In the Vosges two German infantry attacks were checked by our artillery and infantry fire. They were delivered against our trenches at Reichackerkupf, after a violent artillery bombardment.

A German aviator yesterday threw five bombs on the sanitarium at Zuydcoote, but without doing any damage.

The night bulletin says:

Of the region to the north of Arras there is only to report today a rather violent cannonading to the north of Souchez and to the north of Neuville and an engagement with grenades to the east of the Labyrinth.

At La Boisselle (east of Albert) the enemy has exploded two mines without any result.

Between the Oise and the Aisne there has been artillery firing, particularly in the region of Quennevières.

To the west of the Argonne a few engagements with grenades enabled us to make some slight progress.

In the Vosges a German attack at the Hilgenfirst was repulsed. In the course of the counter-attack which we made June 23 in the region of San-de-Sapt we captured four machine guns and a large quantity of rifle cartridges and grenades.

The German Headquarters statement reads:

We captured several machine guns after hand-to-hand fighting south of Souchez. Repeated enemy advances against the Labyrinth positions were repulsed.

On the western border of the Argonnes an attack of a French battalion against our new positions, which we have pushed forward, broke down under heavy losses. During the final thrust we took another trench and two blockhouses. Three additional machine guns and three minethrowers were captured.

In the Meuse hills attacks, commenced by the French to the west of Detranches, failed completely. East of Detranches we recaptured a stubbornly defended communication trench from the enemy.

At Leintrey, east of Lunéville, minor enemy enterprises were repulsed.

SAYS ALLIES USED GAS BEFORE GERMANS DID

Berlin Statement Cites Alleged French War Ministry Note—Calls Gas Humane Weapon.

BERLIN, June 25, (via London.)—A semi-official statement has been issued here explaining and defending the German use of asphyxiating gases.

The first point made is that the British and French employed such gases before the Germans, and in addition to the earlier statement of the German official war reports concerning such alleged use, the statement now cites the text of a communication said to have been issued by the French Ministry of War describing two sorts of projectiles designed to produce a stifling gas and the mode of their usage. This communication is said to have been dated Feb. 21, before the Germans employed gas in their attack upon Ypres.

This circular, which, it is claimed, emanated from the French War Ministry, is headed "Remarks Upon Projectiles with Stifling Gases," and says among other things:

"So-called projectiles with stifling gases produced in our central workshop contain a fluid which pours out after explosion gases which inflame the eyes, nose, and throat. There are two sorts thereof—hand grenades and cartridges."

The circular then purports to describe both kinds of the projectiles, remarking, "the purpose of the hand grenade is to make the vicinity and place where it is exploded untenable. Its effectiveness is materially decreased by a strong wind. The cartridges are intended for use at a greater distance than the grenades. They can be thrown or fired from a pocket pistol. They have the same purposes as the grenades, but owing to the small amount of fluid, they should be fired in considerable numbers simultaneously."

Under the heading "precautionary measures to be employed in attacks in which such projectiles with stifling gases are thrown," the circular says the vapors caused by such projectiles will not prove fatal, at least in small quantities, and that their effects will be only of temporary duration, depending on atmospheric conditions. The attacking troops, it adds, should be provided with protective glasses and instructed that unpleasant sensations in the nose and throat are not dangerous and will not be permanent.

The German statement refers to alleged reports published in American newspapers that the Lusitania carried 250,000 pounds of tetrachloride of tin consigned to the French Government and intended for the production of asphyxiating gases.

Speaking of alleged efforts to arouse American sympathies against Germany for her use of the gas, the statement says the proviso against the use of gas in The Hague Convention, adopted against the votes of the American delegates, was added to the protocol that it had not been proved that shells with asphyxiating gases were an inhuman or unnecessarily cruel method of war.

The German statement finally compares the use of gas with the inundation of fighting areas, instancing the flooding of the region of Nieuport by the Belgians some time ago, and argues that both methods are equally humane and that an enemy merely needs to withdraw to escape their effects.

WARNS BRITISH TO EAT LESS MEAT

Runciman Sees Shortage Near—Government Doesn't Want to Take Control of Food.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—"In Flanders we have made provisions for defense, however great the attack. Our numbers there are adequate for any task, and our turn will come." Thus spoke Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, in an address at West Hartlepool last night.

"We are learning now," Mr. Runciman added, "how to deal with the submarine menace, and it is truer now than when the statement was made in April that we have enough explosives for our own use. We are also overcoming our shortage of munitions."

In a later speech Mr. Runciman reviewed the food situation. He stated that the Government was prepared to take drastic steps to prevent the exploitation of the people's needs for private gain. He warned millers that the price of flour must be reduced.

Mr. Runciman said that despite all the efforts of the Government there was certain to be a shortage of meat, and every man, woman, and child must eat two pounds less a month.

Summing up on food, the President of the Board of Trade said significantly: "The Government does not want to be forced into taking over the whole food supply of the population."

Touching on the coal situation, Mr. Runciman announced that prices "must be reduced forthwith."

TWO AMERICANS KILLED.

Others Taken Prisoners While Serving with Canadians.

OTTAWA, June 25.—Thomas Delaney of Buffalo was killed in action on June 11 and Lieutenant Charles Louring Clark of Chattanooga died of wounds on June 17, according to the casualty list of the Canadian expeditionary force issued here tonight.

Among prisoners listed were Alanson Himes of Seattle and William Douglas Charleson of the Bronx, New York City. John C. Richardson of Atlantic, Mass., is mentioned as suffering from shock.

The list includes the names of three who died from wounds, more than twenty wounded, and approximately the same number of prisoners, many of whom also were wounded.

FOOD FROM FRENCH SAVES LUXEMBURG

People of the Grand Duchy Near Starvation When the Supply Arrives.

PARIS, June 25.—The arrival in Luxemburg of the first consignment from Switzerland of foodstuffs, to be supplied until the harvest is reaped, caused the greatest rejoicing today in the Grand Duchy.

The situation in the Grand Duchy has been desperate for some time. At the end of March bread cards had been given the population, whose consumption of bread was limited to seven ounces daily, later this amount was reduced to four ounces.

In the middle of April the Mayor of Luxemburg announced that that city alone required 6,000 barrels of flour and 1,000 barrels each of barley, beans, and rice to stave off starvation until the crops were available. The country districts of the industrial town of Echternach are in an even worse plight.

The Luxemburg Government sought relief through the American Committee for Relief in Belgium, which, was powerless to act as it lacked the cooperation of Great Britain and Germany. The British Government held that as Germany had forcibly occupied the Grand Duchy she must feed the population. This Germany formally refused to do, whereupon Great Britain declined to permit the passage by way of Holland of foodstuffs destined for the Grand Duchy.

France, however, always sympathetic toward her French-speaking neighbor, and grateful for the generous assistance rendered to French refugees in the northern departments by the Luxemburgers, consented to supply the needs of the people by way of Switzerland under proper guarantees. These have now been furnished in the person of Swiss officers, who accompany every train and who are charged with the control and disposition of the flour and the right to inspect warehouses.

Needham's Body Coming Home.

PARIS, June 25.—The body of Henry Beach Needham, the American writer who was killed last week in an aeroplane accident, which also resulted in the death of Lieutenant R. A. J. Warneford of the British Royal Naval Flying Corps, was transported yesterday from Versailles to the St. Lazare Station. From this station the body will be sent to Bordeaux, there to be placed aboard a ship for America.

ASSAIL PRISON CAMPS.

Conditions in France Found Unsatisfactory, Berlin Asserts.

BERLIN, June 25, (by Wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—Included in the news items given out today by the Overseas News Agency were the following:

"A dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, says that Drs. Eugeter and Demarval have published reports of visits to French prison camps, in the majority of which they declare conditions were unsatisfactory in one way or another. Either the sanitary conditions were poor, or the food poor, or the commanders or supervisors of the camp tactless, the doctors reported. Occasionally, they said, prisoners were compelled to work in the hot sun for ten or eleven hours without suitable protection for the head by straw hats, many who were unused to such work succumbing to the hardships.

"Many camps, the doctors added, contained wounded prisoners who were in need of hospital treatment. Punishment for breaches of discipline, they declared, was very rigorous, the only exception being the prison ships at Bordeaux, the prisoners on board making no compaint of their treatment.

"A Vienna dispatch says that Baron Spigelfeld, delegate of the Austrian Red Cross, and Colonel Subotisch, the Servian delegate, have met in Sofia and discussed the fate of the Austrian prisoners in Serbia. It was finally agreed that Serbia would permit the sending in of provisions and medicine. Investigation of conditions by a neutral commission, consisting of the American Minister at Bucharest, the Spanish Military Attaché at Nish, and a Swiss surgeon resulted, it is stated, in a declination of the Austrian proposal to removal of all prisoners to a neutral country at Austria's cost."

ITALIANS ADVANCE ALONG THE ISONZO

Capture Globna, North of Plava, and Push Further Toward Trieste.

DAMAGE MALBORGETH FORT

Progress Slowly but Steadily Toward Tarvis, Strategic Centre for the Invasion of Austria.

ROME, June 25.—A gradual advance along the Isonzo River, with the occupation of Globna, north of Plava, and the edge of the plateau between Sagrado and Monfalcone, is announced in the latest official statement issued last night at the headquarters of the Italian General Staff. The communication follows:

In the Tyrol-Trentino region and in Cadore there have been methodical artillery actions. At the same time we have been maintaining our activity along the front by means of reconnoissances by small detachments, and thus we have had successful encounters at Carcano and Val Cismon and toward the plateau of Vezzens.

In Carnia we continued an intense artillery fire, particularly against Malborgeth. Our projectiles today penetrated the cupola of Fort Heisel.

The night of the 22d-23d the usual vain attacks of the enemy were repeated against our positions at Val Grande and Val Piccolo. In the region of Monte Nero we extended our occupation toward the north as far as the slopes Javazoeky and made fifty-seven prisoners. In this region we began firing against the Bay of Plezzo.

Along the Isonzo we are advancing gradually, reinforcing ourselves in positions on the right bank of the river. We thus have occupied Globna, north of Plava, and on the lower Isonzo we have captured the edge of the plateau between Sagrado and Monfalcone.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, June 25, [dispatch to The London Daily News.]—Not the least important of the operations reported today by General Cadorna are measures being taken to check any new attack in the Monte Nero region.

It has been clear that the Austrians meant to use the Plezzo Valley to organize heavy gun fire on the Monte Nero position. The Italians by seizing Javazocky Heights have turned the tables and their own gun fire now commands the Plezzo basin and restricts the movements of the enemy in that direction. The move is valuable, not only as countering an immediate danger, but as consolidating the hold on Monte Nero.

The dash on Globna, north of Plava, and the capture of this position is held by critics here to be a further menace against Goritz. General Cadorna's strategy is so clearly concealed that the Austrians must be perplexed to know which is the immediate objective east of the Isonzo—Tolmino or Goritz.

The group of forts in the Malborgeth sector are showing powers of resistance which were hardly expected when the results of the first day's bombardment were announced. Fort Helsel already reported seriously damaged now has a cupola smashed and the process of demolition seems to be following the course witnessed in the case of the Belgian fortresses.

If the work here appears slow it must be remembered that on several occasions the communiqués have mentioned that thick fogs hampered the bombardment. The latest news indicates that with the exception of one point there has been a cessation of Austrian counter-attacks made with the object of preventing the consolidation of positions won by the Italians.

UDINE, Italy, June 25.—Slowly, owing to the difficulties of mountain warfare, but steadily and with grim determination, Italian forces are advancing both from the east along the Fella Valley and from the south through Predil Pass, toward Tarvis, which is the pivot of the classical roads along which every great invasion of Austria from Italy has occurred.

From Javorcek, which is about 5,000 feet high, the heavy artillery of the Italians is sweeping the valley below as far as Plezzo, which lies four miles away in a direct line. The big guns also dominate the whole valley of the upper Isonzo River, and threaten Predil fort. Though the defenses did not prevent Napoleon from passing this position in 1797, these fortifications and also those in the Fella Valley were strengthened and coordinated in 1904. The Hermann and Raibl forts have been provided with the best modern artillery of the widest range.

The plan of General Cadorna, the Italian Commander in Chief, seems to be to attempt an invasion of Austria through the region around Tarvis, threatening the right wing of the Austrian army having headquarters at Laibach and obtaining as an immediate consequence relief from the pressure of the Austrian forces massed along the Tolmino-Goritz-Trieste front.

VIENNA, (via London,) June 25.—The following official report on the operations on the Italian frontier was issued today:

On the Tyrolean-Carinthian frontier there have been several artillery combats. On the frontier coast district east of Rohini two enemy attacks early this morning were repulsed. Heavy artillery fire has been directed against the bridgehead at Goritz and the height that borders the plateau of Cormons.

ITALIAN PRESS ANGRY OVER PAPAL INTERVIEW

Accepts Its Correctness and Censures the Pope for Giving It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—The Rome correspondent of The Morning Post says:

"It is now only too obvious that the Pope's interview with the editor of La Liberté is substantially correct, for all that the Vatican official organ, the Osservatore Romano, can say is that it contains several inaccuracies, which the Osservatore does not think it worth while to specify, and that the Pope's opinion is to be sought in his various official letters.

"Furthermore, the clerical agency, La Corrispondenza, states that the Pope granted an audience and expressed his opinions on the war to M. Latapie of La Liberté, desiring to affirm two points—that the French judge of the Holy See's action with little justice and that the law of guarantees by its nature limits the Pope's liberty of action.

"Thus his Holiness admittedly gave an interview to the French correspondent, and it seems a curious proceeding to have chosen a foreign journalist as the vehicle of making complaints against the Italian Government. This morning's comments already justify the Corriere della Sera's remark that if the interview were not categorically and exhaustively denied, which is not the case, it would provoke a painful sense of stupor in Italy. 'It seemed, indeed, impossible,' the leading Milanese journal says, 'that the Pope should have expressed himself in such a form.'

"The Messagero says: 'Every one admits the delicacy of the Papacy's position, but this cannot justify the Pope's indiscretions to Lapatie. We will not pause to consider what he said about Belgium and France, whence complaints have already begun to arrive, nor will we examine the enormity of the theory expressed about the sinking of the Lusitania. We will limit ourselves to that portion of the interview regarding Italy, his native country. What prevents the Pope from hearing both sides? If he cannot communicate with Austria, the fault is Austria's. Roman Catholics will be the first to deplore this attitude of the Pope, who has lost a golden opportunity of silence.'

"The Tribuna remarks that the Pope's words are certain to provoke the liveliest discussions in France and Belgium and will have a consequence likely to survive the present crisis.

"The Idea Nazionale says the interview, if true, would constitute a blunder such as nothing in the Pope's past career would authorize the people to ascribe to him. A Pope who could use such arguments could not be Benedict XV."

POPE BLESSES SOLDIERS.

Sends His Benediction by the Chief Army Chaplain.

Il Progresso Italo-Americano printed yesterday the following special dispatch from its Rome correspondent, dated June 24:

"Mgr. Angelo Bortolomasi, who was recently appointed chief chaplain of the army and navy, has arrived here. He has received his instructions from the Government, but before departing for headquarters he was received by the Holy Father.

"Pope Benedict XV. wished to be informed in every detail concerning the agreements made with General Zuppelli and the Hon. Salandra in regard to the duties imposed upon him as 'ordinarius castrensis,' (camp ordinary.)

"The Holy Father had tears in his eyes and pronounced a discourse which ended with the following words:

"'Go and bear to the field of battle the Papal benediction. Fulfill your ministry with energy and wisdom. Be an example to others for the fulfilment of their duties and a comfort to those who shall be ignorant, and have praise for those who do their duty. I give you entire spiritual power to absolve and to bless.'

"Mgr. Bortolomasi, who had listened to the words of the Holy Father kneeling, then arose and kissed the hand of the Pontiff, who in his turn threw his arms about the prelate's neck and embraced him with emotion."

DENIES CAPTURE OF PLAVA.

Vienna Foreign Office Says Austrians Still Hold the Place.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Foreign Office advices to the Austro-Hungarian Embassy here today say Plava still is held by the Austrians and deny the claim that Italian troops have broken through. The telegram says:

"In the face of the false reports from the Italian headquarters our press bureau states that Plava is still held firmly by us. These positions were ordered taken at any cost by the Italian King, according to the statement of prisoners. The Italians have never broken through, although they lost thousands in field attack only. At least 3,000 unburied dead lie before our positions. Our losses are considerably smaller.

ASKS DAMAGES OF ITALY.

Germany Wants Indemnity for Wrecked Property in Milan.

BERLIN, June 25, (by Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The Overseas News Agency today gave out the following:

"Germany has requested the Swiss Government to ask the Italian Government to fix, through a Swiss Commission, damages suffered by Germans during the Milan riots at the time Italy was entering the war."

DIDN'T KNOW ROXBURGH.

German Submarine Ignorant of the Damage to the Cruiser.

AMSTERDAM, (via London,) Saturday, June 26.—German newspapers received here, giving the official version of the torpedoing of the British cruiser Roxburgh several days ago, show that the Germans are unaware of either the name of the vessel or the damage done to her.

"On the 20th," says the official report, "one of our submarines attacked, about 100 sea miles from the Firth of Forth, a British armored cruiser, apparently of the Minotaur class. The torpedo got home, but its effect could not be observed from the submarine."

The British Admiralty, in a communication issued June 23, said that the Roxburgh had been struck by a torpedo in the North Sea last Sunday. The statement added that the damage to the cruiser was not serious, that she had been able to proceed under her own steam, and that there were no casualties on board.

ENGLISH WOMEN AID IN GETTING RECRUITS

Volunteer Reserve Corps Doing Work of Men in Their Military Organization.

SOME DRILL WITH ARMS

Squads Open Canteens in Manufacturing Towns to Encourage Temperance.

Opening "soft drink" canteens in big manufactories where temperance on the part of the men is particularly desirable is one of the lines of work in which the Women's Volunteer Reserve of England have undertaken for their country, according to a recent letter from England. These are the women who formed a women's military organization, took physical training, and studied first aid to the injured and nursing. They wear a regular uniform and are ready to help defend their country should they be required to do so in a last resort.

The first canteen which they opened is a direct aid to the army. It is in the ammunition works at the Woolwich Arsenal, where there had been numerous complaints of the excessive drinking among the men. The Marchioness of Londonderry, who is one of the leaders of the Volunteer Reserve, had an idea that if the men could have good food and plenty of non-intoxicating beverages they would be less likely to go outside the factories to drink. The women got in touch with the authorities, and, after several interviews, obtained permission from the Government to make the attempt.

They believe that it was largely because of their organization, because they were a trained corps, in uniform, accustomed to discipline and to take and carry out orders, that they obtained privilege. The women canteen workers are under the immediate supervision of their Colonel, Mrs. Charlesworth, who had much to do with the details of starting the canteen. They work in two shifts of four hours each. The canteen has proved very popular with the men, and the Volunteer Reserve has been asked to open others.

Another work the women have done has been to go out in bands, organized by Sir George Hastings, to enroll recruits from his Majesty's army. Big recruiting processions have been held in which the women, with their military bearing, fitted excellently. The women officers talked to the working men at the noon hour and persuaded them to enlist. The soldier women were asked to undertake this work by the military authorities.

There is nothing too humble or too menial for them to do to aid their country, the reservists say. They will take care of the wounded men when they are brought in from the front or they will take the places of the civilians who have enlisted. One of the branches in the north of England supplies women tram drivers and conductors from among its members, and other women drive vans for business houses or act as private chauffeurs.

Another line of work for the daughters of military and naval officers which is being undertaken by other women is in the line of gardening. Special terms have been given them at a woman's school for gardening and dairy farming, where they will at first take a short course. With the gardening will go the cleaning and packing of vegetables and fruit for the market and in the dairy they will learn to milk, feed the cows and chickens, pack eggs, and dress poultry for market. This course will prepare them for the late Summer and Fall, as extra hands, when the press of work comes, and they will return to the school in the Winter to prepare for permanent positions later. An effort has been made to get women into big bakeries, but the work is too heavy for them.

COMMISSION TO START POLAND'S AUTONOMY

Six Russians and Six Poles to Work Out the Preliminaries.

PETROGRAD, June 25.—The Russian Council of Ministers today decided to appoint a commission composed of six Russians and six Poles, under the presidency of Premier Goremykin, to deal with the preliminaries necessary to the carrying into effect of autonomy for Poland, which was proclaimed by Grand Duke Nicholas, Commander in Chief of the Russian Army, on Aug. 14 of last year.

NEW BRITISH LOAN OPEN TO FOREIGNERS

Bank of England Will Receive Subscriptions—Home Applications Already $750,000,000.

LONDON, June 25.—It is officially announced that the Bank of England is prepared to receive applications for the new war loan from abroad.

It is stipulated that tlegraphic advices from the foreign applicant must be received by the bank, and the necessary 5 per cent. deposit paid before July 10.

A total of £150,000,000 ($750,000,000) in round numbers of the new loan had been applied for at London banks up to noon today, according to a statement published in The Evening Standard.

The very large applications, in other words the requests reaching into the millions, are being held back until next week. The present subscriptions are mostly for small or moderate amounts.

Local bankers stated yesterday that no arrangements had been made here by banks to handle applications for the new British war loan. No systematic effort will be made to sell the bonds here, it is stated. Englishmen in this country can, of course, subscribe to the loan in any amount.

There has been talk in the financial district of floating a British loan in this country. Such a plan, it is thought, would involve the deposit by the British Government of American securities as collateral. This procedure will be adopted with the $30,000,000 French loan which has been placed here.

WAR CRIPPLES' NEW TRADES

French School Training 150 to be Self-Supporting.

BOURGES, France, June 25.—The school opened here for the re-education of maimed soldiers is operating with great success. The number of pupils enrolled already is 150, nearly all of whom will be unable to work at the trades by which they earned their living before the war, and must learn some new means of making a livelihood.

A staff of eminent physicians is faithfully attending the unfortunates, preparing them for their changed future and helping to lighten their tasks. Among the instructors are former teachers who are themselves cripples.

In spite of their afflictions, the students go about their work gayly. Men who before the war were grocers, plasterers, barbers, and miners, are now designing patterns for lace, while farm hands and butcher boys are taking courses in electricity and architecture. The course in stenography and accounting is the most popular, the pupils including a former head waiter, a carpet layer, and a gardener.

HOLLWEG VS. TIRPITZ.

London Times Speculates on Kaiser's Attitude to Their Disagreement

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—The London Times, commenting editorially on the suspension of the Deutsche Tageszeitung and the dispute between Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg and Admiral von Tirpitz, of which it was the outcome, says: "The matter of real moment is, we need hardly say, what the War Lord may think about this pretty squabble between his leading servants and even what underhand part he may have in it himself. It is not likely that Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg would have administered such a sounding slap in the face to his adversaries without some measure of approval 'from above.' But the degree or the object of that approval may have been misunderstood.

"Other Chancellors in the past have failed to interpret correctly the Imperial mind. It is, at least, conceivable that the Emperor might desire to get rid of a statesman whose diplomacy has been unhappy and who is distinctly unpopular. If he did entertain such a wish he might think it expedient to give the discredited Minister encouragement to get himself into an embarrassing position and then give him the coup de grace by a sudden withdrawal of the 'all highest' countenance. We cannot but remember that it was newspaper controversies which proved fatal to Count Caprivi when the Cologne Gazette criticised Count Philip zu Eulenburg and the camarilla and to Prince von Bülow when his Majesty's famous interview made its highly inopportune appearance in The Daily Telegraph.

"The precedents are ominous. But on the other hand, the Supreme War Lord may really share the views of the Chancellor, be afraid of complications with the United States and think it high time to put a curb upon the recklessness of Grand Admiral Tirpitz and his adherents.

"To guess at the real forces at work under a soil so honeycombed with intrigue as that which the German official circles tread is always rash and is doubly rash in war time. We shall not make the attempt with our present imperfect information. We content ourselves with noting this first open sign of a serious discrepancy in the judgments of the German military and German civil authorities on the war."

VON TIRPITZ WOULD FIGHT US.

His Policy at Stake in German Reply, Says Neutral Observer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—The Daily Chronicle publishes this morning a report of an interview with a citizen of a neutral country, who, since the war began, has paid several visits to Germany, where he established friendly relations with many public men. He is described as a man of impartial mind and neutral in his mental attitude. He says in part in this interview:

"It is not in material things but in the psychology of the German people that one may find any possibility of the breakdown of military ambitions, and even in that respect there is no outward sign of weakness. On the whole the Germans are confident of ultimate victory. They cannot bring themselves to view the possibility of suing for peace. Nevertheless, underneath all this confidence, there is a sense of profound sadness at the enormous and terrible cost which has to be paid in human life.

"The intelligent people of all classes fully realize this tragic price of war and the future seems to them full of uncertainty and distress. They cannot perceive how the war is going to end. The first flame of their hatred for England has died down, and in spite of the ridicule and contempt flung upon the British army in Flanders, they acknowledge that Great Britain will go on and on without yielding, so that the war is likely to continue for a long time, with its never-ceasing slaughter of Germany's manhood.

"So far the sadness of the people at the brooding horror which hangs over them has had no effect upon the military or diplomatic situation.

"In my opinion, there is no prospect whatever of a revolution in Germany, either during or after the war, unless the Hohenzollern dynasty is overthrown by the Allies. The spirit of the German people is essentially antagonistic to revolution, and the democracy will try to gain greater liberties without bloodshed or civil disorder. The German Emperor is still very popular, although he has very little power, either in the war zone or in diplomacy.

"The political ambitions of Germany are represented by two opposing forces, those of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and Admiral von Tirpitz. The Chancellor has adopted moderate and peaceful views as to the claims of Germany in this war and the terms likely to result from it. He is opposed to permanent dominion over Belgium and to the ambitious schemes of an imperial aggrandizement.

"Admiral von Tirpitz, on the other hand, represents the extreme militarism party of the Junkers, who hold that now is the time to smash the British Empire and to enrich Germany out of the spoils of this destruction. His plan is to make peace with Russia, to break through the French and British lines to Calais, and to concentrate all power of attack upon England alone.

"To further this plan he and his party advocate war with America in order that the submarine attacks upon British shipping may be unhampered by having to respect American vessels. Upon the rival influences of the Chancellor and the Admiral will depend the final answer to the American note."

SAYS MASSES WANT PEACE.

Liebnecht Tells Deputies Public Is with the Socialists.

BERLIN, (via London,) June 25.—The debate in the Prussian Chamber of Deputies yesterday, in which the attitude of the German people toward peace was discussed by Progressive and Socialist members, who were answered by a Government official, the Minister of the Interior, is attracting considerable attention.

Herr Braun, Herr Wiener, and Dr. Karl Liebknecht took part in the exchanges. The morning newspapers report the proceedings substantially as follows:

Herr Wiener, Progressive, cited with signs of approval from the members an article by Hugo Heinemann, Socialist, to the effect that no German wanted peace until Germany's enemies were willing to concede her right to develop her economic and cultural powers.

To this statement Dr. Karl Liebknecht, one of the Socialist leaders, interjected:

"We have the masses with us, and the masses want peace."

"We are convinced that the co-operation of all parties and classes is essential, and that it means German victory. In this co-operation is found the guarantee that we will hold out, and that we will be spared from such dastardly attacks in the future."

Herr Braun, Socialist, was the next speaker. He said the Socialists did not deny that the German people must stand together against their innumerable enemies. He referred to the fact that certain persons were talking about continuing the war in order to realize "wild plans of annexation." A great majority of the German people, he said, wished imperatively that no opportunity for securing an early peace be lost, and they emphatically rejected annexation plans of all kinds, particularly such as had been advocated by one German ruler.

Democracy was opposed to these objectionable projects, he said, if only for the reason that they prolonged wars and the consequent unheard-of sacrifices and wasting of the strength of the people.

"The German people want no conquests," Herr Braun declared; "they want no annexations. They do want peace without bringing humiliation or subjection to other peoples."

Herr Delbrueck, Prussian Minister of the Interior, made answer to Herr Braun in part as follows:

"While we are involved in such a war as this we can have but one thought, namely, to terminate it in a way that will make a repetition impossible. That is the goal which the Imperial Chancellor and the allied Governments have set themselves, and that is the goal you must strive for along with us."

These words from the Minister were greeted with evidences of disapproval from the Socialist members present.

HOKE SMITH ASSAILS NOTE.

Believes We Should Take Retaliatory Action Toward Great Britain.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 25.—Great Britain's memorandum in regard to her blockade of neutral European ports to American goods was attacked bitterly by Senator Hoke Smith today. Senator Smith in a formal statement said that the fate of Southern cotton was at stake, for unless the 2 markets were opened soon the price would remain low, and, furthermore, if Great Britain were permitted to continue the blockade, 3,000,000 bales of cotton would be cut off from foreign markets. In his statement Senator Smith said:

"If Congress were in session we could force Great Britain, by a retaliatory embargo placed upon munitions of was to recognize our rights and to withdraw her blockade of neutral ports. Our people should present to the Administration the fact that we have it in our power at once to notify Great Britain that we will not continue to give her neutral privileges while she stops our neutral rights.

"Great Britain is obliged to have the neutral privileges she now enjoys with the United States, and if she knew that they would be taken from her unless she regarded our neutral rights, we would be at once restored the privilege of shipping cotton and other noncontraband goods into Northern European ports, even though the ultimate destination of these goods were Germany."

FRYE NOTE ON THE WAY.

Will Be Published on Monday—Drafting New Note to England.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The reply of the United States to the recent German note dealing with the demand for payment of damages for the destruction of the American sailing ship William P. Frye has been cabled to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, and will be made public in this country next Monday morning.

Sufficient facts on detention of American ships and cargoes by the British have not yet been gathered by the State Department to complete the new note to Great Britain, which is under preparation.

Secretary Lansing disclosed today that the portion of the note dealing with the principles of the so-called blockade had long ago been outlined, but that officials had been absorbed in getting data on American ships and goods detained or seized. He intimated that the note, in its final form, would be a presentation of the academic principles involved in the blockade, as well as British practice under the Order in Council.

APPONYI ADMITS HIS FAILURE HERE

Hungarian Expresses Disappointment at Inability to Win American Sympathy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Count Albert Apponyi, in an interview with the Vienna correspondent of the Budapest journal, Pesti-Naplo, after an audience he had with the Emperor, referred to his experiences in the United States, saying:

"It was a most painful disappointment for me to see the majority of the American people, among them treasured friends of mine and people I came into contact with at the time of my former visits to the States, taking up an attitude so opposed to us.

"Through my American connection it was made possible for me to get a hearing in the American press, even in the most notorious anti-German organ, THE NEW YORK TIMES, and I used this opportunity to point out to my American friends that they were throwing away the beautiful rôle they were destined to play, that of acting as peacemakers, by their biased attitude. It would have been the everlasting glory of America to act up to the rôle circumstances ascribed to her and yet she brushed this historic task aside. I do not for a moment assert that my action in this regard will have any substantial effect, for individuals at this stage of the crisis cannot hope to interfere effectively."

[Count Apponyi is in error if he imagines that his "American connections," or any other influence than the judgment of THE TIMES as to the merit and interest of what he had to say was required to obtain for him, or is required to obtain for anybody, a hearing in THE TIMES.]

EXCUSES LUSITANIA HORROR

Staats-Zeitung's Report of Vollmer's Speech at Bryan Meeting.

Former Representative Henry Vollmer of Davenport, Iowa, speaking at the peace meeting that was addressed by William J. Bryan at Madison Square Garden on Thursday night, was reported as follows in yesterday's Staats-Zeitung:

"We must avoid war, even if our opinion has been influenced by months of agitation in the yellow press. We Westerners desire no war to maintain a right by which Americans presume to travel upon ammunition ships of a belligerent power, and that, too, in a war zone. We deside to provide no living shields for cargoes that consist exclusively of instruments of murder, an export trade that should long ago have been prohibited in the interests of neutrality and of 'fair play.' If this had been done, if the embargo which I submitted to Congress had been passed, we should today have peace, as even Kitchener, Lloyd George, and others have admitted.

"No one regrets more than I the loss of human life in the sinking of the Lusitania. But the Americans had sufficient warning. All knew that the ship would be torpedoed if possible. They voluntarily accepted the risk and preferred to trust the assurances of the Cunard Line officials that the ship was practically unsinkable, and that there was no danger. Now, it may be right that they had no need of listening to the warnings and that they had a right to sail. The question now is whether our Government shall continue, in cases such as that of the Lusitania, to guarantee the respecting of those rights. I can, for example, cross a street in which there is a shooting fray against which I have been warned. But the danger remains that one of the gun heroes may seek cover behind me and that I myself may be struck by a bullet of the other. The best solution is for me to travel on another way.

"The submarine is Germany's only mighty weapon against the superior sea power of its enemies. It is used by Germany against enemy merchant ships in retaliation for the attempt, repulsive to international law, to starve out a hundred million persons. To stop and search a merchant ship is superfluous when it has been ascertained that the ship has arms and ammunition aboard. As a matter of fact, the duty to give warning was sufficiently observed even before the Lusitania sailed from here. A cargo of arms entitled the Germans to destroy the Lusitania if they could not take it into a port. Moreover, the ship would probably not have sunk so rapidly if it had not been stuffed full of ammunition. At all events, no intentional murder of Americans took place, as has been asserted by the pro-Ally press of this city. The responsibility for the loss of the ship falls not only upon the Germans, but also upon the English and our own Government, as well as the Cunard Line and the passengers, all of whom must take upon themselves a part of the blame."

In the further course of his speech Mr. Vollmer remarked that the submarine boat had been created after the establishment of international laws, and that with it the old law, with its rule of blockade and search, must be altered. He then spoke about the attitude of the German-American to a war of the United States, and concluded with the words that, "We would stand by our country, but we must make loud and urgent demands for peace."

RIDDER ON BRYAN MEETING.

Calls It the Most Important Protest Ever Made Against War.

Herman Ridder, in the Staats-Zeitung, today makes the following comment on the Madison Square Garden meeting, at which ex-Secretary Bryan was the principal speaker:

It was unquestionably the most important protest against war that ever has been made in this country—the most important because it was the protest of the masses, who know war and all its miseries and who have to bear its burden.

It was a meeting of the people—the common, ordinary people of this city, who constitute the backbone of our population. A meeting, in other words, of the "masses"—those masses who in all lands and at all times have been opposed to war. It was a protest against the designs of those "classes" who, equally, in all lands and at all times have urged war that they might fatten upon the sacrifice of their fellow-beings.

There is an intense loyalty in Mr. Bryan to the highest ideals of the American people that has ever endeared him to the nation. An idol because he has idolized the best that he has found in his countrymen. The sacrifice which he has made by leaving the "gilded halls of Washington" that he may stand among the people—not "among but not of" them, but as a friend among friends, counseling and taking counsel—has increased manifoldly this feeling of affection and respect.

GOLD WATCH FOR BRYAN.

State Department Employes Present It to Ex-Secretary.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Employes of the State Department today presented to ex-Secretary Bryan an engraved gold watch. Every one in the department contributed to the fund with which the gift was purchased, and presentation was made by Cone Johnson, Solicitor of the department, accompanied by First Assistant Secretary Osborne and Third Assistant Secretary Phillips.

In accepting the watch Mr. Bryan said that he would treasure it particularly because he recognized that it was given as a personal token and not as "an expression of political attachment."

A DASH INTO AUSTRIA FROM SWISS BORDER

Travel Over a "Verboten" Road and Views of Men Along the Way.

AN AMERICANIZED CAPTAIN

Asks About Baseball War and Predicts a Stalemate in the European Conflict.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTA MARIA, Switzerland, May 20.—Santa Maria lies in a remote corner of Southeastern Switzerland. Within a stone's throw on one side you have Austria and on the other Italy. I went there, hoping to make my way over the Austrian frontier to Botzen, which lies between Innsbrück and Trieste. I expected a certain amount of difficulty, but war between Austria and Italy, however imminent, had not been declared, and my passport had received an imposing Austrian seal.

The diligence to Santa Maria starts from Zernetz and goes over the Offenberg Pass. The horses jingle their bells up the mountain side. There are hundreds of waterfalls, brooks tumbling down through the pine-deep ravines, high snow-clad peaks, and here and there a chamois to be seen; but it's a long affair. The whole trip costs six solid hours. The only other passenger beside myself was an Austrian from Tyrol, a somewhat stout, pleasant man smoking a porcelain pipe and reading a Swiss-German newspaper. Evidently there were several things in it he did not like. At first he tried to explain to me what they were; but as I speak little German and he spoke little French or English there was more or less of a deadlock between us. In general, though, it was the Italian intervention, and he shook his head and laughed nervously, and from time to time blurted out odd phrases. But he was not at all angry, he was simply concerned, anxious; and finally it was with a very merry twinkle in his eye that he nudged me and indicated with his pipe stem a line in the Austrian communiqué: "One hundred and twenty thousand Russian prisoners." Shortly afterward he had fallen into a contented, enviable sleep.

At Santa Maria there were a good many Swiss soldiers in the streets. I learned that their anxiety was fixed more upon the Italians than the Austrians. Or, in other words, lacking any real cause for anxiety, they hoped that, if trouble came, it might come from the south. In the meantime, however, time seemed to be hanging very heavily upon their hands. The diligence went on a little further to Münster, the last village before the Austrian frontier.

From Münster my Austrian acquaintance and I walked down the road until we came to a sort of gate, and a group of men seated in the grass—four Swiss soldiers and two Austrians. One of the Austrian soldiers rose, as we approached. He examined our papers casually for a moment, then, after shrugging his shoulders at my passport, went back and sat down. We passed on. The road went down hill a few hundred yards. Some minutes later we entered the Austrian village of Taufers.

Inside the Austrian Line.

Taufers is a queer little place, wooden houses with overhanging roofs clustered about a series of narrow winding streets, two or three churches, two or three ruined castles roundabout, numerous fountains running clearly in the sunlight, short, stocky gray cows tinkling through the village streets. There were a few soldiers, but scarcely a dozen or so in all. They seemed to be elderly men, over 40, belonging to the reserve. Unlike the Swiss, back there across the frontier, time for them seemed to be a pleasant thing. I remember two of them seated upon a wooden bench in front of a house, each in his corner and feet up on the bench, boot against boot. One had a massive black beard, both were smoking, and their common idea, as far as I could see, was to sit there thus as long as possible.

As there was a diligence from Taufers to Mals only next morning I decided to walk the distance and started off straightway along a sparkling little stream. I had hardly left the village a mile or so behind when there was a shout from a bit of hillside overlooking the road. Down came an Austrian soldier, coat open, rifle over his shoulder and perspiring profusely. He stood for a moment and laughingly found his breath, then asked me where I was going. I told him Mals. He said something about the road being "verboten" and if I wished to go to Mals I must get permission from the Herr Hauptmann at Taufers. So we returned together to Taufers. He spoke a very little French. In peace times it seems he was a schoolmaster, now, after being twice wounded, he was supposed to be in convalescence. Soon, no doubt, he would have to return to the front, but, frankly, he was in no hurry to do so. In any case he was only half cured.

The Herr Hauptmann was seated at a bare table in a little room overlooking the hills. He examined my papers lengthily, while I explained to him my purpose as well as I could. He shook his head. It was impossible for me to go thus by road to Botzen or Innsbruck. If I wished to enter Austria I must go back to Zurich and take the train. Eventually, though, there rose some doubt in his mind upon the matter. It was the first case of the kind he had had to decide. If I wished, he would telegraph to Innsbruck for instructions. It would take about an hour to get a reply, and he could offer me a chair. I accepted willingly.

A Baseball Enthusiast.

We had been speaking in French, but after the soldier had left the room with the telegram he sat back and said laughingly in English: "Well, what's the dope about the Braves this year!"

It seems he had spent several years in America, at Schenectady, studying electrical engineering, and in his off hours had become quite a baseball fan. He had heard vague rumors of Boston winning the pennant and wanted now to hear all about it. I gave him as much first-hand news as I could. Finally, however, we got to talking about the war. He had fought in both the East and the West.

"Is there any difference?"

"Sure. * * * Fighting against the Russians is child's play compared to fighting against the French. The Russians are just big louts. They haven't the snap of the French. Nowhere near so aggressive. En masse they have a certain driving power, but once you break that they surrender like sheep. And their artillery fire is rotten. They've no proper aerial control. There's nothing scientific about their warfare, and their trenches are about as ours were back in August. As for their infantry, why, I've seen whole companies of them standing up and banging away with their rifles at the hip. * * * a fact."

"How is it then they overrun nearly all Galicia?"

"Numbers * * * numbers * * * and internal conditions * * * which have since been changed * * * in a month or so now we'll have chased them all out."

"What do you think of the English?"

"I've never fought against them. They say they're strong on the defensive, but they never attack. Anyway they haven't really done any fighting yet."

"There was Ypres."

"Ypres? Ah, you mean when they tried to get around the German left wing. Was it much of a battle up there? I was wounded about that time."

"And the Italians. What of them?"

"Well, what's the latest news? I haven't seen today's papers. Are they really going to fight us?"

"Looks like it."

"Well, they'll regret it if they do—"

"Then there's nothing to fear."

"Oh, they'll take a few passes up there. They're welcome to the Stelvio and its three yards of snow. We'll let them come down, lengthen their lines of communication, stretch them up and down over the mountains, then we'll smash them up, send them back to their macaroni and take Venice for our pains. * * * But I don't believe they will declare war myself. It would be too dirty a trick even for an Italian."

"Did you see about the sinking of the Lusitania?"

"Yes. The Germans have been clever with their submarines. It was a great stroke; have a tremendous influence. It'll practically kill all passenger traffic. Just what we want. It's the death blow to England's naval supremacy."

"And the moral side?"

Morals and the Lusitania.

"The moral side!" He laughed. "The moral side! Why, she was carrying ammunition, wasn't she? And even if she weren't? Look here. It's simply like this. There's a fight going on over here. It's the biggest fight in the history of the universe. And for the moment nothing else matters. Rightly or wrongly we are all of us caught in a death grapple to exterminate each other. Now, one of the features of the Austro-German attack is a complete isolation of the British Isles, just as the complete isolation of Gallipoli Peninsula is one of the features of the Franco-British attack. Both cases are parallel. Both parties declare: 'These shores are in the zone of fire; let no ship approach; there are submarines to sink the first that draws near.' And they have both kept their word. If it's lawful for a British submarine to sink a Turkish steamer carrying passengers and ammunition to Gallipoli, why is it unlawful for a German submarine to sink a British steamer carrying passengers and ammunition to Liverpool? Because there are Americans aboard. * * * Well, if you Americans think that all this is only a silly local affair and of no importance to you and that you can go on taking your Cook's tours abroad as usual, right through the zone of fire, * * * then take the consequences."

"Suppose we do?"

"What do you mean? War!"

"Possibly."

"You wouldn't be so silly * * * I know you Americans. * * * It offends your dignity that for a few months there should be some parts of the globe which you cannot visit except at your peril; * * * but that's all. Presently you'll see things in their proper proportion. * * * And that's the whole trouble, you Americans don't really know, realize what's going on over here."

"How do you think it will all end?"

"By the peace of Berne; each country at a stalemate on its frontier. General exhaustion, disease, poverty, famine."

There was a knock at the door. An orderly came in. He clicked his heels in salute and presented a telegram. The Herr Hauptmann read it with an amused smile.

"Have I permission?" I asked.

"No, no," he said nonchalantly," instead I've got orders to put you under arrest in a room, keep a sentinel at the door and at the window, and tomorrow send you blindfold in charge of a soldier to Innsbruck. You see if you had taken my advice."

"Suppose I take it now!"

He hesitated a little, paced up and down the room, then suddenly said:

"All right. It may get me into trouble, but I'll take the chance. * * * You're not a spy, are you?"

"I'm not."

"Clear out then, quick, get back there across the frontier and, if you'll take my advice again, stay there."

GERMANS SHIFT FORCES.

Some from East to Western Front—Some Now Fighting Italians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—Two dispatches to The Daily Mail this morning show how the Germans shift their troops from front to front.

One of them indicates that they expected reinforcement of the western army from the victorious troops in Galicia. This one is from Rotterdam and reads:

"The Germans again closed the Belgian frontier today, (Friday,) and the week-end will probably see a large influx of troops from the east into France and Flanders."

The other comes from Chiasso and reads:

"Italian forces met German troops for the first time Thursday above Feltre in Cadore. After a fierce encounter among the high peaks the Germans withdrew, leaving on the ground forty-one dead and four prisoners. All wore German uniforms.

"One of the prisoners was a youth of 20 from Berlin. He admitted that about 30,000 Mecklenburg troops had been withdrawn from the Arras region on May 29."

SEVENTEEN AMERICANS HELD

Arrived in England Without Proper Identification Papers.

LONDON, June 25.—During the last month seventeen Americans, who have arrived in Liverpool on six steamers, have been detained either for the lack of passports or for failing to have attached thereto the photographs of all the members of their families more than 14 years of age. The cases of all these have been referred to the Home Office, with the consequent detention of the passengers on the steamers in the Mersey.

Agents of the Atlantic steamship lines said yesterday that every effort was being made by them to see that all passengers leaving New York for Europe had passports bearing their photographs for identification purposes. Americans are now required to carry passports to go anywhere abroad. Any alien may travel on a ship of his own nationality from the United States without a passport because the burden of proof of identity rests with the passenger when he arrives on the other side.

When the Cunarder Tuscania sailed yesterday for Liverpool the officials at the pier questioned all passengers as they went on board. There were ten Americans who had passports and the remainder of the 450 passengers were British. They were warned to have identification papers ready for the Government officials when the ship reached Liverpool.

John W. Reilly, one of the managers, who was at the pier, said that delay in landing was frequently caused by persons who had become naturalized in the United States and then declared they were British subjects.

One family, booked for Ireland, he said, was held up in Liverpool and cost the company $45 for board before the British Government allowed them to be landed in the city. The head of the family was born in Ireland, and had become naturalized in the United States, but said he was a British subject.

At the Holland-America Line office it was said that no passengers except Dutch were allowed to book on the liners for Rotterdam without passports. The agents of the French Line had the same regulations regarding passports except for French passengers. These rules also applied to the White Star, Fabre, Scandinavian-American, Norwegian-American, and the Italian lines.

The Consuls in New York warn all persons apply for visés to passports that it is not wise to go to Europe at this time except on urgent business.

NORWEGIAN SHIP SUNK.

Germans Torpedo the Truma and Then Set Her Afire.

LONDON, June 25.—A dispatch from Copenhagen says the steamer Nova has arrived there with the crew of the Norwegian steamer Truma, which was torpedoed by a German submarine last Wednesday and then set on fire. This occurred near the Shetland Islands.

The Norwegian steamer Truma was built in 1896 and was of 1,557 gross tons. She was owned in Arendal, Norway.

SAILINGS FOR WAR ZONE.

Leyland Liner Leaves Boston with Big War Cargo for England.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 25.—The Leyland Line steamship Ninian left today for Manchester, taking out 600 horses and a large cargo of foodstuffs, including 24,000 bushels of wheat.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 25.—The only ship to sail from here today for the war zone was the Norwegian steamship Olaf Kyrre, which is bound for Copenhagen with a cargo of grain.

Try to Save the Tunisiana's Cargo.

LONDON, June 25.—Arrangements were made today for salvaging the wheat-laden steamer Tunisiana, which was torpedoed off Lowestoft on Wednesday last by a German submarine. After being hit the Tunisiana was beached and her crew landed.

ERIE'S LAKE BOATS SOLD TO DAVIDSON

New Yorker Buys Four Steel Freighters to be Brought to Seaboard.

MAY ENGAGE IN WAR TRADE

Steamers Sold in Accord with Federal Ruling to be Cut in Two for Journey Here.

The Erie Railroad has sold four of its fleet of eight Great Lakes steamers to William G. Davidson of New York, President of the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company. Associated with Mr. Davidson in the deal were two other New York men. The papers were drawn up a few days ago, F. D. Underwood, President of the Erie, dealing directly with Mr. Davidson. Announcement that such a deal was under way was made in THE NEW YORK TIMES two weeks ago.

Under the terms of the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling all railroads operating steamship lines on the lakes were ordered to dispose of the lake lines by Dec. 1. It was thought that the railroads would fight this ruling in the United States Supreme Court. The Erie, by its action, has assented to the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling, and has undertaken to wind up its lake business as quickly as possible. The four ships will be transferred as soon as they complete their last scheduled trips, and the little fleet of steamers will be in New York waters, it is expected, within thirty days.

Two of the ships, according to information which came to THE TIMES yesterday, will be used in Atlantic coast trade. The other two, representing the finest type of freight steamers on the lakes, are fit to engage in transatlantic trade, and will in all probability engage in freighting war supplies.

The Erie sold its vessels at this time because of the favorable market. The exact price could not be learned, but one of the principals in the transaction referred to it as a "very big price." The four ships cost the Erie Road on an average of $200,000 each, and it is estimated that the selling price was around $600,000 for the four.

Underwood Admits Sale.

President Underwood, when asked about the reported sale of the boats, authorized this brief statement:

"The four Erie Line boats were sold to New York parties, for whom William J. Davidson was acting. Mr. Underwood's connection with the affair ceased with the sale of the boats."

An inspection of the Erie fleet was made on behalf of Mr. Davidson and his associates by Robert H. Laverie, ship architect, of 17 State Street. Mr. Laverie also inspected the fleets of other railroads, and Mr. Davidson admitted last night that he was contemplating the purchase of at least one other ship from another railroad.

An interesting feature of the transfer of the Erie boats to the Atlantic seaboard is that they must be cut in two to make the transfer possible. The boats are 250 feet long, whereas the locks in the canal connecting Lake Erie with Lake Ontario are only 200 feet long. Steel saws will be used to cut the ships into equal sections. Bulkheads will be constructed on the open ends, and the sections will then be towed through the canal. The parts will be again assembled at Montreal, where the sections will be welded together by the same electro process by which steel rails are welded. From Montreal the ships will sail out to the ocean under their own steam, and will be taken to the shipyards of the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company at Port Richmond. Some changes are necessary to fit the boats for ocean traffic, but these changes, it was said yesterday, can be made at comparatively little expense.

Each of the Erie freighters is of 3,000 tons. The boats are all steel and resemble somewhat the whaleback type of grain steamers so common on the Great Lakes. They are particularly adaptable for carrying grain or coal. The boats will make a rather quaint appearance on the Atlantic. They are only 45 feet in beam and are shaped somewhat like a cigar.

The Marine Department of the Erie was never a paying success. With five railroads operating steamship lines on the lakes, however, it behooved all of them to continue operation. The Erie, according to the 1914 report, operated its Lake fleet at a loss of $456,904.

Other Ships In Market.

What the Erie will do with its other four boats has not been decided, but it is understood that queries have come from the lakes, and that the boats will be sold there. In addition to its steel boats the Erie maintains a large number of tugs and barges. The railroad, under the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling, is not compelled to give these up, and they will be operated in the Chicago River.

The early reports of the commission's ruling, a shipbroker told THE TIMES reporter yesterday, sent New York brokers scurrying to Buffalo, Cleveland, and Chicago, with a view of selling the railroads' boats to clients on the Atlantic seaboard. About fifty ships will be released under the ruling, and it was thought at first that all could be brought to New York. It developed, however, that most of the good ships were not only too long, but also too wide. Provision could be made to cut the boats in two, but no means were available for squeezing the wide freighters through the canal locks. The ship broker stated that less than half of the ships would be available for coast traffic.

"The Erie set a precedent," said one railroad man yesterday. "This case represents the quickest compliance with an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling that I ever heard of. The Erie is not sorry to sell, and had the advantage of war prices. It is safe to say that the two boats, which can be fitted for transatlantic service, will pay for themselves in a very few trips. The demand is far greater than the supply. I understand that the other railroads are also negotiating for the sale of their boats, but no other deals have yet been consummated. If the other roads follow the lead of the Erie, then there will be no more debate over the Interstate Commerce Commission's ruling. The independent shippers will take up the work where the railroads left off."

One report had it last night that a new ship company would be formed immediately to engage in both transatlantic and coast trade. Mr. Davidson said that plans were under consideration, but that no definite announcement could be made at this time.

TWO DIE IN COBALT MINE.

Up-State Investor and Engineer Killed by Blast.

Special to The New York Times.

COBALT, Ont., June 25.—Scott Eldridge, a mining engineer of Philadelphia, and W. B. Foote, a mining investor of Geneva, N. Y., were killed by a blast at Kerr Lake mine about 4 o'clock this afternoon. They were in the slope at the 140-foot level when the explosion occurred.

Mr. Foote had been in this camp for three days looking over properties in which he had large investments. He was unmarried, but leaves a mother, about 87 years old, who lives in Geneva.

Theatre Ordinance Hearing Put Off.

The consideration of a new ordinance governing the revoking of theatre licenses which was to have been taken up by the Board of Aldermen yesterday was postponed till the first meeting of the board in the Fall at the request of Commissioner of Licenses Bell, who framed the ordinance. Commissioner Bell requested the postponement in order to give the Theatre Managers' Protective Association an opportunity of conferring with the License Department on the proposed ordinance. As drafted by the Commissioner it vests the power of revoking theatre licenses in him.

GOWN TO WARD OFF TYPHUS

Physicians Going to Serbia Have a New Germ-Proof Garment.

When the Greek steamer Themistocles sails today she will have on board twenty-five Columbia University students bound for Nish on a Servian relief mission and thirty-five physicians from different parts of the country who make up a Red Cross expedition. These doctors are taking with them a new costume which has been invented to meet the special requirements of their work by Dr. William Clark and Dr. F. T. Van Buren of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. The particular feature of the costume is that it is made from top to toe in one piece, which includes a kind of hood for the head furnished with mica-covered eye holes.

The garment is to protect the physicians from insects which carry typhus germs. As a further precaution against the germ-carrying insects the physicians will sleep in cots suspended by ropes covered with a tar preparation. The physicians will also wear underclothes of silk, which will be washed in gasoline each night to guard against infection.

Elihu Root, Honorary President of the Society of Mercy, has given to Elbridge Colby, leader of the expedition, the following letter:

> To Whom It May Concern:
>
> I beg to commend to the consideration and courtesy of all kind and compassionate persons Mr. Elbridge Colby and his associates, who are about visiting Serbia to take part in the relief for the suffering caused by the present war. The gentlemen go from the United States at the expense of funds raised by voluntary contributions under the auspices of the organization known as the Committee of Mercy. The primary object of the committee is the relief of "the women and children made destitue by the world war." Many of the best known and highly respected citizens of the United States are members of the committee, and I write this letter because I bear to the committee the relation of Honorary President. ELIHU ROOT.

HELD IN RECRUITING CASE.

Man Arrested in San Francisco and Nine Men Here as Witnesses.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Harry G. Lane, said to have been a recruiting agent here for the Allies, was arrested today on a Federal warrant and held as a witness for the Federal Grand Jury, which has been asked by United States District Attorney John W. Preston to investigate charges that R. K. Blair of San Francisco induced persons to go to England to enlist with the British forces. Mr. Lane was unable to give bond, fixed at $500.

The charges against Mr. Blair come under Section 10 of the Federal laws, which make it an offense, punishable by $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment, or both, to induce persons in the United States to leave this country to enlist in the service of a belligerent nation.

Attorney Preston, after a day of examining witnesses, asserted that testimony taken before the Grand Jury investigating alleged recruiting of British soldiers here indicated a serious violation of the neutrality laws of this country.

A second special session of the Grand Jury was called to convene Monday to continue the investigation.

Nine men, wanted as witnesses by the Federal Grand Jury in San Francisco, investigating the charges that R. K. Blair of that city violated the neutrality laws of this country by inducing persons to go abroad for enlistment with the British forces, were taken into custody here last Tuesday by special agents of the Department of Justice on instructions from Washington. Notwithstanding they maintained they were British subjects, they were held as witnesses in $500 bail each by Federal Judge Russell. Failing to furnish the required bonds they were turned over to the United States Marshal with instructions that they should be shipped back to San Francisco, whence they came. The same witnesses were intercepted by agents of the Department of Justice in Chicago before their arrival in this city.

Blair is said to have admitted that he induced about seventy men to return to England, but he asserted that he had made only an appeal to their patriotism, for which he had received no remuneration.

REFUSE WAR ORDER.

Directors of Essex Novelty Company Don't Believe in Fighting.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 25.—The Essex Novelty Company, which has a large factory at Berkley Heights, today refused an order for war munitions from the French Government. M. M. Adler, a Director in the Essex Company, said this afternoon that the members of the company did not believe in war and had decided several months ago to refuse all orders that they might receive for war materials. The Essex Company manufactures fireworks, principally caps and sparklers. The order received today was for detonating caps, which Mr. Adler says the company is in a position to manufacture.

Simultaneously with the refusal of the Essex Company to fill the order of the French Government came the announcement of a million-dollar order for the Hall Switch and Signal Company of Garwood for war munitions for Serbia. The Hall Switch and Signal Company will install machinery for filling other war orders in its new buildings, erected at a cost of $200,000.

WAR OUSTS HOTEL MEN.

Britain Puts Carlton's Ex-Manager in Detention Camp.

News was received here yesterday of three former London hotel managers well known in New York, and about whose fate since the beginning of the war there has been much apprehension. According to this report Jacques Kremer, former manager of the Carlton, who was long at liberty, is now in a detention camp. No word has been heard from Mr. Kremer for a long time.

Theodore Kroell, former manager of the Ritz, is still at liberty, and remains at his place in Putney, where he has a garden that serves to occupy his time.

Henri Pruger, former manager of the Savoy, who was manager of the Royal Automobile Club when the war began, is now under the protection of the American Consulate General. Mr. Pruger, who is a Hungarian, is now an interpreter at the Consulate General, that office having now to look after many Hungarians who are in England.

discretion of the President. An officer may submit his resignation at any time, but the War and Navy Departments have clung to their prerogative of refusing to accept resignations at will, and resignations often have been rejected. It has long been a question among military and naval officers whether the Government possesses the right to refuse to permt an officer to leave the service.

There are numerous ways, under the law, by which officers may be dismissed from the army, but there has been no open route for exit from either the army or navy after the refusal of the higher authorities to accept tendered resignations.

This has raised the question whether the Government can keep a man in the service until he reaches retirement age. As retired officers also hold commissions from the Government while drawing reduced pay, it involves, collaterally, the question whether retired officers may resign, when they insist on doing so, over the refusal of the Government to accept their resignations.

An officer, resigning, whose resignation is not accepted, and who, despite such refusal, refused to obey orders or perform duties, would be court-martialed for insubordination. But the question whether an officer of army, navy, or Marine Corps has an inalienable right of resignation has never before been submitted to the Attorney General for decision, and has not been determined by the United States Supreme Court.

Larger Field for Horney.

Lieut. Col. Horney offered his resignation several weeks ago to take charge of the building and organization of new smokeless powder factories for the Aetna Explosive Company, Inc., of 2 Rector Street, a company which was formed last Fall by consolidating the Aetna Powder Company, the Keystone Powder Company and other powder manufacturing concerns.

The Aetna Explosives Company recently built a powder factory at Emporium, Pa., and plans to build another in Western Pennsylvania after it has obtained the services of Colonel Horney.

Colonel Horney has served in the United States Army for twenty-eight years. On his graduation from West Point he took an oath to serve for eight years. A friend of Colonel Horney, who was asked about his resignation, said last night:

"Colonel Horney is now the head of a small Government factory manufacturing smokeless powder at Picatinny, N. J. He can serve his country far better if he is permitted to use his ability to build up new powder factories which will increase enormously the supply of powder, which the country would have at its disposal in case of need. If a man who has taken an oath to serve his country for eight years cannot resign after he has served for twenty years beyond that period, his position is that of a slave."

EX-MAYOR M'GOWAN FOUND DYING IN NEED

Son Identifies Former Official of Trenton Who Was Picked Up in Hoboken.

BEGGED A DIME IN STREET

Patient Once Was Worth Millions and Prominent in Politics—Now He's in Coma.

Since Tuesday there has been lying in the charity ward of St. Mary's Hospital a man who was picked up in the streets of Hoboken after he had "panhandled" a dime from a policeman and who collapsed when taken to police headquarters. He has been in a state of coma ever since, except for a moment of lucidness. In that moment he told things about himself that resulted in his being identified yesterday as Frank A. McGowan, Mayor of Trenton in 1887, once spoken of as a strong possibility for Governor, and the owner of large industrial plants that fixed his fortune in popular estimation as from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Dr. Pflugh, house surgeon at St. Mary's, and Dr. Kudlich, consulting physician there, say the man has hardly a chance to recover. He is suffering from uraemic coma, brought on, in their opinion, principally by overindulgence in liquor. There are also indications that he may have suffered a fall and injured his head. The surgeons think he will die without regaining consciousness.

McGowan was unconscious in the hospital until Thursday night. He then told the physicians his name. He previously had given his name to the policemen and said he was once Mayor of Trenton, but they judged by his condition it was one of the tales policemen are so often told and they paid no attention to him. When McGowan gave his name at the hospital in his lucid moment, Chief of Police Hayes was notified. Initials on his clothing confirmed his statement.

Chief Hayes communicated with the Trenton authorities, and Donald McGowan, son of the stricken man, was notified. He went to Hoboken yesterday and positively identified the patient as his father. Instructions were given to provide everything necessary for his comfort, and it was decided that as soon as his condition permitted he was to be moved to a private room.

Frank A. McGowan was once well known in Trenton. Not only was he a power in State and city politics, but he figured largely as a business man. He was interested in the rubber and the pottery industry and his business projects were large and successful. In 1894 began the series of events that led to his downfall. He met Mrs. Helen Edith Barnes, the wife of the Superintendent of one of his pottery mills, and became infatuated. His wife left him. Divorce actions followed in the two families, but were unsuccessful. For a long time the beautiful home he had built in Trenton was vacant. From that time his struggle against adverse conditions has been carried on with less and less success, until finally he was supposed to have nothing of his once great fortune left.

It has been understood generally in Trenton that Donald McGowan, who is connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad freight department there, has been caring for his father for some time. It is said that Mrs. McGowan has made her livelihood as a typist in the State House at Trenton.

SMALL FAITH IN REGISTER.

Daily News Says It Can't Help Munitions Shortage.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 26.—The Daily News parliamentary correspondent says:

"The public will be well advised to discount inflated hopes which are entertained in some quarters as a consequence of the announcement in the House of Commons yesterday that a bill for the formation of a national register would shortly be introduced. It is very likely that the making of an up-to-date register would be useful and might point the way to further recruiting for the army in the Autumn, but the register, which, even if sufficient skilled canvassers were available, might take some months to draw up, would be of no use to us for the enrollment of munition workers. That is the pressing problem of the moment, and a national register has nothing to do with it. Before dealing with the Register bill this should be made quite plain.

"Voluntary enrollment of munition workers by trade unions lasts for seven days. It began on Thursday evening, and if this voluntary enlistment succeeds in producing the amount of labor the munitions department now requires, well and good; if not, it is expected in political circles that Lloyd George will ask the Cabinet for further powers, which would mean, of course, compulsory powers of enrollment and transfer of labor. Little doubt is entertained that powers of this sort would be given in such circumstances."

Recruit Hangs Himself in Tree.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 25.—Worrying over the jokes of fellow-recruits, who called him a "spy," John H. Woulridge, an Austrian, 24 years old, a member of the Second Recruit Company at Fort Slocum, committed suicide last night by hanging himself to the tallest tree at the post on Davids Island. He enlisted at Philadelphia five days ago on a declaration of intention to become a citizen. Recruits who were resting under the tree after drill this afternoon saw the body hanging high among the branches.

Dr. Poltz Going to Serbia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Dr. Harry Poltz, the young physician from the Mount Sinai Hospital, in New York, who is believed to have discovered a typhus antitoxin, and Dr. George Baehr, both graduates of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, will sail from New York tomorrow for Serbia. They will join Dr. Richard P. Strong, the Director of the American Red Cross Sanitary Commission at Nish. Their expenses will be borne by the Board of Directors of Mt. Sinai Hospital.

DEFENDS SIR JOHN FRENCH.

G. G. Moore of Detroit Denies Leaving Him Under Press Fire.

George Gordon Moore, financier and promoter of Detroit, who visited Sir John French at the British headquarters, denied yesterday at the Hotel Manhattan that his departure from the Continent had been caused by recent newspaper articles intimating that the Commander of the British forces gave him privileges at the front denied to high officials of the Government. It was not true, either, that there was friction between Sir John and Lord Kitchener, he said.

Mr. Moore, under 40 years of age, said he left the British Headquarters in France about two weeks ago. He described the British Commander as "a very great General" and Lord Kitchener as a "great War Secretary." Sir John's only enemies, according to Mr. Moore, were the Germans. He explained that Sir John, who was his intimate friend, invited him to visit France when the war began. He accepted the invitation and had been at the British Headquarters almost continuously since the outbreak of hostilities, being the only American permitted to visit the headquarters. Mr. Moore said the only woman entertained at the British Headquarters in France to his knowledge was Lady Eileen Roberts, daughter of Lord Roberts, who was there when her father died. It was not true, he said, that Sir John had surrounded himself with young and inexperienced officers because of their social position.

Mr. Moore, who was admitted to the bar at the age of 21, is the chief owner of public utilities in Michigan, Nebraska, Georgia, Canada, and Brazil.

CRUISER PATROL LOST?

Germans Also Report Sinking of French Mine-Seeker Capablanca.

The loss of two more warships of the Allies not mentioned in any official statement is asserted in recent issues of German newspapers received here yesterday. The Frankfurter Zeitung of June 6 contains the following dispatch of the semi-official Wolff Bureau from Berlin:

"At Vilemand, on the Holland coast, according to a report of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt, three life-belts and cork vests were washed up, bearing the inscription 'H. M. S. Patrol.' It must be assumed that this ship has been lost. It is plainly a case of the wreckage of the small English cruiser Patrol of 3,000 tons, a sister ship of the little cruiser Pathfinder, which was torpedoed on Dec. 5, 1914, in the North Sea by the U-21. Rumors of the sinking of this ship have been reported before."

The cruiser Patrol, the dispatch adds, was launched in 1904, had a speed of 25 knots, and was armed with nine 10.2 centimeter guns. The crew consisted of 270 men.

The Hamburger Nachrichten of June 8 publishes the following dispatch from its correspondent at Geneva:

"As is officially reported today, the French mine-seeker Capablanca on the night of June 3 to 4 struck a mine at the entrance of a bight in the Aegean Sea. The Captain, one officer, and 61 men of the crew were rescued by an English torpedoboat destroyer. It is possible that other survivors who managed to swim to shore were captured by the Turks."

ORDER TO SHOOT CANADIANS

Text Now Supplied by German Wolff Bureau to Prove Its Case.

What purports to be a British Army order signed by "Lieut. Col. Taylor, Adjutant of the Fourth Division," is contributed by the Wolff Agency to recent issues of several German newspapers received here, to substantiate a story sent out by that agency asserting that Canadians who attempted to surrender were shot by other British troops in the recent fighting in France. The Wolff Bureau in supplying this order to the newspapers in question said:

"We are informed from the Great Headquarters as follows: In an interesting connection with the recently published lying assertions of the English Official Eyewitness to the effect that German artillery had fired upon its own infantry, (the British Eyewitness had stated that a Saxon regiment in the act of surrendering was shot down by Prussian artillery,) there is at hand the following order of an English division, which was found among the papers of the commander of the Third Canadian Infantry Brigade, Colonel Turner:

> 4 Division.—It has bees learned by the Division Commander that during the last battle several of the division surrendered to the enemy, and, furthermore, that this action was noticed by officers and men of other units who did not take steps in several cases. The Division Commander orders that the attention of all officers and men be drawn to this fact, and that it be impressed upon all ranks that it is their first and most urgent duty to shoot down every man that tries to surrender, no matter who it may be. If the group is large enough to give promise of success, artillery fire must at once be turned in that direction.
> (Signed) TAYLOR,
> Lieut. Col. and Adjutant of the 4 Division.

"This," continues the Wolff Bureau, "is enough for the unbiased judge."

BULGARS LISTEN TO ALLIES.

Ready to Negotiate Further as to Her Intervention.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SOFIA, June 25, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Reports have recently appeared in the foreign-owned local press to the effect that Bulgaria was negotiating with Turkey for the cession of certain territories as compensation for neutrality. I learn, however, from a trustworthy source, that no such negotiations are being conducted. Bulgaria has merely demanded that Turkey cede her the railway from Dedeagatch to Adrianople, as the Turkish authorities are interfering with the traffic arrangements—a procedure which proves detrimental to the loyal neutrality of the country.

On the other hand, I may say that the reply of the Bulgarian Government to the proposals of the entente powers regarding her compensation for co-operation is ready. Bulgaria considers these proposals as a starting point for further negotiations, which will be conducted on the basis of recognition of the principle of nationalities and the economic and commercial interests of the country.

The intransigeant tone of the Serbian and Greek press regarding compensations to Bulgaria in Macedonia is making a painful impression in political circles here. Such a demeanor renders a renewal of the Balkan League a remote possibility.

NEW CENSOR TO SAYVILLE.

Four Navy Officers Now on Duty to Watch German Service.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Lieutenant C. C. Windsor was ordered today from the New York Navy Yard to Sayville, L. I., to increase to four the number of Government censors there.

Officials here disclaimed any connection between the increase in censors and recent official conferences here which were said to reflect the apprehension of the Government that American neutrality was being endangered by matter passing through the Sayville station.

It was said at the Navy Department today that the censors had been increased because of the large amount of work.

At the Sayville wireless station last night it was explained that the United States naval officers on censorship duty there were all members of the class of Annapolis, men who this year received degrees at Columbia University after work in the engineering department which included radio operation. The three on duty up to the present were Lieutenants Clark, McCormick, and Cogswell. The Lieutenant in charge had suggested the transfer there of two additional men to give them the benefit of experience in the station, which is of greater technical interest, on account of its high power, than most stations the navy wireless men have an opportunity of watching in their ordinary work. It was said at Sayville the transfer there of Lieutenant Windsor was for this reason and had nothing to do with the administration of the censorship.

SHOOT AT INJURED ON HOSPITAL STEPS

Thugs Waylay Women's Escorts and Blackjack Them in a Dark Hall.

KEEP UP CHASE IN AUTO

Followed Victims When They Sought Medical Aid and Fired from Motor.

After attacking Michael O'Leary and Thomas Algae in the hallway of an apartment house at 3,120 Broadway yesterday, several men followed the pair to Knickerbocker Hospital and fired three shots at them as they were mounting the steps of the institution. None of the shots took effect.

O'Leary, who is 19 years old, a clerk, of 276 West 141st Street, and Algae, who is 21, a chauffeur, of 67 Manhattan Avenue, escorted two women friends to their home in the apartment house. Hardly had they entered the hallway when they were attacked. Blackjacks were used by the assailants.

The women screamed, arousing the dwellers in the house. O'Leary and Algae, pursued by the young men who assaulted them, ran to the street, where they jumped into a taxicab and ordered Nicholas Tanzello of 350 East 119th Street, the chauffeur, to drive them to Knickerbocker Hospital.

The men who assaulted the pair ran down the street, where they entered a large touring car and chased the taxicab. O'Leary and Algae were the first to reach the hospital. They had dismounted and were ascending the steps when the touring car swung around the corner of 131st Street from Amsterdam Avenue. From the automobile three shots were fired at O'Leary and Algae. The shots were wild, and the chauffeur of the touring car whirled out of the scene before the arrival of the police.

O'Leary was treated for lacerations of the nose, head, and eyes, and Algae for a fractured nose and lacerations of the scalp.

ANNOUNCES ART MEDALISTS

Alexander Prizes Distributed to Students in High Schools.

The art department of the high schools yesterday announced the winners of the Alexander medals, distributed for the first time this June by the School Art League, whose late President, John W. Alexander, took the first steps for their establishment. The medals were designed by John Flannigan. The medals go to the pupils whose records in their drawing department are highest for the first and second high school years.

The winners are: Commerce, Morris Unger; De Witt Clinton, Arthur Smith; Julia Richman, Louise Byrne; Stuyvesant, Bernard K. Shauer; Wadleigh, Margaret Pittman; Evander Childs, Vera Binzen; Morris, Arthur Abbott; Bay Ridge, Alice Painter; Boys', Wilfred L. Kahn; Bushwick, Eugene Guerringue; Erasmus Hall, Lillian R. Carhart; Girls', Muriel Sibell; Bryant, Evelyn F. Jensen; Far Rockaway, Muriel Schonnard; Flushing, William H. Maxwell; Jamaica, May Silver; Newtown, Marion Burroughs; Richmond Hill, Elizabeth N. Hubbard, and Curtis, Frank Begg.

DISCORD INVADES LISBON.

Revolutionists' Leader, with Friends, Quits Session of Chamber.

PARIS, June 25.—A Havas dispatch from Lisbon, says:

"The Ministerial Declaration read in the Chamber yesterday afternoon renews manifestations of sympathy for the Allies, discloses the Governmental decision to present to Parliament documents which throw light on the attitude assumed by Portugal in relation to the European war and in conclusion affirms the country's resolution to seek revenge for damage suffered in Africa.

"After the reading of the declaration, Alexandre Braga, leader of the Democrats, promised the Government the support of his party.

"Antonio Almeida, head of the revolutionists, declared he would fight the new Government, and would attempt to obtain justice for Pimenta Castro, the former Premier. Almeida's assertion aroused a great demonstration in the galleries reserved for the public. The session of the Chamber was suspended while he left the room followed by his friends."

SULTAN HOLDS HIS OWN.

Deadlock at His Capital Over Question of Regency.

BERLIN, June 25, (By Wireless Telegraphy to Sayville, L. I.)—The condition of Sultan Mehemed of Turkey, who was operated on by Professor James A. Israel, the distinguished Berlin surgeon, for the removal of gallstones, is satisfactory, according to a dispatch received here today by the Overseas News Agency from Constantinople.

PARIS, June 25.—Information has been received from Constantinople, says a Havas dispatch from Athens, to the effect that after it became apparent last week that the illness of the Sultan was of a serious nature the Royal Princes met and decided that Yussof Izzedin, eldest son of the late Sultan Abdul Hamid, should assume the Regency. This proposal was vigorously opposed by the Committee on Union and Progress, resulting in a deadlock, which has not yet been broken.

SIX DEPORTATIONS HALTED.

Order Sending Aliens to Russia Canceled at Last Moment.

Through the efforts of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society the deportation of six Jewish aliens to Russia was prevented just as they were about to sail yesterday on the steamship Kursk for Archangel.

Judge Leon Sanders, President of the society, heard that the aliens had been removed from the State Hospitals at Ward's Island and Central Islip, to the Kursk, and he at once requested Dr. Osnato, head of the State Deportation Bureau, to cancel the order on account of the danger at sea from submarines and the long distance the deportees would have to walk on reaching Archangel.

The six aliens are Fanny Siegel, Solomon Burstein, Nathan Mantkof, Nathan Winikur, Morris Kramer, and Harry Schwartz.

QUESTION "ANTI'S" BOND.

Suffragists Think $1,000 May Be Tainted—Challenge Opponents.

The announcement that the $1,000 Government bond sent to THE NEW YORK TIMES by an anti-suffragist in Chicago would be turned over to the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage if the person sending it did not demand it within ten days, was received with much interest at the anti-suffrage headquarters, 35 West Thirty-ninth Street, yesterday.

Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, the State President, refused to make a statement, however, saying she would wait until the association had received the gift before discussing it.

The suffragists were not so reticent. The Empire State Campaign Committee headquarters issued a statement as follows:

"THE NEW YORK TIMES has received an anonymous gift of a $1,000 bond to be used to defeat the suffrage cause in New York. The letter accompanying the gift suggests that it might profitably be used to pay for anti-suffrage articles for the editorial page of THE TIMES. That paper, refusing to bow to what it calls this 'subtle compulsion,' declares its intention of turning the bond over to the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

"Will that association be as fastidious as THE TIMES in refusing to touch this gift without knowing its source? Speculation has long been rife as to some of the sources of anti-suffrage revenue. Anti-suffragists spend much of their time arguing that liquor, vice, and child labor interests are not on the anti-suffrage side.

"Meanwhile the contribution books of the suffragists stand wide open that he who votes may read. And it is only fair to the voters that they should know exactly what forces are behind both the advocacy and the opposition to suffrage.

"This anonymous gift of $1,000 may add another interesting chapter to what has been an interestingly sealed book. Will the New York Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage open that book?"

100 DIE WHEN PIER FALLS.

Flimsy Structure at Russian Resort Collapses with Crowd.

PETROGRAD, June 25, (via London.)—A dispatch received here from Kazan, in European Russia, about 400 miles east of Moscow, says that upward of 100 lives were lost in the collapse of a river pier at one of the local pleasure gardens.

The last steamboat returning to the city was scheduled to leave the island garden at midnight. A crowd of holiday-makers, men, women, and children, were forcing their way in the darkness to the boat over the flimsy pier. The structure collapsed under their weight and virtually everybody was thrown into the water. The crew of the steamboat did their best at rescue, but only a few persons were saved.

HUSBAND BEGS COURT'S AID.

A. H. Stoddard Wants Wife Restrained from Asking for Money.

Mabel Cole Stoddard, who lives at the Hotel Biltmore, testified before Justice Erlanger in the Supreme Court yesterday in her suit for a divorce from Albert H. Stoddard. The suit was undefended. Mr. Stoddard submitted an affidavit to the court in which he said:

> I ask the court's protection against the efforts of my wife to extract money from me. I have no money, no position, and no means. I am living at the rate of $7 weekly. I am wandering from place to place seeking work and finding none. A five-cent package of cigarettes, indulged in occasionally, is my only luxury.

Mrs. Stoddard accused her husband of having occupied an apartment in West Forty-seventh Street with a woman he said was his wife.

What Is the Matter with Baby's Stomach?

The next time you have to ask yourself that question—and most parents of young children face it only too often—see if a little Man-a-cea Water, given according to directions, will not straighten out the trouble. This clear, tasteless, natural mineral water is usually far better than drugs for stomach and intestinal disorders, nausea, inability to retain or digest food, colic, green stools, gripe, teething upsets, and especially for cholera infantum and children's summer complaint.

The youngsters take Man-a-cea Water gladly, so if they are subject to stomach or bowel upsets, let them have all they can drink. Sold by leading grocers and all druggists.

VIOLENCE FEARED IN ATLANTA TODAY

Militia Ready to Put Down Anti-Slaton Outbreaks as the Governor Retires.

LEAVES GEORGIA FOR REST

Great Crowds Expected at Inauguration—Many Mass Meetings Cause Apprehension.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, June 25. — Governor John M. Slaton will retire from office at noon tomorrow and a few hours thereafter will leave Georgia for some place not yet announced.

It is said that Governor Slaton will be out of the State for some time recuperating. He has worked hard during recent months, and this, together with the strain incident to the Frank case and the events that have followed the commutation, has caused the Governor to decide to take a long rest. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Slaton, and it is possible they will spend the next few months on the Great Lakes, in Canada, and in New York.

The hour at which Governor Slaton will leave has not been definitely stated. It is said that he will leave on Sunday afternoon, but there are rumors tonight that he plans to depart on Saturday afternoon, soon after he has turned over the Executive office to his successor, Judge Harris of Macon.

If the retirement of Governor Slaton and the inauguration of Judge Harris tomorrow pass without incident a bountiful crop of rumors will have come to naught.

Atlanta has been remarkably quiet since the attack on Governor Slaton's home on last Monday night. The feeling has shown no signs of diminishing, although it has been restrained. It is generally believed that it has been the calm that precedes the storm and that preparations have been made for a great anti-Slaton demonstration at the capital tomorrow. Railroad men report that unusually large crowds are coming to the inauguration from the country towns and rural districts, and the prophets assert that the crowds will be here for the purpose of showing their disapproval of Governor Slaton's action in saving Leo Frank from the gallows.

The authorities have taken unusual precautions to handle an outbreak should one occur. The entire Fifth Regiment of Atlanta has been mobilized and will be on duty during the inaugural exercises. There will also be a regiment here from Macon, the home of Judge Harris, and companies from other places. It is an open secret, however, that many of the troops do not approve of Governor Slaton's action, and while they will do their duty as soldiers, they are not in love with it.

Governor Slaton was at the Capitol today winding up executive business. He seemed in better spirits and was apparently glad he was about to be rid of official duties. He was accompanied by an officer on the trip to and from the Capitol. A detachment of troops is still on duty at the Governor's country home.

While the sentiment of Georgia at large undoubtedly strongly disapproves of Governor Slaton's action, there is a minority which believes that he did right and that time will vindicate his action in commuting the death sentence of Frank.

It is certain that the pardoning and commuting power of George Governors will be greatly curtailed for the future. Two measures for that purpose are already pending, and they will be merged into one and promptly passed.

One thing that makes the authorities apprehensive for tomorrow is the number of secret mass meetings that have been held nightly in Atlanta and the adjoining towns. These meetings have been held at Marietta, Haheville, Jonesboro, and several other towns, and it is said that at these mass meetings plans were formed for a demonstration against Governor Slaton tomorrow. Atlanta newspapers have had reports of mass meetings all over the State.

One of the strangest of these meetings is reported to have been held at Marietta, where Mary Phagan is buried. One hundred and fifty citizens are said to have met at Mary Phagan's grave and formed an oath-bound organization to avenge her death. This body is to be known as the "Knights of Mary Phagan," and it is the purpose of the organizers to form lodges over Georgia, the members being pledged never to rest until the murder of the girl has been avenged. There seems to be little doubt that such a body has been formed.

Reception to Friends of Frank.

The Woman's Peace Society will hold a reception in the Assembly Room of Cosmopolitan Garden, 82 West Twenty-third Street, this afternoon to those who signed the petition to Governor Slaton of Georgia, asking for a commutation of the death sentence of Leo Frank, and to those who worked to obtain the signatures.

GIRL ATTACKED BY NEGRO.

Miss Graham Says He Beat and Robbed Her in Dark Hall.

When Mrs. Robert Allen, who lives on the third floor of 2,079 Eighth Avenue, near 113th Street, opened her door in response to a knock at 7 o'clock last night, Miss Sarah Graham, who is 21 years old, and boards with Mrs. Allen and her husband, staggered in. The girl's forehead was cut and her mouth was bleeding.

She said a negro had beaten and robbed her in the dark hall. He grabbed for her silver mesh bag, in which was $5, and when she drew away from him struck her over the eye. She screamed and he hit her in the mouth, knocking out three of her teeth. When she continued to scream he seized her throat and choked her till she dropped senseless. When she recovered he was gone and with him her bag, she said.

No one in the house was found who had heard the girl's cries and none but she had seen the negro. She said he was well-dressed, light-colored, and very powerful. Detectives of the Fourth Branch Detective Bureau began a search.

Mrs. Allen called Dr. William Stone of 268 West 113th Street to attend Miss Graham, and he found her suffering greatly from shock, but not otherwise seriously hurt.

PRISONER FLEES BY WINDOW

Royal Dunbar, Alleged Drug Seller, Collapses After Leap.

A man who gave his name as Royal Dunbar of 23 Lawton Street, Brooklyn, was followed last night by Detective Thornton of the Drug Squad on account of his suspicious actions to a pool parlor on the second floor of 1,780 Broadway, Brooklyn. Thornton says he saw the man give packages to several youths in the room and receive money in exchange, whereupon he placed Dunbar under arrest on a charge of selling narcotics.

As the detective turned to ask one of the men in the room to call a patrol wagon his prisoner broke from his grip and jumped out of a rear window. Thornton ran down the stairs and was close in pursuit. As the man reached Macon Street he threw up his arms and collapsed unconscious. Thornton called an ambulance from the Bushwick Hospital, where it was found Dunbar was suffering from internal injuries and a broken foot. His condition is not thought to be serious.

BARS A NEW YORK COMPANY.

Connecticut's Action Arbitrary, Says American Real Estate Co.

Referring to the refusal of the Building and Loan Commissioner of Connecticut to grant the American Real Estate Company a license in that State, officials of the company said yesterday that it had done business in Connecticut for over twenty years, and that it had always met its obligations promptly. They further said that the company was entirely solvent, and that its net assets on Jan. 1, 1915, above mortgages, were $17,721,700.83; that its total liabilities were $14,160,845.42, and that it now had capital stock and surplus above every liability of $3,560,855.41. The company's statement continued:

"The Building and Loan Commissioner, whose term of office expires on June 30, 1915, said to the representatives of the company at the time of the refusal to issue the license that it was for the year now ending, and that he expected the company would take an appeal from his decision, or that an application would be made to his successor for a new license. He added that no effort would be made to prevent the company from continuing its general business in the State, and that the only limitation would be in the sale of new bonds for the balance of his term of office. No reasons at all were given by the Commissioner to representatives of the company as to why he refused to grant the usual license. Such refusal is evidently the result of the exercise of an arbitrary power.

"The fact that the license has not been granted in Connecticut is purely a local matter and is of no general consequence and will have no bearing whatsoever on the general business policy of the company. The action of the Commissioner in denying the license is probably brought about by the recent failure of the Middlesex Banking Company and other companies of a similar nature, which have been doing business in the State of Connecticut, and also by the financial losses suffered by investors in New England through the passing of dividends by such institutions as the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and others in which a great deal of New England capital has been invested.

"It is evidently the policy of the outgoing Commissioner to eliminate from his State, as far as possible, all companies selling securities."

DR. COX CHARGES SLANDER.

Dartmouth Professor Says Religious Views Cost Him His Post.

A telegraphic request sent by THE NEW YORK TIMES to Dr. George Clarke Cox, who has just been removed from his post as assistant professor of philosophy in Dartmouth College, for a statement of his side of the case, yesteday elicited this response:

HANOVER, N. H., June 25.—President Nichols evades the real issue and really objects to my religious, ethical, and economic views, of which he was informed before I came here. The whole college knows this.

Charges of atheism were made against me early in my career here, and Dr. Nichols's change of heart dates from that time. Before that he had only words of praise for me. Unable to find any fault with me as a teacher, or with my personal life, he now slanders me in private to a committee of protesting students and to members of the Faculty, while refusing me any reasons.

Among the slanders is that I have had trouble everywhere, and have broken up two parishes, Poughkeepsie and Cincinnati.

This is false, as can be abundantly proved.

My heresy case in Cincinnati in 1906 and 1907 was well known, but reflected in no way upon my personal character or social relations. I am proud of the way in which Cincinnati people think of me. Inquire of the Bishop of Southern Ohio and of the officers of my church there. As for Poughkeepsie, inquire of my successors there and of the Hon. Edmund Platt of The Eagle.

Some of Dr. Nichols's charges are only worthy of a village gossip.

GEORGE CLARKE COX.

BLACKMAIL PLOT CHARGED.

Police Trap Three Alleged Members of Owney Madden's Gang.

Bernard McNamara, who is connected with the Travelers' Insurance Company at 30 East Forty-second Street, and who lives at 457 West Fifty-first Street, told Detectives Devanney, McGann, Flaherty, and Cooney on Thursday that three members of the Owney Madden gang had tried to blackmail him out of $25 to be used in trying to get a new trial for the gang leader, who was convicted recently of the murder of Patsy Doyle and was sentenced to from ten to twenty years in State prison. According to the detectives, they had heard of other cases where young men who frequented Broadway resorts had been threatened with exposure to their employers unless they made contributions and they told McNamara to go ahead and parley with the men.

The detectives hid in a taxicab at Forty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue last night and by appointment McNamara met there Frank O'Brien of 359 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx; Charles Travers of 247 West 144th Street, and Matthew Murphy of 299 West 187th Street. From the cab the detectives say they heard McNamara exclaim:

"All I've got is $11. I couldn't raise the $25. It's a hold-up, anyway, and I think it's a raw deal."

"Aw, shut up and hand over the money," the detectives say one of the men replied, and then, as McNamara exposed two $5 bills and a $1 bill, all marked, the detectives say each of the three grabbed one. Then the detectives leaped from the cab. There was a hot fight, but the men were subdued, and taken to Police Headquarters, where they were locked up.

ATTACK BRIGHTON CABARETS

Shelburne Manager Accused of Conducting a Theatre.

Victor Hertz, manager of the Hotel Shelburne at Brighton Beach, appeared in the Coney Island Court yesterday to answer a charge of conducting a theatrical performance without license. Several other hotel managers and the manager of a large amusement park in Coney Island are to be summoned into court on the same charge.

The Commissioner of Licenses is acting under the decision of the courts in recent cases in Manhattan, in which it was decided that the elaborate cabaret entertainment is a theatrical performance within the meaning of the law and subject to a theatrical license of $500.

The complainant against Hertz was Detective David J. Daly, who alleged that the hotel has been featuring "Splash Me," a two-act production. This he contends is a theatrical performance. Hertz, in his defense, pointed out that no stage was used and the act was given without admission being charged and is for the benefit of the patrons.

The case was adjourned until July 14.

GARMENT WORKERS PREPARE DEMANDS

Cloakmakers Take the Lead in Move Expected to Cause a Strike of 75,000.

INSIST UPON UNION SHOP

If Manufacturers Do Not Make Satisfactory Reply Within Time Fixed Walkout Will Follow.

With the approach of the middle of July, the beginning of the busy season in the garment-making industry, there comes from the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union the announcement that a new set of demands will be made upon the employers, and that, if the demands are not granted within a limited period of time, 75,000 garment makers will go out on a general strike. The situation has developed following the recent abrogation of the "Peace Protocol" by the majority of the employers. The employes have been stirred to determination by encouragement from Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and Benjamin Schlesinger, General President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The first official warning of the strike was issued yesterday by the Cloak Makers' organization, which is affiliated with the Garment Workers' Union. The statement read:

"The committee of seven, which was appointed for the purpose of handling the situation arising out of the abrogation of the peace protocol by the Manufacturers' Association, will call meetings of the representatives of the locals and will discuss with them the nature of the demands to be made upon the employers. All of the demands made and undecided during the life of the protocol and such other demands as the locals may justifiably make will be arranged and submitted to the manufacturers as the terms of peace.

"It is impossible to say now what all the demands will be, but it is certain that among the things demanded will be the union shop, equal distribution of work among all crafts in the industry, the right of the union to review cases of dismissal of employes by the employers, the establishment of a uniform method of setling prices for piece work through price experts, and the guarantee of 75 cents an hour to operators, 60 cents an hour to finishers and $30 a week to cutters.

"The demand will be sent to the manufacturers with a specified time limit for an answer. If the manufacturers do not make a satisfactory reply within the time limit—a general strike will be declared."

That the leaders of the union do not expect a favorable answer to their demands, was indicated by this conclusion to the statement:

"We are on the eve of a war, a war that will be just as terrible in its effects upon all concerned and the public as are wars upon battlefields. But our war will be a fight for the right to live by earning wages in the cloak and suit industry. It will be a war fought that we may enjoy peace after it. It will be such—if we have to fight it—but it may be avoided by timely concession and recognition on the part of the manufacturers."

As showing the preparations for the "war," the statement said:

"In the course of the past week committees have been appointed to manage everything, from the renting of halls for strike headquarters to the settlement of the strike. The Board of Directors has learned the lesson of preparedness. We are now prepared for war. Should a strike be averted by the sensible act of the manufacturers, it will be easy to disband the committees, and we will then consider their formation as a drill useful in itself."

Leaders of the union have announced that, no matter what the outcome of the present situation may be, the union will never again sign a protocol for perpetual peace. This sentiment was voiced by Mr. Schlesinger.

"A protocol for perpetual peace," he said, "means, as the last one has shown, perpetual war. If ever we do sign another protocol, its duration will be limited to two years or so."

No exact date for the submission of the demands to the employers has been announced.

FINDS SISTER AND BABY DEAD

Mrs. Isabelle Chastaine and Young Child Asphyxiated.

When John Helveston reached the home of his sister, Mrs. Isabelle Chastaine, at 1,158 East Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon he found the house closed. He climbed up to a window on the second floor and looked in. He could see his three-months-old niece apparently asleep on the bed, and this convinced him that the mother was at home. He found a policeman, who forced the front door. In a gas-filled bedroom they found Mrs. Chastaine and the baby dead.

The woman lay on the floor near the open door of a closet. Beside her was an overturned chair. The gas was escaping from the jet above her head. Dr. Nathan Thayer of 1,433 Avenue H said both had been dead for at least two hours. The police believe Mrs. Chastaine climbed on the chair to hang something in the closet, and that she fainted and fell, catching at the gas jet and opening the cock in an attempt to save herself.

Mrs. Chastaine was the wife of Lysle Chastaine, a cashier in a downtown Manhattan café. She was 18 years old. With her lived Mrs. Mary Taylor, her great-grandmother, who had gone to New York in the morning.

Washington Officials Here to Study Methods of Purchase.

P. L. Wormley, head of the Physical Testing Laboratory of the District of Columbia, and John G. Tuttle of the chemical laboratories of the Bureau of Standards at Washington, both representing the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, are in this city studying the new specifications and methods of tests under which fire hose for New York City is purchased.

Fire Commissioner Adamson announced last night that these new specifications and methods, which were prepared by the supplies division of the Bureau of Standards for New York City, will be taken up at the convention of the American Society for Testing Materials to be held during the next few days at Atlantic City, at the request of the Rubber Manufacturers' Committee, with the object of having that society accept them as a universal standard for all large purchasers.

LESSEN DANGERS IN MINING.

Government Report Shows Use of Permissible Explosives.

The total production of explosives in the United States in 1914, exclusive of exports, according to figures compiled by Albert H. Fay of the United States Bureau of Mines, was 450,251,489 pounds, or 225,126 short tons, as compared with 500,015,845 pounds, or 250,008 short tons, for 1913. The production was divided as follows: Black powder, 206,099,700 pounds; "high" explosives other than permissible explosives, 218,453,971 pounds, and permissible explosives, 25,697,818 pounds.

The figures represent a decrease of 23,839,831 pounds of black powder; 23,932,573 pounds of high explosives, and 1,987,952 pounds of permissible explosives, compared with 1913.

"As explosives are essential to mining, and the use of improved types of explosives tends to lessen the dangers attending this industry, the Bureau of Mines undertook in 1912 the compilation of information showing the total amount of explosives manufactured and used in the United States," says Mr. Fay in his report.

"In the year 1902," he says, "only 11,300 pounds of permissible explosives were used in coal mining, whereas in 1913 the quantity so used was 21,804,285 pounds, compared with 19,593,892 pounds in 1914. The quantity of permissible explosives used in the United States is larger than in a number of foreign countries. In 1912 it represented about 5 per cent. of the total quantity of explosives produced, and in 1914 5.7 per cent. The total amount of explosives used for the production of coal in 1914 was 220,622,487 pounds, of which about 8.9 per cent. was of the permissible class as compared with 9.5 per cent. in 1913."

NEW CONEY ROUTE BIDS.

Three-Track Elevated to Run from Fourth Avenue Subway.

The Public Service Commission yesterday authorized the Chairman and Secretary to advertise for bids, to be opened July 20, for the construction of Section 1 of Route 49, a part of the Culver rapid transit railroad. This is a three-track elevated road, which will connect the Fourth Avenue subway through Thirty-eighth Street and Gravesend Avenue with Coney Island. The contractor will be allowed fifteen months in which to complete the work.

The commission approved the form of contract submitted by the New York Municipal Railway Corporation for the construction of eight stations on the Broadway, Brooklyn, elevated railroad, required in the third-tracking of that line between Havemeyer Street and East New York. The plan for the station at Hewes Street has been modified to eliminate for the present the stairway proposed between the station and the southerly sidewalk of Broadway.

Chief Engineer Craven reported in favor of installing five additional space filling safety devices on the curved platform at the Fourteenth Street subway station. One of these devices has been in operation there for some time and has given satisfaction. It covers the space between car and station platform, and is an improvement on the watch-your-step warning.

MRS. ONFFROY ASKS WRIT.

Seeks to Get Out of House of the Good Shepherd.

Mrs. Katharine Onffroy, in the House of the Good Shepherd because of drink, has applied to Justice Shearn of the Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus in order that she may have her commitment to the institution reviewed. The petitioner's husband, Roland D. Onffroy, is Vice President of the United Five and Ten-Cent Stores. His home is at 725 Riverside Drive. Evidence submitted to Magistrate McQuade before whom she was arraigned on May 31, last, accompanied the petition.

Mrs. Onffroy said that she admitted the charge of drunkenness made against her when she was before the Magistrate because she was ignorant of her rights, that no competent testimony was taken in during the examination, and that she was unjustly committed. Mr. Onffroy said that his wife used to be under the influence of liquor for days at a time and that he had tried to cure her of the habit by sending her to a sanitarium, but without avail. He also said that drink rendered her unconscious.

Mrs. Onffroy says that her desire for drink is a sickness and that she would like to go to the country, where she would be beyond the power of indulging her appetite. She had her trunks all packed ready for a trip to go, she said, when her husband refused to give her permission.

RALPH HERZ SUES WIFE.

Comedian Names Two Co-respondents in Divorce Action.

Ralph Herz, the comedian, began suit in the Supreme Court yesterday for a divorce from Leah Herz, whom he married in San Francisco, Feb. 15, 1913. The papers in the case were sealed, but it was learned that two co-respondents were mentioned.

Mrs. Herz is a native of Atlanta, Ga. Her first husband, James Harden, divorced her in December, 1910. He said he had found her and Eugene H. Burr in the latter's apartments at Broadway and 144th Street on the night of Aug. 4 in the same year. During a trip through California with Mrs. Albert Frolich, Mrs. Harden met Mr. Herz. Mrs. Langtry, an old friend of Mr. Herz, was present at the wedding.

Mr. Herz was first married to Lulu Glaser, the actress, in May, 1907. She divorced him in Chicago in January, 1911, on the ground of cruelty.

FAINTS AT POLICE DESK.

H. B. Bradbury, Hurt by Careless Driver, Has Him Arrested.

Harry B. Bradbury of 164 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, a lawyer, with offices at 141 Broadway, was knocked down at Cortlandt and Church Streets at the rush hour last evening by the shaft of a wagon driven by Cornelius O'Keefe of 70 Greenwich Street.

Bradbury's only apparent injuries were abrasions on the left side of the face, and when he picked himself up he insisted that Patrolman Hughes of the Greenwich Street Station arrest the driver. O'Keefe was locked up in the Greenwich Street Station on a charge of assault. While telling his story to the Lieutenant Bradbury fainted. Dr. Slater removed him to Hudson Street Hospital, and later sent him home.

SEES EXPORT OPPORTUNITY.

Ex-Senator Burton Back from South American Tour.

Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, former United States Senator, returned here yesterday on the Lamport & Holt liner Verdi from a three months' tour through the South American republics in the interests of commerce. He was very optimistic over the opportunities for American trade in those countries if the manufacturers realized the possibilities before the war ended.

The former Senator visited all the Latin republics except Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador, which he could not reach on account of the lack of transportation facilities. He said that the war had demoralized business in South America as well as in Europe, and that in order to develop trade between the United States and Brazil and the Argentine it was necessary to establish a fast line of steamships between New York and the South American ports on the east coast.

"South America is growing more rapidly than any other section of the world," said Mr. Burton, "and American merchants have an opportunity now to capture the trade formerly held by Great Britain and Germany. The latter is firmly intrenched there, but we can gain trade supremacy despite her lead. The German firms have sent their young men to South America, who have settled there and married Spanish women, which has given them great advantages in obtaining business."

On his way through Brazil he visited the little American colony near Sao Paulo, which was started just after the civil war by eighty-five families from the Southern States. There are twelve veterans of the war still alive and prosperous. He talked with them and with the children and grandchildren of the pioneers, who all seemed contented with their surroundings, and did not express any wish to return to the United States

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS.

Webb's Academy Nurse Badly Injured on West Side Line.

Edward Garber, a nurse at Webb's Academy and Home for Shipbuilders on Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx, was injured seriously last night when he fell between the platforms of two cars as a train of the West End line was pulling out of the platform at Forty-fourth Street and New Utrecht Avenue, in Borough Park. Garber, with another man, had been visiting friends in Borough Park, and the accident happened while he was returning to Manhattan.

He attempted to board the train while it was in motion and slipped between the platforms. His body was wedged tightly, and the accident delayed traffic for half an hour. He was removed to the Norwegian Hospital by Dr. Edwards. His injuries comprised a compound fracture of the left leg, fracture of the right knee, bruises of the head and internal injuries. He is not expected to recover.

WIFE SLAYER GAINS MERCY.

Bullock Weeps at Light Sentence Due to Friends' Intercession.

When Charles E. Bullock of 325 Senator Street, Brooklyn, a saloon keeper, was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Manning for sentence yesterday in Brooklyn for manslaughter, he broke down and wept at the light sentence of two and one-half to four years imposed because of his previous good character.

Bullock shot his wife on April 13, 1914. In a dying statement she said she had been shot when trying to prevent his committing suicide. Her two brothers wrote a letter asking clemency for Bullock, and the latter's son wrote that he never had known his father to be unkind to any one, and that their home life had been unusually happy.

TAKE $2 TO GO CAMPING.

Police Asked to Find Two Missing Sunday School Boys.

The Rev. Norman M. Thomas, pastor of the East Harlem Presbyterian Church, 220 East 116th Street, called at the Third Branch Detective Bureau late last night and asked the police to look for eight-year-old William Purdy of 1,409 Fifth Avenue and Joseph Shirlow, 9 years old, of the same address. The minister said both boys were members of his Sunday School class.

They had been missing since lunchtime, and the Purdy boy, it was found, had taken with him a toy bank containing $2. Small friends of the boys told detectives the youngsters had planned to go camping in the woods, but they didn't know in what woods, and the detectives could get no trace of the missing lads.

BANKERS ELECT OFFICERS.

J. A. Kloepfer Named President of Association—Congress Closes.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 25.—John A. Kloepfer, President of the Union Stock Yards Bank of Buffalo, was today elected President of the New York State Bankers' Association. Benjamin E. Smythe, President of the Gramatan National Bank of Bronxville, was elected Vice President, and F. L. Barnes, Cashier of the National Bank of Syracuse, Treasurer.

Charles S. Hamlin, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, in an address to the bankers urged the entrance into the reserve system of the State banks and trust companies, declaring that the present strength of the reserve would be increased from $1,779,000,000 to more than $2,000,000,000 if this action should be taken.

A visit to Lake George late today and the annual banquet of the association tonight, with Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse University, James A. Emery, and Joseph A. Lawson as the speakers, brought the gathering to a close.

Bellevue's Oldest Patient, 102.

Bellevue Hospital received the oldest patient in its history last night when Mrs. Margaret Boyle, 102 years old, was taken from her home, at 238 East Thirtieth Street, by Dr. Barr suffering from a fractured left hip. While walking in her apartment she slipped and fell. She will recover, the surgeons think.

The Store will be closed to-day (Saturday) at 12 noon.

NEW AIR AID FOR DIVERS.

Bond Thinks His Invention Can Be Used Without a Motor.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—William S. Bond, the young Wilmington (Del.) inventor who by remaining submerged for more than seven hours in a watertight box without any renewal of air from the outside, proved the other day that vitiated air can be regenerated by chemicals, today accidentally discovered something which makes him believe his formula can be utilized in diving apparatus as well as in submarines. He stumbled upon it in the middle of another demonstration at Drexel Institute.

Young Bond had been in the water-immersed box four hours and twenty minutes when the tiny motor running a sort of vacuum cleaner which forced the spent air through the purifying chemical composition broke down. But instead of coming up he remained in the box another hour and twenty minutes, during which time he fanned the air with his hands in such a way that it reached the chemicals and was relieved of its injurious carbon dioxide.

When he emerged smiling, Bond said he saw no reason why the chemical process which he had devised could not be applied to the suits worn by divers in some such fashion as that adopted in the "oxylithic diving helmets" and without the use of a motor. Also he made his first claim as to the possibilities of his invention.

"Theoretically," he said, "a man would be able to breathe as long as he cared to remain in the compartment. The chemicals automatically refreshen the vitiated air over and over. But I have not yet been able to determine just how long the stay would be practicable. Absolute purity of chemicals, such as the theoretical possibility demands, being impossible to obtain, the matter must be one of gradual testing."

The proportion of oxygen in the air at the time Bond entered the chamber was 20.9 per cent. When the motor gave up the ghost the registering apparatus showed the percentage of oxygen to be 14.8. Those watching him through the glass top promptly got excited, but Bond telephoned that he meant to remain where he was for a while. Twenty minutes after he started to use his hands in place of the motor the indicator showed 16.4 to be the proportion of oxygen. In the concluding fifteen minutes it climbed another notch.

NEARLY STRANGLED BY AUTO

John Quinn Pinned Under Car Driven by a Woman Over a Bank.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 25.—John Quinn of Martin Street, an automobile demonstrator, was nearly killed and Mrs. A. Leggett of Little Falls had a narrow escape from injury tonight when an automobile in which they were riding shot down an embankment in McBride Avenue and tumbled over and over. Mrs. Leggett bought the machine several days ago from the firm by which Quinn was employed, and the demonstrator was showing her how to drive it. She was at the wheel tonight when the automobile came to the sharp curve in McBride Avenue at the intersection of Browertown Road. Quinn tried to get control of the steering wheel, but he could not do so soon enough to avoid the accident.

When the car whirled over Mrs. Leggett was catapulted through the air and fell on the grass by the roadside, but Quinn was caught under the automobile, a part of it pinning down his neck. Mrs. Leggett, who was painfully but not dangerously injured, ran to the Passaic Valley Hotel and obtained assistance. Several men lifted the automobile and found Quinn almost unconscious, gasping for breath. He was removed to his home, where it was said his condition was serious.

CHEAPER BREAD FOR BERLIN

Good Crop Prospects Reduce Rye Two-Pound Loaves to 10 1-2 Cents.

In the prospect of the bumper crop with which the soil of Germany and the territories occupied by German troops is said to be teeming, the German official War Grain Association, which in January seized the grain supply of the country, has now announced a reduction in the price of bread and permitted a less frugal use of it.

According to the Frankfurter Zeitung of June 3, the city of Berlin has now obtained permission to revise bread prices, and it has been decided that rye bread of 1½ kilogrammes shall be baked no more, but instead, loaves of 2 kilogrammes and 1 kilogramme (2.2046 pounds.) Loaves of 1 kilogramme are to cost 42 pfennig (10½ cents) and those of 2 kilogrammes 80 pfennig (20 cents.) Instead of the war-rolls (made of wheat, rye, and potato flour) of 75 grammes heretofore, a wheat roll weighing 50 grammes, and like that formerly sold in Berlin is again to be put on the market. This roll may cost no more than 3 pfennig (¾ cent).

FIND HIDDEN DYNAMITE.

Sixty Sticks Discovered Near Scene of Explosion in Canada.

WINDSOR, Ontario, June 25.—Sixty sticks of dynamite, of the same size as those found last Monday morning under the Windsor Armory, after the plant of the Peabody Overall Company at Walkerville had been dynamited, have been found near the plant of a motor truck company in Walkerville.

Police officials say they believe the explosive was hidden by some one who planned to wreck other buildings. A foreigner has been arrested and is being held for investigation.

Killed as He Picked Cherries.

NORTHPORT, L. I., June 25.—While picking cherries from a tree on the road between this village and Commack today, John Trogy, 22, of 507 Hemlock Street, Brooklyn, was instantly killed by shock from a high-tension wire of the Long Island Lighting Company with which he came in contact. John McNamara of 3,446 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, was with him in an automobile, when Trogy got out tempted by the overhanging fruit, and struck the wire accidentally.

JUMP COUNTY LINES TO REMAKE SENATE

Ex-Justice O'Brien's Proposal to the Albany Convention Stirs Brackett's Opposition.

FOR LARGER LEGISLATURE

Haffen Would Increase Membership of Both Branches and Give New York More Senators.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 25.—Ex-Attorney General Wickersham, at the short session of the Constitutional Convention today, offered an amendment the purpose of which is to obtain an equitable apportionment of Senate districts on the basis of population. The amendment was offered by Mr. Wickersham on behalf of ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, who was absent.

Several days ago ex-Justice O'Brien offered a proposal which would cancel the constitutional restriction preventing New York City from ever having a majority of the members of either House of the Legislature. What Mr. Wickersham offered today was an amendment to that proposal. It removes the restriction in the present Constitution prohibiting the crossing of county lines in the reapportionment of Senate districts. The present Constitution provides that "no county shall be divided in the formation of a Senate district, except to make two or more Senate districts wholly in such county." There is some reason for this restriction in up-State counties, but none whatever in New York City, where at the present time, at least one Senate district is situated partly in the county of New York, and partly in Bronx County. Generally speaking, the restriction has militated against a mathematical division of the State on the basis of population in the reapportionment of Senate districts.

Mr. Wickersham, in discussing Mr. O'Brien's proposal, said that while the amendment possibly might have a wholesome influence in New York City, it would work mischief up-State, in that it would promote gerrymanders. It would be possible, for instance, to group together parts of two counties to create a Senate district controlled by the political party dominant in the making of the reapportionment, even though in both counties a majority of the population might be of the opposite political faith. There were instances of that character in the Congressional reapportionment, of Democratic making. These were made possible because county lines do not figure in the making of Congress districts.

The O'Brien amendment was referred to the Committee on Legislative Organization, of which ex-Senator Brackett is Chairman. Mr. Brackett, who is opposed to any change in the constitutional provisions governing reapportionment, called a meeting of his committee at once, with a view of having an adverse report made. He did not succeed in getting a quorum, however, and consideration of the amendment was postponed until next Tuesday, when it is expected that the adverse report will be made in time to have it considered with the other measures affecting reapportionment on Wednesday.

Louis F. Haffen, former Borough President of the Bronx, offered an amendment today increasing the number of Senators from fifty-one to fifty-five, and the number of Assemblymen from 150 to 168 The amendment would give New York City three more Senators than it has now.

Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer of the Board of Estimate, and Ernest P. Goodrich, consulting engineer of the Borough of Manhattan, appeared today at a joint hearing before the Committee on Governor and Other Officers and the Committee on Canals, to urge the abolition of the State Engineer's office as an elective place, and the transfer of its activities to a Department of Engineering and Public Works, to be headed by three Commissioners appointed by the Governor with twelve-year terms, but with rotation which would assure the appointment of one new member every four years, immediately after the inauguration of a new Governor. This suggestion was offered on the assumption that the convention will increase the Governor's term of office from two to four years.

OLD YORK GREETS NEW YORK

Mayor of English City Sends Congratulations to Its Namesake.

Mayor Mitchel has received from the Lord Mayor of York, England, a cablegram with congratulations and good wishes from the citizens of old York to the officials and citizens of New York on the occasion of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the installation of its first Mayor, celebrated on Thursday. Here is the message:

> To the Mayor of New York:
>
> Mayor of New York: Citizens of old York unite with me in sending their congratulations to you and your fellow-citizens of New York on the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the installation of your first Mayor. May Old and New York lead the way in the ever-growing friendship between the great American Republic and the British Empire. New York has surpassed us in size and wealth, but we share with her a like devotion to the principles of humanity, self-government, and liberty, which are the common heritage of all the English-speaking peoples. LORD MAYOR OF YORK.

Mayor Mitchel cabled a reply, in which he expressed the appreciation of the city officials and people of New York for the felicitous message from the Lord Mayor of York.

URGES HEALTH SURVEYS.

Dr. Hutchinson Says They Should Precede All Colonizing.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson of New York, President of the American Academy of Medicine, in his address before the academy here today said the world would see still further remarkable progress in the development of the tropics, and that in all colonization schemes the physician should prepare the way.

"'The Physician as a Pioneer'" was his subject, in line with the general topic to which all the sessions of this year's academy meeting are devoted, namely, "Medicine in Its Relationships to Commerce and Transportation."

Dr. Hutchinson said, in part:

"The real enemy of the pioneer, the chief obstacle to the spread of civilization, is not Indians, or wolves, or rattlesnakes, or even famine or flood, or winter cold or tropic heat, but insects. Most schemes of colonization that failed failed not from famine or the attack of enemies, but through disease. And more than half of them from one disease—malaria. This is not merely the age of man but the age of insects, geologically considered, and the battle is to the death between them for the possession of the earth.

"In the tropics the insects get the whip hand of man and keep him stupid, short lived, uncivilized. It was the plague of flies, the bloody tyranny of insects, that drove man out of the warm, comfortable, fertile tropics into the chilly, rain-swept, half-the-year-frozen north. Now, grown to full human stature, he is coming back to invade and reconquer the tropics and put to flight the ancient foes of the race.

"In an earlier day the first requisite of a new colony or a pioneering expedition was a captain, a bold and skillful fighting man, with muskets for every grown man in the party and plenty of powder and ball; but now the first and most fundamental requirements of a new colony are a doctor-engineer, with microscope and test tubes, spades and trenching machines, and plenty of quinine, kerosene, and mosquito netting.

"In the near future no colony or land company will be permitted to take settlers into their new homes until a thorough and complete survey shall have been made of the region—sanitary, medical, entomological, expert agricultural—and at least a sufficient area to accommodate in safety the first group of settlers shall have been drained and kerosened and supplied with good water, so as to be protected against malaria, typhoid, hookworm, and water and fly borne diarrhoea and dysentery.

"It must be remembered in fairness that, bad as insects are, they do not originate the diseases they spread, but only carry them from one infected human being to other healthy ones. Deprive them of their source of infection and they become comparatively harmless. If the new country be uninhabited or sparsely settled, it is easy to cure or isolate such cases of malaria, yellow fever, typhoid, Summer diarrhoea, or other disease carriable by insects. Then, after a few weeks, or at the outside months', waiting, the infected insects will be all dead. Generally speaking, however, new settlers bring their diseases with them, and a most effective way of protecting a new settlement against not merely insect-borne but all other communicable diseases would be a thorough physical examination of all intending settlers and their families. A few weeks' isolation or appropriate treatment with quinine, salvarsan, thymol, &c., would be sufficient in the vast majority of cases to clear up all risk. Such examinations would be worth twice their cost to the individuals examined alone, and, in combination with a proper sanitary survey, would turn new countries and new colonies into little health-heavens on earth."

BANK STOCKHOLDERS LOSE

$1,000,000 in Judgments for Defunct Northern's Liabilities.

The decision holding responsible the stockholders of the defunct Northern Bank for all the liabilities of the bank, one of the concerns controlled by Joseph G. Robin, having been sustained by the Court of Appeals, the judgments against the defendants were docketed yesterday in the office of County Clerk Schneider. The suit was begun by the State Superintendent of Banks. There are 126 stockholders and the judgments aggregate nearly $1,000,000. The judgment against Robin is the biggest, amounting to $371,313. The next biggest is against Norman Seymour for $12,533.

Some well-known names appear in the list of judgment debtors, among them being Charles W. Morse, his sister, Jennie, and his son, Harry, each of whom must pay $113; Postmaster Edward M. Morgain, $1,124; Assistant Postmaster Thomas F. Murphy, $1,025; ex-Mayor Robert M. Van Wyck, $1,413; Edmund L. Mooney, $1,124; William R. Craig, $8,898; Warner M. Van Norden, $1,500, and Elkin Namberg, $1,124.

George W. Plunkitt, the Tammany leader, is a debtor to the extent of $1,513. He bemoaned the fact not because he was not very well able to pay, but because it was the first time a judgment ever had been entered against him.

The docketing of the judgments ends litigation that was begun in 1912. Unless the debtors pay their property will be attached.

BENNETT RETIRES IN JULY.

British Consul General to Quit New York Post.

Announcement was made yesterday from the British Consulate at 17 State Street that Sir Courtenay Walter Bennett, the Consul General, is retiring on pension in July after nearly forty years' service, which has been chiefly spent in the United States and India.

As a mark of appreciation for his long services, he was knighted by King George in November, 1913 and has been commended for his work in New York since the war started.

Sir Courtenay succeeded Sir Percy Sanderson as Consul General in New York in 1907. His successor has not yet been appointed and will probably not arrive here until the Fall. The retiring Consul General will spend the rest of his days on his estate in Devonshire, England.

HAZING NOT STOPPED AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Court of Inquiry Told That Practice Has Been Going on for the Last Two Years.

"PLEBES" MADE VICTIMS

Compelled to Enter Buildings and Get Information on the Examinations—Washington to Investigate.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, June 25.—Midshipman Charles M. Reagle, who testified today before the Court of Inquiry which is investigating the irregularities at the recent examinations, said that hazing, which was supposed to have been stamped out at the Academy after a Congressional investigation, had been going on for the past two years. Testimony along this line was admitted after counsel for the defendants had stated that they would show that under class men were compelled to enter buildings and obtain information under threats of hazing.

Reagle testified that he had entered an upper class man's room and had seen a "plebe" with his face to the wall. Reagle stated that it was the custom for "plebes" to face the wall when upper class men entered the room, and that he had the lesson impressed upon him when he first entered by getting a terrific "cussing out" for failing to do so. He said that he had mucilage poured down his legs and had to stand on his head under the shower.

Long and exhausting physical stunts were required of the midshipmen, he said, and they were forbidden to talk in the corridors or at meals. They were also required to sit on the extreme front of their chair while eating. He had seen, he said, midshipmen who were made to stand on their heads in the mess hall, being separated by a pillar from the officer in charge. He said that he approved hazing because it "took the conceit out of a man," and admitted he had done it since reaching the third class.

Midshipman Reagle's testimony in chief consisted of a repetition of all the things he had said two days ago, and he admitted today he had taken anything he could to help him with his recitations and examinations. He had not gone far when Mr. Carlin of counsel for the defendants suggested that the witness had admitted that he had perjured himself, and asked the court if it wished to receive his testimony. The court decided that it would allow Reagle to proceed.

Reagle said that he had numerous keys to get into the different departments, and that he had unlawfully entered nearly every department at the academy. He said he had two keys and a pair of pincers, with which he opened windows. He testified that he took recitation slips, blueprints, solutions of problems, and models, all of which gave him advance information. He said he also had taken from the English department some rough copies of questions which proved to be those which were given on examination. He named several midshipmen who accompanied him on his stealthy visits.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Testimony given by a midshipman at Annapolis today to the effect that there has been a revival of hazing at the Naval Academy will be followed, it is understood, by an official investigation. The disclosure came as a revelation to the higher authorities at Washington.

Congress, a few years ago, took a firm stand in opposition to the hazing practice at the academy, and enacted legislation calling for the dismissal of any midshipman found guilty of such an act. On the basis of the testimony given before the court of inquiry at Annapolis, the Navy Department will attempt to ascertain to what extent hazing has been revived at the academy and fix the responsibility.

DEFENSE BY THE MIDDIES.

Issue 'a Declaration of Principles' in Connection with Gouging Scandal.

ANNAPOLIS, June 25.—Because they feel that "the public has not had sufficient information to understand clearly their attitude, and that grave suspicion is resting upon them, that their whole code of morals is on trial," the members of the regiment of midshipmen have issued a "declaration of principles" in connection with the "gouging" scandal at the Naval Academy.

The paper was filed with Superintendent Fullam, and with that officer's reply was posted aboard all of the ships of the practice squadron today.

After referring to the oath of a midshipman to sacrifice all to patriotism and honor, the statement says that "no dishonest practice, where knowledge of such practice has been had by the members of the corps, has ever been tolerated in the regiment of midshipmen. Honesty and veracity have been demanded of every individual. For our mutual protection we have frowned upon any leanings toward a policy less than scrupulously honest and frank. Far from countenancing irregularities where they have been detected, we have shown willingness to aid the authorities in ridding the naval service of the undesirable member who may have been guilty of the misconduct.

"In view of this state of affairs, the honor committees of the several classes were discontinued as unnecessary in a military institution, where the principles of honor and truthfulness are the basis of discipline. We have, notwithstanding the discontinuance of these committees, upheld the ideas of honesty and veracity as a matter of loyalty and obedience.

"Therefore, since we believe the honor of the Naval Academy to be at stake, and since we consider it imperative upon ourselves to protect it, we present this declaration of our principles, in order that our attitude in this matter may be made clear, definite, and final."

After referring to his own efforts to keep up the standard or honor at the academy and expressing confidence in the honor of the regiment as a whole, Admiral Fullam says in his reply:

"The whole naval system is one of honor from start to finish. It is the best honor system that exists in any institution or in any service. Other honor systems are unnecessary for men of honor, and none of them will ever make a dishonorable man honorable. The Superintendent must emphasize the fact that nothing is more reprehensible than attempts to shield guilty men by throwing the responsibility for their misconduct upon others, or by bringing discredit upon those who have used every possible means to establish and maintain high standards."

MRS. FELLOWS FIRE VICTIM.

Widow of One-Time Congressman Burned While Alone in Home.

One week before she was to have celebrated her sixty-ninth birthday by a family reunion, Mrs. Elizabeth Fellows, widow of Colonel John R. Fellows, one-time Congressman, died yesterday afternoon from injuries received when her clothing caught fire. Mrs. Fellows lived with her daughter, Miss Bonnie Fellows, at 617 West 146th Street. She had been ill for several days, and was alone in her home yesterday. It is believed she went into the kitchen to heat water for tea. She apparently struck a match and as it flared up the loose sleeves of her dressing sack caught fire.

A man passing noticed smoke coming out of the window of the Fellows apartment. He summoned Patrolman Roche of the West 152d Street Station, and they found Mrs. Fellows on the floor in front of the stove, face downward, with her clothing burned off about the upper part of her body. The policeman put out the smoldering fire with a quilt snatched from the bed.

Mrs. Fellows was Miss Elizabeth Morris of Frankfort, Ky., where she was born on July 1, 1847. She married Mr. Fellows in Arkansas. She leaves two sons, John R., an accountant living in Philadelphia, and Harry, who is the manager of a hotel in St. Paul, and two daughters, Miss Bonnie and Miss Marguerite. Harry started for New York on Thursday to be here when his mother celebrated her birthday.

Colonel Fellows, soldier and lawyer, was one of the best-known men in political life when he died on Dec. 7, 1896. He was born in this State, but he moved to Arkansas, where he served in the State Assembly. He came to New York in 1868, was appointed Assistant District Attorney in 1869, and was elected District Attorney in 1887. He was elected to the fifty-second Congress as a Democrat.

"MADE GOOD GIRL A CROOK."

Judge Sentences Man Who Induced Her to Rob Family.

Herbert W. Scholtz of 30 Linden Street, Brooklyn, stood before Judge J. Harry Tiernan in the Queens County Court yesterday and heard the Judge tell him he was a crook, and that the Court regretted that he was unable to send him to Sing Sing instead of giving him one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary on a plea of guilty to petty larceny.

In an affidavit, Mrs. Anna M. Sander, wife of Carl Sander, a grocer of 216 Union Avenue, Brooklyn, said Scholtz had obtained an influence over her daughter, Anna, 17 years old, who kept books in her father's store, and that she supplied Scholtz with blank checks from her father's check book, which Scholtz filled out, and with the proceeds lived a gay life, even going so far as to take the Sander family for automobile trips on the proceeds of his forged checks.

The Judge had accepted a plea of guilty to petit larceny by Scholtz for forging a check for $28.15 on the People's National Bank of Brooklyn, and collecting the money from C. W. Fanshaw, a saloon keeper of Richmond Hill. Mrs. Sander estimates Scholtz got $3,000.

Scholtz pleaded guilty on a bad check charge before Judge Lewis in Brooklyn on April 19, 1915, and sentence was suspended.

"You are a crook, and a dangerous man to be at large," said Judge Tiernan in passing sentence. "You took a good, pure girl and made her a crook. You made her rob her family so that you could be a sport. I wish I could send you to Sing Sing. I would not have accepted your plea of guilty to petit larceny had I known of your past record, and also that you were under suspended sentence."

TRAPPED BY WANT "AD."

Young Mother Held as Thieving Maid of the Bronx.

On a short affidavit charging suspicion of grand larceny, made by Mrs. Frances Fitzpatrick of 919 Ogden Avenue, the Bronx, sister of Municipal Justice John M. Tierney of the Bronx, Detectives Bruckman and Quick of the Bronx Detective Bureau yesterday arrested Mrs. Ellie Maurer, 20 years old, of 623 Courtlandt Avenue, the Bronx. The prisoner, who is the mother of a 2-year-old girl, gave her occupation as housemaid. She was arraigned before Magistrate Marsh in the Morrisania Court and held without bail for examination today.

According to Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Maurer answered her advertisement on June 23 for a housemaid. Later in the day Mrs. Fitzpatrick went out, and when she returned she alleges Mrs. Maurer was gone and sixty pieces of table silverware, two sets of furs, a gold watch, and some silk hosiery were also missing. Mrs. Fitzpatrick notified the police. Detectives Druckman and Quick inserted an advertisement in the papers for a housemaid. Yesterday morning Mrs. Maurer called at 2,140 Vyse Avenue, the Bronx, the address given in the advertisement, and upon being identified by Mrs. Fitzpatrick was placed under arrest.

Most of the loot taken from Mrs. Fitzpatrick's home has been recovered in a pawnshop. The police say Mrs. Fitzpatrick is one of about eight or nine women robbed by Mrs. Maurer, and that the total value of the property taken is about $2,500.

SECOND BRIDE DIED IN BATH LIKE FIRST

Jury in London Murder Trial Hears That This Woman Was in Good Health.

For the First Time He Interrupts Proceedings to Call Witness "a Lunatic."

LONDON, June 25.—The trial of George Joseph Smith, indicted on the charge of having murdered his three wives by drowning them in bathtubs, entered its second stage today.

"We now begin the Alice Burnham story," remarked the trial Judge, alluding to the second alleged victim.

The first witness on this phase of the case was a Southsea insurance agent. The testimony ran on to show that it was in that place that Smith was introduced to Miss Burnham, who promptly took out $5,000 worth of life insurance which she said was for the benefit of her mother.

"Next day," said the witness, "Smith married Miss Burnham."

Six weeks later, according to the witness, Smith wrote to him, announcing that his wife had died in her bath. Smith subsequently visited him and produced his wife's will, whereupon the witness expressed surprise, because Smith had told him a few days previously that he would not allow his wife to make a will. Smith told him that he also was surprised when he found the will after her death. The will, said the witness, left everything to Smith.

The next witness was dressed in khaki. He was Dr. Burrows, now of the Army Medical Corps, who arrived from the fighting line to testify that he had examined Miss Burnham for insurance, and that he had found her to be a first-class risk.

Mrs. Burnham, the mother of Alice, testified that her daughter, when young, had suffered from an illness believed to be epilepsy, but she never had had a fit since.

Lodging-house keepers of Blackpool testified to inquiries made by the Smiths for lodgings, and referred to the refusal of the prisoner to take rooms in one house because they had no bath. The couple finally took apartments in the house of Mrs. Crossley. This woman went on the stand and said that the night following the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Smith water leaked through the ceiling into the kitchen, a thing which never had happened before. Later Mr. Smith entered the kitchen from the street. He seemed agitated, Mrs. Crossley testified, and conversed for some twenty minutes. As he left the kitchen he called upstairs, "Alice, put the light out." Then followed the discovery of the woman's body in her bath.

For the first time during the hearing Smith interrupted the proceedings by shouting, "This woman is a lunatic."

LIBERALS WIN IN CHILE.

Early Returns of Presidential Election Indicate Victory.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 25.—The Presidential election was held today. Perfect order was maintained throughout the republic.

The result of the balloting is not yet known, but the available returns indicate a great majority for Señor Don Javier Figueroa, former Minister of the Interior, who is running on the Liberal ticket against Juan Luis San Fuentes, the Democratic candidate.

LOSES LIFE IN EXPERIMENT.

One Dead and Ten Burned by Explosion in Aetna Company's Plant.

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—Ten were burned, one fatally, late today, by an explosion at the plant of the Aetna Chemical Company, where experiments are being made, under Government direction, of a new process for the manufacture of gasoline. Stephen Homer, aged 20, died after being taken to a hospital, and the condition of four other men was declared serious tonight. Among those seriously injured was George Lobdell, aged 28, Superintendent of the plant.

Local representatives of the company maintained secrecy regarding the cause of the explosion, but, according to the police, it resulted from an experiment which Superintendent Lobdell was making.

OFFERS JUSTICE BRIBE.

Brother Tries to Buy Freedom for Bonura with Bankroll.

Before Vincent Bonura, 41 years old, was sentenced by Justice Manning in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday to a term of from seven and a half to ten years in Sing Sing for arson, a man who said he was a brother of the defendant asked to see the jurist. The visitor was admitted to the Justice's chambers. He pulled an envelope from his pocket and handed it to the Justice. When it was opened a large roll of bills dropped out.

"What's that for?" asked Justice Manning.

"That's for you," replied the visitor.

Justice Manning then gave the visitor a strong lecture.

"Do you know what you are doing? Are you aware you have committed a State prison offense, and I could turn you over to a court officer and send you to jail?"

The visitor said he thought he was doing what was right to do in an American court. Justice Manning was convinced that the man was ignorant of what he was doing and ordered him and the bankroll out of his office.

GREENHUT CO. PLAN ROUSES OPPOSITION

Head of Independent Creditors Says 400 Are Against Reorganization as Outlined.

OTHERS ASK ITS ADOPTION

Both Factions Will Fight It Out When Referee Hears Application for Sale of Assets.

Frank T. Worrall, Vice President of Fred Butterfield & Co., importers, at 725 Broadway, and Chairman of the independent committee of creditors of the bankrupt J. B. Greenhut Company, said yesterday that the opposition to the plan for the reorganization of the Greenhut Company proposed by the Creditors' Protective Committee was growing. Mr. Worrall said he had received postcards from about 400 creditors and letters from 50 or 60 creditors who opposed the plan.

Richard E. Dwight, counsel for the Creditors' Protective Committee, on the other hand, expressed the hope that the proposed reorganization plan would be adopted. He had no interest in the matter, he said, other than to get as much for his clients as possible, and the adoption of the plan, he thought, would achieve this end. He admitted, however, that some of the claims against Captain Greenhut and members of his family put forward by the independent committee would serve as causes of action in court proceedings, and he intimated that, should the reorganization plan fall through, he might join hands with the independents in an effort to collect what he could for the creditors represented by him. He would regret the necessity for this, he said, because he did not believe that as much could be gained by litigation as by a reorganization of the Greenhut business along the lines of the plan.

Mr. Dwight admitted that endorsements of the plan were coming in slowly, but he attributed this to the fact the the creditors were taking time to consider the plan thoroughly before approving or disapproving it. He was encouraged to hope, he said, by the fact that endorsement of the plan had been received from a number of creditors formerly allied with the independent committee. But, while Mr. Dwight made this assertion the independents made the counter charge that some creditors, who had hitherto supported the Protective Committee had come out in opposition to the re-organization plan.

Vigorously Opposes Plan.

Mr. Worrall yesterday made public a letter, which, he said, illustrated the character of many of the communications received by him. It said in part:

"I should think Captain Greenhut would read with shame the extraordinary offer submitted to the creditors of the company that bears his name. I am surprised that men of the recognized business ability of the men whose names head this offer should be willing to allow such an offer to go out under their names, and especially that they should be willing to approve such an offer.

"I am a creditor through three different companies that sold merchandise to the J. B. Greenhut Company, and I assure you that I shall use every means to block any such terrific injustice from being perpetrated. Personally, I should prefer to have the Greenhut family get away with the whole thing than to insult me with the pittance they seem to think I should be glad to take."

The two factions of creditors will probably meet for their first decisive clash on July 8, when Frank M. Rosenberg, of Rosenberg, Levis & Ball, counsel for the trustees of the bankrupt store, will appear before Peter B. Olney, Referee in Bankruptcy, to make an application for an order for the sale of all or part of the Greenhut assets. Mr. Rosenberg said yesterday that he would send notice of his intention to make this application to all of the creditors today, so that they might have the legal ten days' warning.

The application will seek the sale of the Greenhut institution as "a going concern," but what particular assets shall be sold and of what nature the sale shall be must be decided by the referee. Those desiring the reorganization of the store, it is thought, will want the assets sold in such manner that the reorganized company may buy them in, whereas those opposed to reorganisation will fight this plan, so that Mr. Olney will have to decide between the factions. It had been intended by Mr. Rosenberg to make the application for the order of sale next Tuesday morning, but he said yesterday that, because of the controversies, he wished to be unquestionably fair to all concerned by giving the full ten days' notice of the application before it was made.

One of the complaints of the independent creditors against the Greenhuts lies in the financial tangle growing out of the formation of ehe Monmouth Securities Company and its relations to the J. B. Greenhut Company. According to Captain J. B. Greenhut's testimony before Mr. Olney the Monmouth Securities Company was incorporated five or six years ago in New Jersey, its incorporators being Captain Greenhut, his two sons, his wife, and his daughter. To this corporation Captain Greenhut gave all of the gold bonds of the J. B. Greenhut Company that he possessed and all of his stock in his dry goods business except 500 shares. He also turned back into the securities company all of the stock he owned in it except one share. He did these things, he said, to protect his family, which became the practical owner of the securities company. At the same time Captain Greenhut and his two sons retained control of the Greenhut store.

The Monmouth Notes.

The Monmouth Securities Company then made loans to the Greenhut store on demand notes, and between October and December of last year the securities company presented for payment a number of these notes aggregating $900,000. The fact that these notes were presented by a company controlled by Captain Greenhut's family, the independent creditors argue, shows that the family wanted to save what it could for itself out of the Greenhut store, and, the same creditors maintain, the payment of the notes by the store was the final action that sent the store sliding toward bankruptcy.

Captain Greenhut, however, who insists that he personally did not dictate the policy of the Monmouth Company, told the referee that the company had a perfect right to ask for its money on the notes, especially in view of the fact that it was able to make profitable investment of the money collected, because of the shortage of money due to the war. Captain Greenhut further testified that he obtained the money to meet the notes by borrowing from banks in the city on notes which he personally indorsed, though the notes were taken out in the name of the store.

To this defense the dissenting creditors have replied by admitting Captain Greenhut's assertion, and adding that Captain Greenhut paid the notes to the banks out of the funds of the store, thus relieving himself of the obligations incurred when he indorsed them. The effect was the same, according to the independent creditors, as if Captain Greenhut had paid the Securities Company directly out of the funds of the store.

Captain Greenhut has replied to this that he had to take up the bank notes to sustain the credit of the store, and he has added, as an index of his good faith, that only a few days before his store went into bankruptcy he tried to save it by borrowing some $350,000 for it on his own notes. He was unsuccessful, however, and the store failed soon after.

The validity of the claims of the independents will be contended for when the examination of Captain Greenhut is continued before Referee Olney next Tuesday afternoon in the rooms of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building.

WHITMAN TO MEET FIELDER.

Governors to Visit Palisades Interstate Park Today.

Governor Whitman was a guest last night at George W. Perkins's home at Riverdale. Today he will accompany Mr. Perkins to the Palisades Interstate Park, on a tour of inspection, and will meet Governor Fielder of New Jersey. He will go to Albany tonight.

The Governor went shopping yesterday morning with Major J. Stanley Moore, his Military Secretary. Later he conferred with District Attorney Perkins and then had luncheon with Colonel William Hayward, Public Service Commissioner. The Governor declined to discuss the Becker case. He has the appointment of three men to the Boxing Commission. He declined to say who the men would be, but he said there were about forty candidates.

Just before he started for Riverdale the Governor had a long conference at the St. Regis Hotel with Charles D. Hilles, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, and another with ex-Congressman William M. Calder of Brooklyn. The Governor cheerfully admitted that politics was discussed, but he refused to go into details.

The Governor was asked again about the work of the Thompson Committee and he characterized as false the story that he had told the members of the committee, while they were in session some months ago, that he intended to remove all the Public Service Commissioners of this district.

"I never said any such thing," said the Governor. "Is it likely that while an investigation is still in progress I would so express myself? I never told any one that I would remove Chairman McCall or any one else on that commission. I waited for the report and found that the most serious charges made against the members had not been proven, in fact had been disproven."

WIFE SUES YOUNG WOMAN.

Charges Elsie Buchanan, 20, Won Love of Proctor Snyder.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Snyder began yesterday an action for $25,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Proctor Snyder, against Miss Elsie A. Buchanan, now 20 years old. The defendant is the daughter of Thomas F. Buchanan of 407 Warburton Avenue, Yonkers, who recently sold out his oilcloth mills for more than a million.

Mr. Snyder had a prosperous real estate business until he disappeared eighteen months ago. He figured in the newspapers last August, when it was alleged he had eloped with an Albany girl. According to Mrs. Snyder's affidavit, a romance between her husband and Miss Buchanan began in 1913, when Mr. and Mrs. Snyder attended the commencement exercises of Halsted School. There, Mrs. Snyder says, her husband and the defendant first met, and the girl tried to win him, even though she knew he was married.

MAY OUST 500 CLERKS.

Committee to Consider Abolition of Estimate Board Adjuncts.

Controller Prendergast introduced a resolution in the Board of Estimate yesterdy providing for the appointment by the Mayor of a committee of three to report whether it was necessary to continue the staffs of the various committees of the board. President Mathewson had it amended to include the bureaus of the board, and it was then adopted.

The action will affect about 500 city employes and about $500,000 a year in salaries. The list which it is contemplated to abolish includes the Bureaus of Contract Supervision and Standards, Sewer Plan and Franchise and Public Improvements. Last week the Controller dispensed, with the approvl of the board, with the staff of the Committee on Port and Terminal Facilities, of which he is Chairman.

The next meeting of the board will be held next Thursday instead of Friday, when the Summer schedule of one meeting a month during July, August and September will go into effect. The meetings will be held the last Fridays in the three months.

Religious Campaign Planned.

The Evangelistic Committee of New York laid plans for an open-air religious campaign in and near this city at a meeting yesterday afternoon on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Calvert in Irvington, N. Y. Among the speakers were Dr. Anthony J. Smith, the Rev. Ernest R. Eaton, Charles Barry, and Miss Ruth G. Winant. Others present were Mrs. John D. Archbold, Mrs. Helen L. Gibson, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Mairs, Mrs. Homer Foot, Mrs. Charles Gould, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Russell, Mrs. Frederick A. Sayles, Mrs. Louis Shepard, Adam Luke, Mrs. John Luke, Mrs. Thomas Luke, Mrs. Charles Eddison, Mrs. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Burnham, Dr. George F. Webster, Mrs. Arthur L. Barney, Mr. and Mrs. Olney D. Mairs, Robert G. Abercrombie, Miss A. Paulding, and Mrs. John F. Plummer.

SAYS ISMAY RULED IN TITANIC'S BOATS

Managing Director Had Charge of Their Launching, Testifies Karl H. Behr.

MRS. FUTRELLE ON STAND

Writer's Widow Describes Separation from Husband Just Before Ship Went Down.

More direct testimony of witnesses regarding the sinking of the Titanic in April, 1912, was heard yesterday before Judge Julius M. Mayer in the United States District Court in the suit brought by the White Star Line to have its liabilities limited. Karl H. Behr, the tennis player, said he was awake at the time the boat struck, and, feeling a slight jar, went on deck A, where he found passengers putting on life belts. The list to starboard, he said, was noticeable. He went below and aroused Miss Beckwith, who has since become his wife, and her mother and father. He said it was thirty-five or forty minutes after the ship struck before the passengers received any warning of danger. The witness said Miss Beckwith asked J. Bruce Ismay, who was Managing Director of the line and who was in his shirt-sleeves giving orders, if their party could go in one boat. Mr. Ismay, he said, was in entire charge of the launching of the boats, and when their boat was lowered Mr. Ismay gave the order to lower away. The boat, he said, contained about forty-five or fifty passengers and could have accommodated fifteen or twenty more.

Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, whose husband, the well-known writer, perished, was the next witness. At the time of the collision, she said, she was reading, and that her husband went on deck to investigate. When he returned, Mrs. Futrelle said, her husband told her that an officer had told him that there was absolutely no danger. Some minutes later, she said, the stewards came around and ordered them on deck. Reaching the deck, she said the men were sent elsewhere, and this was the first intimation that there was danger, and that she was to be separated from her husband. While some women were getting into the life boats, Mrs. Futrelle said, she went to deck A, where she found her husband with a number of men who were smoking, walking about and chatting as if unconscious of their danger. When the ship began to sink her husband told her to go above and get into a boat, as it would give him a better chance to save himself.

Eugene Daly of Newark, N. J., was awakened when the Titanic struck, but was assured there was no danger. The stewards, he said, ordered all hands on deck, and when he reached there he found some of the stewards laughing and smoking cigarettes. He said he returned below and aroused some of his friends. He saw three lifeboats lowered, and when he attempted to get into one an officer threatened him, although the boats were far from full. He said he heard two shots at this time, and later saw two men lying on the deck, and was told that they had been shot. When the ship listed he jumped into the water and clung to an upturned boat until morning. Eventually he was picked up by the boat in which he was first refused permission to get in. He said several women refused to get into the lifeboats because the officers told them there was no danger.

Adrian I. Keegan of the United States Hydrographic Bureau submitted verification of the pilot charts for March and April from 1907 to 1912, and they were admitted in evidence.

Captain Robert Niss of the steamship Bohemia testified as to ice conditions. Even on a clear, starlight night, he said, he could not guarantee to see ice far enough ahead to avoid striking it. Even on a bright moonlight night, unless the moon was behind the ice, outlining it, ice might easily be overlooked. If he had entered an ice zone described to be similar to that under which the Titanic met her fate, he said he would have slowed down to a speed which made it certain that he could stop in an emergency.

Captain Henry Meyerdierks of the steamship President Grant, of the Hamburg-American Line, said if he had received warnings similar to those received by the Titanic he would have gone at least fifty miles south of the danger zone as indicated.

It is expected that the case for the survivors will be closed today.

Elevator Runner Killed.

Patrick Sullivan, 40, of Teaneck, N. J., an elevator runner employed in the Tiffany Building, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, was crushed to death yesterday morning. He ran the car to the fourth floor, where he alighted, and as he did so the car started to ascend. He tried to stop it, but was caught and jammed between the ceiling and the floor of the car.

$25,000 GIVEN TO MRS. PELL.

Jury Holds Long Island Railroad Responsible for Auto Wreck.

A verdict for $25,000 was given to Mrs. Elizabeth Warden Pell for the death of her husband by a jury before Justice Aspinall in the Queens County Supreme Court yesterday morning, where Mrs. Pell sued the Long Island Railroad Company for $250,000 damages. Mrs. Pell sat alongside of Mrs. Nathalie S. Laimbeer, who was severely injured in the accident on the Wreck Lead, Long Beach, crossing, on Sunday night, Aug. 3, 1913, in which her own husband, William Laimbeer, who was in the Pell automobile with her, was killed.

Former Justice Van Wyck, who represented Mrs. Pell, consulted with Mrs. Pell, Charles Pope Caldwell, the attorney of record, and Mrs. Laimbeer, and then said: "I have nothing to say."

Matthew J. Keaney, who assisted Martin W. Littleton in his defense of the railroad, moved to have the verdict set aside. It was denied.

Judge Van Wyck was allowed 5 per cent. of the verdict as counsel fees on account of the unusual amount of work he was compelled to do in the preparation and trial of the case, which added $1,250 more to the verdict.

"I think it is best to let the verdict stand," said Mrs. Pell. "I could never undergo this ordeal again. I was more interested in clearing my husband's name than I was in the amount of the verdict, and I consider that the verdict is a vindication."

One-third of the amount of the verdict will go to Mrs. Pell and two-thirds to Miss Isabel Pell, 14 years old, Pell's daughter by a former marriage.

The suits of Mrs. Laimbeer for $250,000 for the death of her husband and $50,000 for her own injuries, as well as the suit of the widow of Domenico Gambino, the chauffeur, who was also killed, will go over until the Fall term of court. It is understood that the railroad will take an appeal in the Pell case.

OPEN "HOPPERIE" TONIGHT.

Suffrage Women to Inaugurate New Game at Coney Island.

The suffragists will open their own "hopperie" at Luna Park tonight and will be the first to hop for the prize, a beautiful pair of "jumpers." The "hopperie" is a new amusement invented by the Publication Committee of the Empire State Campaign Committee, of which Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse is President. Mrs. Whitehouse will be the head of the game tonight and will stand at the top of a map of the United States laid out on an incline plane over which the hoppers will hop to victory or defeat. Mrs. Ethel Watts Mumford is to be the first to enter the contest, and following her will be a number of guests of honor, led by General Rosalie Jones, commander in chief of the suffrage hike; Rose O'Neill, the artist, and her sister, Miss Calista O'Neill, Olga Petrova, the actress, and Florence Mary Nash.

Mrs. Mumford will carry a big cornucopia of suffrage caramels when she enters the game, and at the top of the incline will present it to Mrs. Whitehouse, who will carry a bridal shower bouquet of flowers in yellow, blue, and white, the Campaign Committee colors. Mrs. Mumford will then recite limericks of her own invention, while Mrs. Whitehouse tosses flowers and candy to the crowd, and Miss Ethel Lloyd Patterson, to attract hoppers to the "hopperie" will beat the big bass drum, which is one of the aids to suffrage used by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. The second prize for the contest is a bunch of hops.

ACCUSED WRONG MAN.

Holtzfurtner Says It Was Not Thompson Who Fleeced Him.

Frank T. Thompson, arrested in Atlantic City on June 8 on a charge of swindling Louis Holtzfurtner out of $8,500 in a gambling house, went to the office of Assistant District Attorney O'Malley yesterday and asked that he be confronted with Holtzfurtner for purposes of identification. Mr. O'Malley sent for the complainant, and when he arrived and saw Thompson in Mr. O'Malley's office, he said that Thompson was not the man who swindled him, although he resembled him.

"You caused my arrest after my photograph had been shown to you," Thompson said. "I never saw you before in my life. Your mistake has been costly to me and caused me considerable inconvenience."

Mr. O'Malley is convinced that Holtzfurtner really was mistaken and the charge against Thompson will be dropped.

MRS. BECKER SEES LAWYERS

But Plans Are Being Held Up Pending Action by the Governor.

Mrs. Charles Becker and her attorneys, Martin T. Manton and John B. Johnston, had a long conference yesterday concerning steps which they will take in an effort to save Becker from paying the death penalty in the week beginning July 12 for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Becker's plans are held up while Mr. Manton is waiting for Governor Whitman to fix a date for a conference at which Mr. Manton hopes to arrange for a hearing on his plea for executive clemency. Until such a hearing has been held it is improbable that Mr. Manton will prepare to bring the case to the Federal courts on a writ of error.

Mr. Manton expects to hear from the Governor today.

ZIONISTS GATHER FOR BIG CONVENTION

Pouring Into Boston from All Parts of the Country—Ten Organizations to Meet.

WILL DISCUSS PALESTINE

With Particular Reference to Effect of War on Movement for Restoring Land to Jewish Control.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 25.—Zionists from all over the country poured into Boston today to attend the convention of the ten national organizations, which began tonight with religious services and with a reception by the Jewish Men's Club at Temple Mishkan Tefila. Addresses were made by Louis D. Brandeis, Professor Richard Gottheil of New York, Leon Zolotkoff of Chicago, Dr. Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore, Rabbi Benjamin Lichter of Far Rockaway, N. Y., and Dr. Joseph Levy of Oklahoma City.

Services at Adath Jeshurun, Blue Hill Avenue, were held, with an address by Rabbi Ashinsky of Pittsburgh; at Beth-El, on Fowler Street, Dorchester, where Rabbi Gold of Scranton, Penn., was the speaker, and at Beth Israel Synagogue, Malden, where Rabbi Shaffner of Baltimore spoke.

A big reception and dance at the Old City Club, on Beacon Street, will be held tomorrow evening. Services will be held during the day at Adath Jeshurun, Roxbury; Beth-El, Dorchester; Mishkan Tefila, Roxbury; Ohabei Shalom, Union Park Street, and Ohel Jacob, East Boston.

The formal opening of the joint convention will be at Ford Hall on Sunday morning. Jacob De Hass of Boston will be Chairman. The most important feature of the convention will be the report of the Provisional Zionist Committee. Judge Leon Sanders of New York and ex-Assemblyman Aaron Levy will present resolutions declaring the allegiance of the Independent Order B'rith Abraham to the movement. Similar resolutions will be offered for the Independent Order B'rith Shelon. These two orders have 240,000 members.

In the evening a mass meeting will be held in Mechanics' Building. The speakers will include Governor Walsh, Mr. Brandeis, and Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago.

Monday will be given over to business sessions, and in the evening there will to a banquet in Mechanics' Building, with Nathan Straus as one of the speakers. The convention will be transferred to Chelsea on Wednesday.

Among the prominent arrivals today were Louis Lipsky of New York City, Chairman of the Federation of American Zionists; Benjamin Pearlstein of New York City, Secretary of the Provisional Zionist Committee; Dr. S. Levine of New York City and Berlin, member of the Zionist Actions Committee; Max Goldman of New York City, Secretary of the Federation of American Zionists; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Crockin, prominent Zionists of Baltimore; Nathan Kaplan of Chicago, Grand Master of the Knights of Zion; Max Shulman of Chicago, Vice Grand Master of the Knights of Zion; Professor H. M. Kallen, formerly of Boston, now a member of the Faculty of the University of Wisconsin, and M. L. Abner and Morris Meaman, delegates from Pittsburgh.

The future of Palestine, with particular reference to the effect of the war upon the movement for restoring the land to Jewish control, will be discussed at the meetings. Headquarters for the registration of delegates were opened today.

The principal convention is that of the Federation of American Zionists, representing all the American Zionist organizations. In the call for the convention Louis Lipsky of New York, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the federation, said:

"This convention will be the most important annual conference ever held by American Zionists. Zionism in Europe has been seriously affected by the war. Our comrades are unable to bear their portion of the burden of Zionist work. We must assume the extraordinary responsibilities thrust upon us. To meet the new problems that have arisen and our larger obligations unusual sacrifices will be demanded of us."

Trout Fisher Nets a Pig.

While fishing for trout on Queechy Lake, near Canaan, N. Y., yesterday, W. F. Farrell saw swimming toward his boat something he at first supposed to be a big fish. When it got quite close the fisherman recognized a husky little porker. With his landing net he scooped it out of the water. William Speed, a farmer, claimed the pig.

MAYOR NAMES FIVE JUSTICES

They Will Conduct the Children's Court Under New Law.

Mayor Mitchel yesterday appointed Justices Franklin C. Hoyt, John B. Mayo, Robert J. Wilkin, Morgan M. L. Ryan, and Cornelius F. Collins to the newly organized Children's Court. He named Justice Hoyt as the Presiding Justice. These Justices will take office on July 1, when the law recently enacted by the Legislature goes into effect.

The new law will place the Children's Court upon an independent administrative basis. It completely divorces the treatment of children from all connection with crime. Hitherto the Children's Court has been only a subsidiary part of the Court of Special Sessions. After July 1 it will become a division of that court with its own probation system, its own system of records, and the right of its board of five Justices to make its own rules and regulations. The force of thirty-six probation officers now working in the Children's Court will have a chief probation officer and three deputy chief probation officers to direct their work.

All of the men appointed to the newly organized court have been for years interested in work for children. With the exception of Justice Collins they have been engaged in children's work on assignments from the Court of Special Sessions. Justice Hoyt is President of the Big Brother Movement and also of the Council of Boy Scouts in Manhattan and the Bronx. Justice Wilkin was at one time Superintendent of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and is now President of the Brooklyn Juvenile Probation Association. Justice Mayo, in addition to a service of three years in the Children's Court, is connected with various children's societies. Justice Collins is President of the Catholic Big Brother Movement, which he recently organized. Justice Ryan is President of the Richmond County Probation Association.

TO MORTGAGE THE LAMBS.

Actors' Club Plans Addition to Forty-fourth Street Home.

Justice Shearn of the Supreme Court granted permission to The Lambs yesterday to mortgage their clubhouse at 128-134 West Forty-fourth Street for $450,000, the money to be used to pay off the present mortgages and to build an addition.

When the proposed improvements are made the property will be worth about $700,000. The new mortgage is to consist of a loan of $300,000 by the Dime Savings Bank and is to be paid off in ten years. The other $150,000 is to be procured by a bond issue payable in ten years. The bonds, it was said, would be taken by members of the club.

There are two mortgages on the property, one for $159,000, and the other of $46,800. The estimated cost of the improvements contemplated is $235,000. The personal property of the club is estimated at $120,000.

CAN'T LIVE ON $25,000.

Wife of Florman Asks $50,000 Yearly for Herself and Baby.

Mrs. Olga V. Florman, wife of Nils Florman of 777 Madison Avenue, and daughter of Charles Kohler, senior member of the piano manufacturing establishment of Kohler & Campbell when he died on June 4, 1913, cannot maintain herself and infant son on the $25,000 yearly income provided for her under the terms of her father's will, she said in an application to Surrogate Cohalan yesterday. She asked for an additional allowance of $25,000 to be taken from the principal of a fund of $300,000, left for her under the will. The payments from this fund do not fall due except in $100,000 allotments as Mrs. Florman may reach the ages of 25, 35, and 45 years, respectively.

The applicant, now 21, together with her sisters, Vera B., 13, and Rita M., 12 years old, are the residuary legatees of the estate, after the death of their mother, Mrs. Veronica M. Kohler. The executors and trustees, in their accounting filed in January, reported the net estate to be $4,300,312.

Japanese Girl Wins Medal.

Hatsume Higuichi, a 13-year-old Japanese girl, won the medal awarded yesterday for general excellence in a class of forty-one pupils in Public School 27, at College Point, L. I. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monnuski Higuichi of 418 First Street, College Point. She was born in Pearl Street, Brooklyn, and for several years attended a private school. In her examinations she got 83.3 per cent. She will enter the Flushing High School in the Fall. Her father is the inventor of an electric clock, a typewriter and a machine for the manufacture of Japanese rice cakes.

SLADE JURY DRAWN IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Wood Alleges Lawyers Knew Rae Tanzer Had No Case Against J. W. Osborne.

SEES DEFENDANTS' MOTIVE

Littleton Sarcastic in His Fight to Halt Government's Case Upon Technicalities.

The trial of Maxwell and David Slade, the lawyers who represented Rae Tanzer in her $50,000 breach of promise suit against James W. Osborne, and of Albert J. McCullough, a private detective whom they employed, was begun yesterday morning in the Criminal Branch of the Federal District Court after having been postponed three days on account of the absence of the Slade counsel, Martin W. Littleton. The three defendants are charged with having conspired to interfere with justice by tampering with witnesses and otherwise.

The jury was drawn in less than two hours, neither side exercising all of its peremptory challenges. The jurors are:

1—ROBERT J. HOWE, foreman, cloth dealer, 611 Broadway.
2—SAMUEL H. MYERS, manufacturer, 545 Broadway.
3—CHARLES A. FALCONI, broker, 56 Pine Street.
4—HARRY STAHL, dry goods manufacturer, 22 West Twenty-sixth Street.
5—GEORGE C. PORTER, real estate agent, 150 Broadway.
6—ISAAC O. SCHIFF, housefurnishings, 1,059 Morris Avenue.
7—JAMES KLABER, marble works, 125 West 124th Street.
8—THOMAS J. LEE, tailor, 26 West Thirty-third Street.
9—CARL M. WATSON, retired, 115 Cedar Street, Westchester.
10—FRANK B. WASHBURNE, advertising agent, 9 and 15 Murray Street.
11—C. F. HAIGHT, retired, 971 Summit Avenue, the Bronx.
12—ELWOOD C. HALL, manager, 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, White Plains.

Fight on Technicalities.

The fight on technicalities began before the jury had been selected. As soon as the case was called Mr. Littleton read the indictment to Judge Gordon Russell and the list of alleged acts on which the indictment was based. Except that these acts had cumulative weight when taken in consideration with the charge of conspiracy itself, Mr. Littleton argued they had little or no importance and no one of them was in itself a crime. Among the acts charged in this indictment was that the Slades had held a "conversation" with a newspaper photographer in their office in connection with the case. The Government has a witness to swear that the Slades suggested that he transpose photographs of James W. Osborne and Rae Tanzer to make it appear that a single photograph of the two had been taken when they were together. Another was that $24 had been given to Franklin D. Safford, the clerk of the Hotel Kensington, Plainfield, N. J., who was sentenced to ten months imprisonment on a perjury charge for testimony he gave at the preliminary hearing of the Tanzer case. The act of giving the money was in itself no crime, Mr. Littleton argued.

Judge Russell overruled the motion made by Mr. Littleton that the case be thrown out, and the lawyer took exception to the court's first ruling. The jury was then drawn.

In opening the Government's case immediately after lunch, Assistant United States District Attorney Roger B. Wood referred to James W. Osborne's long standing reputation as a lawyer and man in public life and was uninterrupted in this, but in practically everything he said during the rest of his opening he was interrupted by Mr. Littleton's objections, a large majority of which Judge Russell overruled. Exceptions were taken to the rulings, providing ground for an appeal. Mr. Wood said the Government would show that Rae Tanzer's action against Mr. Osborne had "no foundation in fact."

"We will show that James W. Osborne never saw Ray Tanzer until she appeared in court," Mr. Wood said. He declared the Government expected to prove the Slades knew there was no ground for the Tanzer suit; that James W. Osborne was at a Bar Association meeting on the day he was charged with being at the Plainfield, N. J., Hotel with Rae Tanzer, and that after leaving the Mountain Lake House in Orange County Safford was taken in an automobile to David Slade's home and kept under the watch of Slade and McCullough until the date of the preliminary hearing, when, the Government alleges, he identified James W. Osborne as the man he had seen at the hotel only after Osborne had been pointed out to him in court by McCullough. Mr. Wood said that the photographer would testify that one of the Slades had said to him: "If you can find out where James W. Osborne is we will put Rae close to him and you can take the two of them together."

Alleged Motive on Record.

For the first time in the case Mr. Wood succeeded in getting on record an account of an incident in which the Government contends the motive to attack Mr. Osborne lay. He said in 1914 Mr. Osborne represented the American Insurance Company of New Jersey in a case in which the Slades represented one Palterevitz. He said Mr. Osborne made charges of guilty knowledge on the part of the Slades which, in the opinion of Mr. Wood, might have caused on their part a desire for revenge. Mr. Littleton exclaimed that "the Government, in its desperation, is driven to drag this in instead of trying the case on its merits."

Mr. Littleton then moved that the jury be withdrawn because the statement just made might prejudice them. He was overruled.

Commissioner Clarence S. Houghton, before whom the preliminary hearing was held, was the first witness, and repeated the testimony he gave at the Safford trial.

Mr. Osborne answered questions on direct examination with a decisiveness that held the close attention of the jury. Rae Tanzer, who had been seated in one of the back rows of the courtroom throughout most of the day, smiled as he took the stand. Mr. Osborne said he had never met Rae and had never been in Plainfield in his life. Mr. Littleton objected to the introduction in evidence of a Bar Association bill charging Mr. Osborne for a room on the date he was said to be in Plainfield with Rae Tanzer.

Mr. Osborne testified to having received a telephone message from David Slade a short time before he was served with a summons in the Tanzer case, and said he talked with Slade under the misapprehension that the person on the other end of the wire was another man. On that day and on the following day, again over the telephone, he said Slade told him Rae Tanzer had signed an affidavit involving him and that he had told Slade the woman was "crazy or attempting to blackmail" him, that he had received several letters from her which he did not understand, and that he would be glad to send the Slades a sample of his handwriting to compare with the "Oliver Osborne" letters she had. He then told of the controversy with the Slades in connection with the fire insurance suit in New Jersey.

The day's session was adjourned at 4:20 and Mr. Osborne will be called to the stand for cross-examination this morning, when the trial will be resumed at 10:30.

United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall said the Government had not found Oliver Osborne.

Most of the jurors are middle-aged men. During the lunch recess District Attorney Marshall asked Judge Russell to have them locked up during the trial and the Judge assented. The men were sent to a nearby restaurant in charge of Deputy Sheriffs for lunch, but later complained to the Judge that they had not come prepared to be locked up for a weke or ten days, and were allowed to go to their homes last night. It was said, however, that they may be locked up after today, and be kept at the Knickerbocker Hotel. The last case on record in which a Federal Jury was guarded at a hotel over night during a trial was in the trial of Charles W. Morse six years ago.

JURY EXONERATES WIFE.

Whitehead's Charges Against Therapeutist Fail to Win Divorce.

Mrs. Effa M. Whitehead met Walter A. Vaughan, a salesman, at Manhattan Beach one Summer a few years ago, and a little later they became good friends. Mr. Vaughan is interested in an electric therapeutic concern. When he learned that Mrs. Whitehead was suffering from indigestion he strongly advised her to come around to his establishment and be treated. She did so, and after a while he began calling at her home. On several occasions he remained over night.

Mrs. Whitehead had a house at 400 St. Nicholas Avenue, where she rented furnished rooms, and so it was easy enough for her to accommodate Mr. Vaughan whenever he wanted to stop over. Mrs. Whitehead's husband, John T. Whitehead, is the European sales manager for a typewriter manufacturing concern. He is away a great deal of the time. He employed detectives to keep track of his wife, and on May 5, 1914, two of the detectives accompanied him to his home. It was late at night when they arrived. They smashed in the door leading into the back parlor, and what they found there was told yesterday in two different ways when Mr. Whitehead's suit for a divorce was tried in the Supreme Court before Justice Delehanty and a jury.

Among the first witnesses was Mr. Vaughan. He scouted the idea that Mrs. Whitehead had ever misconducted herself with him.

Concerning the midnight visit of Mr. Whitehead and the detectives, Mr. Vaughan said that during the evening he had been helping Mrs. Whitehead rip up the carpets, because she was about to move. Then he had supper and fell asleep in the front parlor. He was awakened by a crash and saw Mrs. Whitehead, hanging over a table in his room, clad only in her nightdress, and heard a voice say, "John, here they are." It developed that Mrs. Whitehead had called for her husband, thinking that burglars were in the house. Ray Schindler, one of the detectives, testified that he, his fellow-detective, and Mr. Whitehead plunged into the back parlor and saw the defendant and Mr. Vaughan together.

Mrs. Whitehead denied every statement made by her husband in his complaint and flatly contradicted the detective. Mr. Whitehead did not appear in the case. It was said that he is abroad. The jury found in favor of Mrs. Whitehead in two minutes.

TWO SISTERS STRANDED.

Tell Police They Left Pennsylvania Home When Relative Beat Them.

A poorly dressed young woman, with no hat, walked into the Greenwich Street Police Station last night leading by the hand a ten-year-old girl, and asked permission to sleep in the station for the night. She said she was Annie Yusko, 19 years old, of Ashley, Penn., and that her companion was her sister, Julia. Two weeks ago her mother died, and since then a relative in Ashley had beaten her and her sister, she told the police. Unable to endure the treatment, she said she and Julia ran away last Sunday and came to New York, spending on their railroad tickets all the money she had saved.

She said they walked along West Street Sunday afternoon, and in front of 22 West Street saw a woman who said she was a Mrs. Novack. They told their story to Mrs. Novack, who permitted them to live with her family for a few days. Last night, however, she said Mrs. Novack told them it was too expensive to keep them, in addition to her own children, and sent them away.

Lieutenant Aiken held Annie as a prisoner on a charge of vagrancy, and sent the child to the Children's Society home. The police communicated with the police at Ashley in an effort to find the girls' stepfather.

HELD IN $1,000,000 STOCK TAX FRAUD

Two Men Arrested on Charge of Selling State Stamps to Brokers' Office Boys.

PLAN EXPOSED BY A LAD

Emanuel Jackson and Benjamin Alexander, the Accused, Released on Giving $500 Bail.

Suspicions, increasing steadily within the last few months, that the State was losing thousands of dollars a month through an illegal traffic in stock transfer tax stamps, led State Controller Eugene M. Travis to start an inquiry. Deputy Controller William Boardman says the loss to the State has run as high as $250,000 a year, and as the practice has been going on for five years the total loss may exceed $1,000,000.

Early last week a boy, who said he was Alexander Davis, the runner for a brokerage house, appeared at the offices of Mr. Boardman in the Woolworth Building. He told Mr. Boardman that he had bought a number of stock transfer tax stamps from a man whom he met in the office of the Empire Trust Company, in the Equitable Building, and that he had received a discount of 2 per cent. on the stamps. Subsequently he learned that other boys received as high as 15 per cent. discount. Davis said he then quarreled with the man from whom he bought stamps and decided to expose the practice.

The Empire Trust Company is the only authorized agent in this city for the sale of the stamps. Section 271A of the stock transfer tax law makes it a misdemeanor for any person or corporation to dispose of stamps without the written consent of the State Controller, and the Empire Trust Company does not sell the stamps at a discount.

As a result of Davis's statements Deputy Controller Boardman and Fred L. Merritt, Chief of the stock transfer department, learned the identity of other boys employed by brokers who had been buying these stamps from unauthorized agents and receiving discounts. The method employed by these agents was to meet the boys in the offices of the trust company and ask them if they had come to buy stamps. In most cases the boy brought a certified check and two written orders, one for a quantity of Federal stamps and the other for State stamps. The boy would be asked to change the order so that he would receive from the trust company the full amount of the check in Federal stamps. He would then obtain the State stamps from the unauthorized agents in exchange for the extra Federal stamps, which are redeemable.

Inspector Faurot took up the case several days ago at the request of Deputy Controller Boardman and yesterday afternoon he placed under arrest Emanuel Jackson of 1,462 Fifty-third Street and Benjamin Alexander of 348 Decatur Street, Brooklyn. The arrests were made at 85 Broad Street, where the two men conducted a stamp and coin business. They were held in $500 bail, which they furnished, for examination on Friday on a charge of violating Section 271A of the tax law. Inspector Faurot took with him to Headquarters $2,000 worth of stamps which he said had been found in the office of the prisoners.

Alexander is charged with selling $200 worth of stamps to Garret Gough of 328 East Twenty-first Street on June 23, and Jackson is charged with selling $500 worth to Jacob W. Geiger of 6,118 Nineteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, on June 14. Jackson denied that he was guilty of a violation of the law.

Following the arrests, Deputy Controller Boardman issued a statement in which he said that the investigation was only just begun.

"We hope within a short time," he asserted, "to obtain information which will result in finding those who are directly responsible for the stamps getting into the hands of the so-called unauthorized agents. Now that we are on a fair road to finding the guilty ones, no effort will be spared in bringing those directly responsible to the bar of justice.

"It is difficult to figure just how much revenue the State has lost," he continued, "but it is estimated that the amount has reached as high as $250,000 a year. The practice has been going on for the past five years. When Controller Travis took office on Jan. 1 the matter was brought to his attention, and it was suggested that the design of the stamps be changed. This, however, could not be done within a short time."

The stock transfer stamps, Mr. Boardman said, go through eight different processes of manufacture. For several years past 24 per cent. of the stamps have been rejected by inspectors as imperfect. They are supposed to have been destroyed, but Deputy Controller Boardman is of the opinion that some of them were not destroyed. Since Jan. 1, Mr. Boardman said, the percentage of rejected stamps has been cut down to 4 per cent.

MAZET, MAJOR OF THE 7TH.

Ex-Assemblyman Is a Veteran in the National Guard.

Officers of the Seventh Regiment, New York National Guard, have unanimously elected Captain Robert Mazet of Company D Major to fill the vacancy caused by the recent promotion of Major McLean to Lieutenant Colonel. The new Major-elect, who is an ex-Assemblyman, was Chairman of the Mazet Committee which investigated the government of New York City in 1899. He joined the National Guard as a private in the Eighteenth Regiment of Pennsylvania in July, 1876. He joined the Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y., as a private in Company H in July, 1882.

Captain George H. White, U. S. A., will command the provisional company made up of 225 non-commissioned officers of the regiment, which will go into camp this afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, to remain until tomorrow evening.

FOLDING STRAW HAT HERE.

It Comes from Germany—Patent in England Applied For.

What is said by its owner to be the newest thing in the way of a straw hat was seen yesterday at the Ritz Carlton, and the owner said he had just received it from Germany.

The crown collapses just like that of an opera hat, and its owner explained that it was invented because Germans insist upon taking their hats into the theatres and opera houses with them, and the collapsible straw hat was easy to hold under the arm.

The hat is denominated inside its crown, a "Klapphut," and it bears this inscription in German: "Patent in England applied for!"

NEW MISSIONS MOVEMENT.

Conventions in Seventy-five Cities Beginning Next Fall.

A national missionary campaign, like that begun by the Laymen's Missionary Movement in 1909 and 1910, is to be organized again for the coming Fall and next Spring. Some of the plans were announced yesterday. As in the first campaign, the Laymen's Missionary Movement, which is an interdenominational organization, will work in co-operation with the home and foreign mission agencies of the country, holding a series of seventy-five conventions in as many cities in all parts of the United States.

The meetings will start in October, and end in April, with a National Missionary Congress at Washington, D. C., April 26 to 30, 1916. Forty thousand churches are to be invited to send their most able men as delegates to the various conventions, there being no limit to the number from each church. Last year the attendance ran above 75,000 delegates, and the announcement for this year speaks of an expected total of 100,000 men.

Buffalo, N. Y., will be the place of holding the first convention, Oct. 17-20. New York City is on the list. No financial appeal is to be made, but the work is to be educational.

WITNESS COACHED, HE SAYS

Prosecutor Swears He Heard Lawyer Tell Goodman What to Say.

Deputy Assistant District Attorney Heilborn took the stand before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday during the trial of Irving Greenwald, 35 years old, of Boston, for stealing $65 from Gertrude de Roches, an actress, during a taxi ride on May 24, to testify as to a conversation which, he asserted, he overheard between George R. Simpson, attorney for the defense, and one of the witnesses.

Mr. Heilborn testified that he had been seated in the courtroom during the trial, and heard Simpson tell Nathan Goodman of 41 Park Row that "there were no yellow-backs in the roll." Goodman took the stand then, and testified that the day before the alleged larceny he saw Greenwald with a large roll of greenbacks.

Mr. Simpson followed Mr. Heilborn on the stand, and admitted that he had a conversation with Goodman about his testimony, but denied that he told the witness what to say. Later in his summing up he referred to Mr. Heilborn as "a lurking individual seeking preferment in the District Attorney's office."

After two hours the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty."

The Fiction Event of the Year

Mr. Winston Churchill's New Novel

A FAR COUNTRY
BY WINSTON CHURCHILL
Author of "THE INSIDE OF THE CUP" ETC.

"One of the deepest studies of American social and political life that has ever been made through the medium of fiction, and its lessons are those which must come home to every man and woman."

The N. Y. Times says:
"No one can afford to miss reading 'A Far Country,' or reading it, can fail to be interested. The themes Mr. Churchill handles are the big themes confronting all America, and in the fortunes and misfortunes of his characters he indicates energies and developments that are nation-wide. It touches on what is vital * * * and it will help in no small degree to broaden our thought and clarify our vision. Many people read 'The Inside of the Cup,' but 'A Far Country' should reach a wider audience."

Price $1.50

Eight Illustrations by Herman Pfeifer.

¶ "'A Far Country' is unquestionably the best novel that Mr. Churchill has written. * * * The bigness of its scope, the depth of its meaning, and the genuine power which have gone into its making entitle the book to a high degree of consideration."—Providence Journal.

L. P. M.

The End of the Great War
by
J. Stewart Barney

12°. Frontis. in Color. 420 Pages. $1.35 Net

An American millionaire and scientist perfects a startling invention, the user of which may put himself in world control. With it he decides to put an end to the war, and sails to interview the belligerent powers. France and England accept his offices—Germany opposes, and tries to wrest "L. P. M." (the mysterious invention) from him, with inevitable consequences to herself. "L. P. M." is not only a story to arouse the intensest excitement—it is written in a delightfully satirical vein, is surprisingly convincing as to the ingenious, all-powerful device, and contains a large measure of very healthy common sense.

THE QUESTION OF NEUTRAL RIGHTS.

We presume the British Government will be disposed to give reasonable and candid consideration to the representations made in our note of March 30 in respect to American rights of trade with neutral ports now included within the British blockade line. The note published yesterday was not intended as a reply to our communication of March 30, but it is nevertheless timely and useful as an indication of the friendly spirit shown by Great Britain in her efforts to diminish the annoyances to which our commerce has been subjected. If it takes up in that spirit the protests we made on March 30, the British Government may be inclined to give further proof of amicable intent by a reasonable approach to compliance with what we ask.

The question is beset with difficulties and the principles of right and of law involved are not altogether on one side. We set forth in the note of March 30 that it was a novel and quite unprecedented feature of the British blockade that it embraces so many neutral ports and coasts, bars access to them and subjects all neutral ships approaching those coasts to the suspicion that would attach to them were they bound for ports of the enemies of Great Britain. These limitations, risks and liabilities placed upon our ships, we said, "are a distinct invasion of sovereign rights of the nation whose ships, trade, or commerce are interfered with." Great Britain's purpose is not to prevent American trade with Holland but to prevent all trade with Germany. But cargoes having a Dutch port as their destination may, of course, find their way to Germany, a German market may be their true destination. The question, therefore, is whether, in the language of Chief Justice MARSHALL, we are "doing that indirectly which is prohibited in direct courses."

That was one of the points of contention during the maintenance of our blockade of the Confederate States. Decisions of the courts then rendered may be found which Great Britain and the United States alike may find some satisfaction in applying to the present controversy. We are not at all likely to insist with great vehemence upon the right to ship goods to Germany through the English blockade line and through Holland. On the other hand, in view of the friendly character of the relations between the two Governments, Great Britain will hardly insist upon construing the order establishing a blockade in a way to interfere unreasonably with our rights of trade, particularly in respect to cargoes of German origin now awaiting shipment to this country.

The question is one for adjustment in the light of reason and of fact, and it would seem that in any case where the advantage to Great Britain's enemy, Germany, would be clearly negligible in comparison with the injury and annoyance to our merchants, the British Government might be persuaded that it was just as well as expedient to give great weight to the views of a Government whose friendly disposition to her is beyond all question, a Government that is on terms of friendship with all the belligerents and whose people are so extensively engaged in commerce that they have necessarily been subjected to great loss and injury during the progress of the war.

WHAT—CORONERS AGAIN?

When Governor WHITMAN signed the Stoddard law on April 14 last, abolishing the office of Coroner of New York City and providing for the appointment by the Mayor of a Chief Medical Examiner after Dec. 31, 1917, it was felt that the Legislature should not have deferred the date so long. The total salary roll of the Coroners' offices in the five boroughs is $144,500, representing wasted money. It was unbelievable that this ancient and worse than useless office would be revived. It was unthinkable that the Committee on County, Town, and Village Officers of the Constitutional Convention should present a proposed amendment which would restore that office to the list of constitutional offices prescribed for each of the counties in this State. Yet it has been done.

Of the sixty-five men who have been elected to the Coroner's office since the consolidation of this city none was really qualified. Only nineteen of them were physicians, not one of whom, as reported by Commissioner of Accounts WALLSTEIN, was a man of standing or reputation in the medical profession. Most of them were politicians of the cheapest and most irresponsible sort, ignorant, stupid, and indifferent, unfit to administer the law in cases of criminal violence or casualty. The recent case of a Coroner holding an inquest while "drunk as an owl" is in point. The trail of incompetence, or worse, is over all the doings of the Coroner's office.

For good and sufficient reasons the convention of 1894 removed the Coronership from the list of constitutional offices in this State. We trust that the present convention will not move to restore it.

POLICE ATHLETICS.

Many policemen of New York will take part in the athletic exhibitions which are to be given this afternoon and next Saturday at the Gravesend Race Track for the benefit of the Honor Roll Relief Fund of the department. This fund was established for the widows and orphans of policemen killed in the performance of duty, and no other word of commendation for it is required. The athletic exhibitions of the members of the force, however, have an appeal apart from their worthy object. The typical policeman of this hour is an athlete always in training. He can ride, run, jump, and throw the hammer in competition with men who devote their lives to the acquirement of dexterity in athletic competitions. There are 2,000 men among the 11,000 in the force who have served in the United States cavalry, and a considerable detachment of the mounted police will give exhibitions of horsemanship at Gravesend this afternoon. Four of them will drive four horses each in a chariot race of the ancient Roman kind, others will give exhibitions of riding without the saddle and other feats which could not be surpassed in daring and skill by the cowboys of Buffalo Bill or the troopers at Fort Sam Houston. This display of the skill of the mounted men, however, will compose only a part of the program.

We all have a lively interest in the efficiency of the police and most of us find enjoyment of a rational sort in exhibitions of unusual physical skill. The fit physical condition of our guardians of the peace is of prime importance. The men deserve hearty encouragement, too, in their effort to support their own charities. Therefore the athletic exhibitions this afternoon and next Saturday will have unusual interest for the public.

THE STANDARD BEARER OF THE HYPHEN.

A man cannot avoid the consequences of his acts. Mr. BRYAN tries to make it appear that his present activities are in the interests of peace, that he is bringing support to President WILSON; actually, they are in the interests of Germany and against the President. His surroundings make his real position clearer with every move he makes. "This patriot, who has come into this German atmosphere," Chairman WEISMANN described him in introducing him at Madison Square Garden on Thursday. Mr. BRYAN tried desperately to push back the forces that are inexorably arraigning him on the side of a faction. He was "for "peace for the United States and "against war with any of the belligerent nations"; he wanted to "strengthen" the President, and was "trying outside of the Cabinet" to assist him. But he was introduced by a Chairman who painted a weak President misguiding the nation under the influence of "sycophants" and "paid agents of our enemies." Our enemies! Whose enemies? What enemies of "peace for the United States" have surrounded the President with "paid agents" to fool him? No, by "our enemies" the Chairman of Mr. BRYAN's meeting meant, not the enemies of peace or of the United States, but the enemies of Germany.

If Mr. BRYAN at that peace meeting had suddenly declared it to be the duty of the United States to make war on England because of her interference with our commerce, can any one doubt what a roar of cheers would have gone up? It was a German audience, with a fringe of Socialists and a scattering, not of the representative Irish, but of those Clan-na-Gael Irishmen who have allied themselves with Germany, the industrious advocates for years of a rebellion in India. For days the Staats-Zeitung had been urging every German to be "at or near" Madison Square Garden on Thursday, and they followed the advice by the thousand. But Mr. BRYAN did not find many neutrals in his audience, not many ardent dreamers of universal peace, not many enthusiasts over his treaties, not many independent American citizens with no mental allegiance to the Kaiser. Whatever the number of persons in and about Madison Square Garden, whether 30,000 or 70,000, it was not of them who are Americans in thought and feeling that he spoke.

Mr. BRYAN has been a private citizen for a little over two weeks. He resigned to lead a great American movement that would enlighten the befogged and bungling President concerning his duty; and in a fortnight he finds himself at the head of a curiously composite faction that is striving to hamper and thwart the President and to force the United States into a virtual alliance with Germany, whereby we should enable her to conquer her enemies by withholding our trade from them in violation of law. He has wakened no echo from the American people as a whole, only from the Kaiserists among them. He addresses meetings organized by the Socialists and the Clan-na-Gael, with the Germans furnishing the audiences. He prepares for the campaign of 1916 at the head of an army of German-Americans and Prohibitionists, and confronts the rest of the American people and their President with a pathetic pretense of speaking for them.

The Germans are still dazzled over their unexpected recruit; for everything said at Madison Square Garden shows that it is as a recruit to the Kaiser's American forces, and not as a soldier of peace, that they regard him. Mr. WEISMANN welcomed him as a man "no longer obliged to ask his master what he should say"—that master so hoodwinked by "sycophants" and by the "paid agents of our enemies." "We know," said Mr. WEISMANN, "what a mistake we made as to the sentiments of Mr. BRYAN." It was a confession of that strange twist in the German mind which makes it see everything upside down. The whole country, except the German-Americans, knew that Mr. BRYAN was a fanatical advocate of peace under all conditions, and knew, moreover, that it was not he but Mr. WILSON that was directing the American foreign policy. But the Germans persisted in regarding BRYAN as anti-German and an advocate of extreme and bellicose measures, and would not be cured of their delusion until, to their bewilderment, he resigned. Then they had to see what all the world had seen and told them long before. It is of a piece with the topsy-turvy German attitude toward every phase of the war situation.

After Mr. BRYAN had talked of peace in the Garden, Congressman VOLLMER addressed the meeting in an effort to justify the slaughter of Americans on the Lusitania. Mr. WEISMANN hailed him as a rampart against "our enemies," and this audience of peace lovers, this American audience so representative of Mr. BRYAN's new following, applauded his smug sentences with delighted shouts of "Jawohl!" Strange company he has got into, a company that finds him as strange as he is strange to it; and in this unfamiliar bed he must lie.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK AT WORK.

The money market passed the planting season without noticing it. Now the harvest is at hand and the Federal Reserve banks of New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and St. Louis announce a 3 per cent. rate for ten-day money, with special reference to the necessities of member banks desiring accommodation for brief periods at the crop-moving season. Never before have our crops been moved by expansion. The custom has been to move the crops by contraction, with money market spasm or panics, as the case might be. It is true that this is an unusual year, but the easy working of the money market cannot be attributed to the war alone. On the contrary, if the war had found the country under the old banking system there might have been money troubles on top of the war troubles. It is sure that the surplus reserves would have been smaller under the larger requirements of the old system, and it is sure that the Treasury is in no condition to relieve any stringency which might have arisen. Under the new system we are experiencing for the first time a natural relief at a time of normal need, instead of an abnormal restraint upon so legitimate an operation as moving the crops. That these old conditions might easily have recurred appears from the fact that the needs of the planting season exhausted the resources of some of the Federal banks, and that now several of them have loans approximating their deposits, or in one or two cases exceeding deposits. That is always a cautionary condition, and now an easy relief is offered. Member banks are justified in lending freely because they can so easily place themselves in condition to meet any legitimate requirements of their customers. This 3 per cent. money is for banks, not for farmers. It is like the low rates for money quoted in the Wall Street reports which ordinary borrowers read about and wonder why they have to pay twice or thrice as much. The 3 per cent. money is for banks which have loaned the sums once at the ordinary local rate, and which they will loan again in like manner, making the difference between the rate charged to the bank and that charged by the bank.

The 3 per cent. announcement comes on the same day as the caution of Governor STRONG against the dissipation of the enormous credit created by the unprecedented bank reserves. Governor STRONG declares that it is an enormous responsibility to administer our banking resources so as to avoid a "riot of speculation, inflation, and exploitation." He thought it better that our banking resources should be devoted to the development of the foreign commerce now thrust upon us through the impossibility of its being done by anybody else. But there is no inconsistency between the lowered Federal Reserve rate and the remarks of Governor STRONG. The movement of the crops is a large and essential part of our foreign commerce. It is not speculation of the sort which ought to be discouraged, but of the sort which ought to be stimulated. The substitution of ten-day loans for the call money market as a means of enabling banks to keep their funds liquid takes the strain from the security market and transfers it to the entire body of commercial transactions, where it is dissipated harmlessly. The payment of commercial obligations is a normal operation and of such vast volume that sums which would disturb the Stock Exchange are daily provided as matter of routine. The 3 per cent. rate is not an invitation to speculation or inflation, but the provision of a facility of trade. These ten-day loans will not be put into the stock market and wrung out of it by liquidation. They will run off and be paid and disappear in the manner of good banking.

THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

The Federal Trade Commission has rejected one complaint of unfair competition on grounds similar to those stated in one of the earliest decisions under the anti-trust law. It was a complaint of the use of a firm name in a manner alleged to be unjustifiable. It was rejected on the ground that the complainant was a retail concern and not engaged in interstate commerce. The decision was only one in a class of cases in which jurisdiction has been declined without regard to the merits or demerits of the case, but because the Commission is following the decisions under the Sherman law.

Business will hear with relief that the Commission has no disposition to alter either laws or customs and is not a dumping place for any and every grievance, real or fancied. Complainants must have a case under the law before they will be heard, and cannot appeal to the conscience or inner consciousness of the Commission to establish new crimes or punishments. No doubt the Commission will have enough to do under the law, and will make itself felt in time, but business has not to fear compulsory readjustment to new and strange standards. Continuance in this course will cause the Commission to be regarded as a helpful rather than a disturbing influence.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

War's Enemy Cheered by Germans!

If there really was, as one of the speakers said, "a German atmosphere" in the Madison Square Garden Thursday evening—if the people gathered there really were possessors, as they claimed, of German minds—the applause with which they greeted Mr. BRYAN's speech is at once a curious, a mysterious, and an amusing thing. For that speech, taken at what may be called its face value or on any interpretation that can fairly or excusably be given to its language, was a condemnation about as severe as could be imagined of Germany's conduct and policy at the time of, and ever since, the beginning of the war.

Had Germany acted as Mr. BRYAN says every nation should act when it has a grievance against or a dispute with another, it certainly would not have leaped upon its neighbors without an instant of delay after suffering what it thought or declared an affront, and without waiting for a moment to hear what anybody had to say in explanation or palliation of the grievance alleged. So far from there having been the year of delay provided in the treaties of which he is so proud—the treaties which at this very meeting he proclaimed to be the triumphs of his existence and his claim to respect and fame—Germany did not wait a month, a week, or a day after the arrival of the hour which she considered propitious for striking.

Mr. BRYAN's whole speech—when he was not scolding the New York papers for expressing about himself what has since turned out to be the practically unanimous judgment of the press all through the country—was in effect a denunciation of Germany and the Germans. Presumably he didn't know it, and obviously his auditors didn't, but how he dared to talk that way in such a gathering is only less astonishing than why he did not excite by doing it resentment and condemnation instead of enthusiastic cheers. Strangely out of place at a meeting of sympathizers with the most warlike of modern nations—with the one nation where honored makers and leaders of public opinion talk and write contemptuously of peace and in fervent praise of war as a blessing in itself—he seemed to be there both welcome and happy! It is a phenomenon quite beyond comprehension by anybody who has even a nodding acquaintance with the elementary laws of logic.

War and Work Balanced.

Recurring to LLOYD GEORGE's assertion or admission that British workingmen prefer fighting in the trenches of Flanders to working in the shops at home, it seems worth while to note the fact that the statement did not imply, as it might to one unfamiliar with the circumstances, any criticism of the men as workers or of the shops as places in which to work. Mr. GEORGE was not referring to "common laborers," but to skilled mechanics, competent to operate complicated machinery and to make arms and ammunition—the aristocrats of the industrial world, in short, whose tasks are performed in conditions somewhat dangerous, indeed, but neither exhausting nor repulsive, and always highly paid.

It is significant that such men, though living in a country where enlistment is voluntary, are in the trenches at all. They really must prefer fighting, with its horrors and sufferings, to the calm pursuit of their accustomed activities—to work, that is.

They are not alone in this. Whoever talks with the veteran of any war, recent or remote, will find him full of far from sorrowful reminiscence of his soldier days. He will admit all that can be said in praise of peace, but just the same he makes clear that like the Virgilian hero he takes pleasure and pride in recalling the time when he encountered perils many—when he, too, ignored the self-preservation which is not, never was, and never will be "the first law of nature," and played a man's part in the Great Adventure.

Peace is, of course, better than war, but it is useless to deny that war has charms as well as horrors for many, many men, and they are by no means the worst of men, either. About nine games out of every ten contain the element of conflict with an antagonist who is for the time an enemy to be conquered, humiliated, and deprived of something he values—money, a title, a record, or applause. And whenever a man says—honestly—that he "loves his work," investigation will reveal that there is in it one kind or another of fighting, of competition—the promise of victory and the menace of defeat.

Incineration Versus Inhumation.

Antagonism has developed in France, it seems, to the use of fire as a means of hastening the inevitable resolution into their elements of the untenanted bodies that now cumber the country's once smiling fields in such enormous numbers. It also seems that the antagonism may have a purpose other than to prevent the adoption of a device in many ways certainly commendable.

According to report, the object of the "movement" is to divert attention from the statements about the war recently ascribed to the Pope, and to start the French people talking of something else. This theory has a rather fanciful air, and it would be more plausible if there were more chances of thus obtaining the result supposed to be sought. It is true, however, that to many minds the incineration or cremation of the dead is a highly objectionable substitute for inhumation.

Probably this is because earth burial is so familiar that we do not have to think about its consequences, while the shrinking of all who are alive from the pain that fire inflicts—perhaps the worst of agonies—makes obnoxious the thought of applying this agent even to those who can no longer feel it.

In other days there were other arguments against cremation, but few if any would now put them forward with any seriousness. From the standpoints of the sanitarian and the economist the relative merits of the two methods of disposal were settled long ago, and the contest is kept up only by sentiment.

As Students Will Be Taught.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorial on "Academic Freedom" in your Sunday issue has already, I observe, provoked expression of dissent. If a college professor of fourteen years' standing may be permitted to speak on this question I should like to point out what appears to me a serious defect in the editorial discussion of the case. THE TIMES ignores the needs and wishes of the student body. All the talk is of money, funds, and endowment. The Faculty is merely the "teaching staff," and the students figure as "ingenuous youth."

That last phrase hopelessly begs the issue. University students—speaking always in general terms—are not ingenuous. That is to say, they are not docile sheep under the staff of the instructor. The students are free, and there is no possible way to control them. In the first place there are books on socialism, hundreds of them. These books are found in every college library, even the most plutocratic. Students read them, with the inevitable result. If the professor forgets to preach "socialism and shiftlessness" to the students, then the students will very soon be preaching "socialism and shiftlessness" to the professor. I speak what I do know.

A university is nothing in the world but a meeting place of antagonistic and conflicting ideas. The rest is all accessory and incidental. When Socrates took his stand on a street corner of old Athens, there was a university. He did not need one acre of ground; he did not need to lay one brick upon another; above all, he did not need and he refused to accept one single penny of reward. But the youths of Athens followed him and they followed to the end.

England's "Buss" Jokes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When the first omnibus was started in London, about 1830, an illustrated comic annual, that came into my possession, in Tom Hood style punned on the subject. An omniscient ignoramus, on being asked by a schoolboy what omnibus is derived from, answers:

We know that omni stands for all,
And bus you know means kiss,
So great or small we must kiss all,
The meaning not to miss.

A conundrum current in England for many years was: "If by mistake you kiss the wrong girl, at what kind of firearm does it remind you?"

Answer: "A blunderbuss."

TO AMERICA.

[Translated from the German by Henry Irving Brock. The poem was printed April 24, 1915, in the Lustige Blaetter of Berlin.]

America, forego thy mad intent!
Cast out the false soul fiends of Hell that hound thee!
Thou sheddest o'er the sea thine armament
That shall, one evil day, come back to wound thee!

America, forbear this thing thou dost!
Let not thy blows descend on altars holy.
Wilt thou that soon, or e'er they come to rust,
Thy weapons turn again to smite the lowly?

Our German land hath in its goodly soil
Such store of iron, veins so metal-heavy!
Her arms are wrought of it by German toil—
The arms that serve each German host and levy.

And let be how so great it may the tale
Of deadly bullets that our foemen owe thee,
They shall have back, be sure, twofold, a hail
Of German steel, Death's own sharp scythe to mow thee.

The weapons that thou sendest to be sold,
So that our foe's lean arsenals be filled,
Them he must buy and pay for with red gold,
But we with price of red blood redly spilled.

America, forego thy mad intent!
Awake, betimes, thy conscience, drugged and sleeping,
For, Hark, The Day of Frightful Punishment
Comes stalking on, with Vengeance in his keeping.

From thee, alone, two hemispheres, war-torn,
The price of blood shall wring, nor fear thee!
And all the round world's fury, rage, and scorn
Shall turn again, America, and sear thee!

A WOMANISH COUNTRY.

Pessimistic Reflections of a Man on Our State of Being.

Accomac, Va., June 22, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was interested in the letter of Edward L. Wood in your issue of June 20. I was also struck with the furor which such an apparently modest communication aroused in the ranks of the gentler sex. Mr. Wood evidently touched a live wire of some sort—the very quick of certain feminine sentiments.

And I believe Mr. Wood is right. I believe our fat, peace-loving, commercial country is in danger of an undue feminine influence. I believe that feminine standards of success, feminine ideas and ideals, feminine attitudes toward life, (I won't say feminine philosophy, for there is no such thing!) have acquired and are acquiring a preponderance in American life.

We see this manifested first, and, perhaps most conspicuously, in our literature and art. Our literature, for the most part, does not present life truly; nor does it interpret and criticise life, as worthy literature ought to do. It lacks depth, truth, and virility; it shies from facts; it is cowardly and conventional, and it seems afraid to face fundamental things, but prefers to mince along through nurseries and boudoirs, through lanes of sickly sentiment, false optimisms, pleasant illusions, and impossible incidents. Everywhere and all the time it appears to cringe before the tyranny of the distaff. Is not the supremacy, the coercion of feminine influence the primary cause of this? The average woman does not want truth—except when it is agreeable and coincides with her own notions and prejudices. She expects man to stand as a sort of buffer between her and the sterner realities of life. He is her "economic environment," and his labor must spin a silken cocoon around her and cater to the ever increasing scale of her artificial needs. Those who see and fear, like that great woman Olive Schreiner, have at least sounded the note of warning and hoisted the red flag of danger.

Of the feminist influences and tendencies of the Church—that which has been called "woman's institution"—nothing need be said.

Sir Almroth Wright, the great English man of science, has said that woman "has placed the taboo, upon all generalizations about women," that, "the influence of women has caused man to leave unsaid many things which he ought to have said," and that, "woman has further stifled discussion by placing her taboo upon anything seriously unflattering being said about her in public." All of which is very true, I think.

American men are so busy working for their women that they do not have time to think or read. Most men are under the necessity of specializing in some narrow sphere of work, and they have neither the training nor the opportunity to take a wide, a true, or a deep view of the general drift of things. Vaguely conscious of their ignorance in everything but baseball and their own little business, totally unfamiliar with the fundamental truths of science, history, and philosophy, American men are so afraid of a public opinion, which, as Tolstoy said, is mostly formed by women, that they do not dare to take a firm stand in an assertion of the eternal verities. Women are envious, petty, back-biting, and uncharitable when there is a conflict of interests as between themselves; but let a man stand boldly for a truth which they do not like—let a man offend them as a sex, and instantly a subtle and deadly spirit of trades unionism springs up among them, and they are united as one organism. Then woe to that man, because he can use against them neither logic, nor his fists. Venomous tongues and narrow ungenerous minds are set to work against him, and in all the babble the average citizen has neither the opportunity nor the intellectual discernment to detect the truth.

The physical and psychological make-up of man and woman is unspeakably different, as Nietzsche and Ruskin have pointed out. Whether this be due to opposite but coordinate principles of the life-force, or to nurtural factors that are comprised in difference of education, function, and environment, is of little moment. The difference exists, and it has to be reckoned with. Women, as a rule, are quite innocent of science, philosophy, and civic morality. Man, one might say, is more often guilty of the sins of the flesh, while woman is more often guilty of the sins of the spirit. The sins of the flesh are more spectacular and noisy, and are talked about more. The sins of the spirit are more subtle and less open to observation. It was against the sins of the spirit that Christ hurled his most terrible denunciations. It might be said that sins of the flesh bring evil directly upon the individual; while sins of the spirit tend more to bring evil upon society as a whole.

Watch Your Baggage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Baggage thieves are taking advantage of the habit of salesmen and tourists of leaving cases in the front part of the passenger coaches while they try to make themselves comfortable further back. Their system is to sit down by the suit case or sample case, and when passengers crowd the front end of the car to get off at the station that suits their purpose they walk out with the bag and hurry away before the owner has time to discover the loss. This happened to the writer only yesterday, and I sincerely hope that somebody whom this advice may reach will be forewarned and avoid similar misfortune.

Why Not Usona?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent in today's TIMES aptly refers to the fact that we need a short word which will exactly designate our nationality. When we ask a man from the other side of the ocean regarding his nationality, he does not reply that he is a European. Then why do we, when making a similar reply, say American, when the whole Western continent bears that designation?

But, instead of Unisia, as he proposes, why not our Esperanto word, simply putting together the initials of the words United States of North America, and you have Usona for the adjective, Usono for the noun, and Usonano for the person?

Demand for Still Baseball.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I heartily agree with J. S. Wood's letter on the annoyances common at our baseball games. The incessant crying of their wares by the vendors of ice cream, soft drinks, and score cards becomes very wearisome and at times distracting. The passing of a signal, as suggested by J. S. Wood, is all that is really necessary.

The man or woman who goes to see and enjoy the game will get all the variety he or she can endure in the vocal exercises indulged in by the fans who vie with one another in showing how familiar they are with the individual players and who do their best to distract the players.

The Animals' Sing Sing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with sympathy M. E. Buhler's note in today's issue of THE TIMES concerning the release of Gunda. It has always seemed to me curious that we cannot realize that keeping wild animals in close confinement is cruelty. "Oh, but they have so little intelligence that they do not mind the confinement," I hear some of us say. To this we can only reply: "Heaven send you a little more imagination to increase your own intelligence."

Refuge in the Third Element.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The pan-Germanic idea is that everybody but Germans should get off the earth. Now comes Mr. Bryan, who tells us to keep off the sea. The only thing to do is to leave the world and climb a tree, as there does not seem to be room on this planet for Germans and other people, too.

RATE OF NEW YORK CITY'S GROWTH.

A Probability That Civic Vanity Tends to Overestimate the Increase of Population, and That Affects Policies of Development.

By WALTER LAIDLAW.

New York, June 24, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A week which combines the opening of two new subways, the flying of a new city flag, and the approaching completion of a new city census, is a red letter week in New York's history.

All who love the city must devoutly hope that the new subways and their successors in the radial rapid transit plans will succeed in distributing the growth of the city in such ways as to decrease density areas and increase the populations of sparsely settled tracts, as London's subways have already done for New York's late rival. Commenting on the growth of Outer London, the British Register General in his last report said: "This tendency has been markedly accentuated in the past decennium by the provision of improved means of transportation, enabling the city worker to enjoy the advantages of residence outside the city limits."

The fact that the State census has been taken of date preceding the first use of the Queens and Fourth Avenue subways will permit, when the next Federal census is taken, an accurate measurement of the influence of the radial subway plan on population distribution.

There is but one feature of the forecasts of New York's future which seems to me to militate against the largest public good from the new transit facilities. That feature is the ingrained habit of New Yorkers to overestimate the rapidity of the city's growth. The effect of that habit upon a policy of conservatism in restricting the height of apartments and tenements and the adoption of a zone system is undoubted.

On this very day, when the new city flag is flying, estimates of the size of the city which are popularly current are to my mind exaggerated.

It is a risky statistical procedure to attempt to estimate the present size of the city because of the recent influence of the war on emigration and immigration, but I give below the computations, as of June 1, 1915, made by the Population Research Bureau of the New York Federation of Churches, concerning the whole population of the city and its distribution by boroughs.

In making a similar computation in advance of the announcement of the Federal census of 1910, that bureau came within 6,000 of the actual figures. The difficulties of the computation of today are so much greater that I shall not regard the method as invalidated if the estimate is 60,000 out of the way.

The method used by the federation can be formulated as follows:

Let x stand for annual increase, 1900-1910.

Let y stand for annual increase, 1890-1900.

Let z stand for rate of increase, 1910-1920.

Then $x+(x-y)=z$.

Figured in this way, the annual increase of New York, 1910-1920, was placed in Federation, February, 1911, at 161,124.

The Federal census was taken as of April 15, 1910; the State census is being taken as of June 1, 1915, an interval of five and one-eighth years.

The normal increase of New York should therefore be, for the period April 15, 1910, to June 1, 1915, 161,124×5⅛, or 825,760 persons.

Is this estimate of the increase of the city verified by ascertainable facts? In my judgment it is so well verified that I shall be surprised if the growth of the city since April 15, 1910, is not found to be 100,000 less than the 1,000,000 estimate which has been appearing in various papers.

The increase of New York, 1900-1910, was as follows:

From foreign-born population...	674,277
From native-born population....	655,404
Total..........................	1,329,681

The increase from immigration alone was 50.7 per cent. of the whole. I estimate that the city may, since 1910, have grown:

From foreign-born population.....	333,919
From native-born population......	570,000
Total..........................	903,919

And whereas the enumerators of 1910 found 75,000 more people in April than they would have found in June, the recent State census may have found 75,000 less people in a New York residence than they would have found if the census had been taken in April.

The estimates of the foreign-born and native-born increment have been reached as follows:

1. The average annual immigration of the ten years' period 1901-1910, into the United States, compared with the average annual immigration for the period July 1, 1910, to April 30, 1915, was as 100 to 104.

Thirty-one per cent. of the immigration, 1901-1910, gave New York State as its destination; 28.5 per cent. of the immigration July 1, 1910, to May 1, 1915, gave New York State as its destination.

The national immigration service began, July 1, 1907, to keep count of returned emigration, and the surplus of arrivals above departures is available from that date. The average surplus of arrivals over departures for the years July 1, 1907, to July 1, 1910, was 523,776, and for the four and five-sixths years ended April 30, 1915, was 522,805.

These two groups are related to one another as 1,000 to 998. The growth from emigration, 1900-1910, was, as above stated, 674,277, and the growth from immigration since the Federal census may therefore have been:

$$\frac{674,277\times41\times52\times57\times499}{79\times50\times62\times500}=\frac{40,888,478,235,852}{122,450,000}$$

= 333,919.

2. The average annual surplus of births over deaths in New York City, 1901-1910, was 33,818, and the average surplus since that time to June 1 has been 56,664.

These two groups are related to each other as 40 to 67.

The increment of New York from native born, 1900-1910, was 655,404.

The increment from native born since 1910 may therefore have been:

$$\frac{655,404\times41\times67}{79\times40}=\frac{1,800,394,788}{3,160}=569,748.$$

The combination of these two results would make the increment of the city, April 15, 1910, to June 1, 1915:

From foreign born................	333,919
From native born.................	570,000
Total..........................	903,919
Loss due to June 1 enumeration...	75,000
Probable increment by above processes..........................	828,919
The result reached by the formula above given was..........	825,760

The processes confirm the findings of the formula. My prediction, therefore, is that the five and one-eighth years' increase of the city when disclosed by the final results of the State census will be found to be between 825,760 and 903,919, with 828,919 as a medial estimate.

The percentage method, 37.3 per decade, as for 1901-1910, would give the city a population increase of 911,427 in five and one-eighth years.

Placing the population of the city June 1, 1915, at 5,595,802, my estimate of the population of the boroughs would be as follows: Manhattan, 2,525,386; Bronx, 634,563; Brooklyn, 1,945,660; Queens, 388,349; Richmond, 101,844.

ON A SUMMER NIGHT.

A Noise, a Soda Bottle, Apologies, and a Letter to The Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

These Summer nights are short enough without the disturbance of sleep by nuisances of don't-care people who more contradict than understand the mode of intensely socialized or, more plainly, apartmental living. They become unendurable when caused by neglect of supervising on part of superintendent of apartment house. The following note and counter-note are the products from a suffering of an instance of the latter case.

9th Floor.
June 19, 8:00 A. M.

Dear lower Neighbors:—

Accidentally one of us smashed a soda bottle at the bottom of one of your windows early this morning. We are exceedingly sorry to have terrified you, gentle people, beside perhaps slightly damaging the window fitting, which, if real, we beg, to be allowed a prompt attending to.

You remember a lot of fearful noise, contrary to usual modest one, at the roof of the next door a little after the dawn. The said one of us (the writer) wished to stop that noise; it was a carpet beating of some power showing presumably spended amusingly. He could not stop it by mere "cut it out" that he uttered several times. Irritated by the apparent obstinacy, he fetched the said bottle and threw it at the roof as an object scolding. By awkwardness mingled with sleepyness he failed to land it where it was aimed. He was really shocked to see it only toutch the opposit wall couple inches below the top and rebound down at your window. The result was a more noise making by one who wished to stop it. He only succeeded in the purpose by a personal visit to our roof whence he commanded out the hardnecked, a colored, in uniform and on his last duty of night work.

Would you, with generous heart, give us a pardon to the above misdeed innocent but careless and stupid? May we also ask you to let us know about the safty of the window of our anxiety?

Sincerely yours,
UPPER NEIGHBORS.

8th Floor.
June 19, 8:30 A. M.

Dear Upper Neighbors:—

No blame on you about the auxiliary noise making of your own. We were not much startled by it, as we had been awakened by the terrible nuisance that caused the above. We rather thank you for your chivalrous trouble-taking, of the stoppage for us people in bed vainly impatient. Our window you questioned sustained no injury, on account of a screen outside. We appreciate your anxiety.

Truly yours,
LOWER NEIGHBORS.

Unlike international notes, these are once for all settling. Just a few words more. A superintendent and a janitor belong to a same class, differing as much as a bull and a terrier differ. If the former everywhere knew his position as the latter usually does he would not be so much the source of complaints nowadays.

THE TUNNEL TO QUEENS.

Cost, Absurdity, and Inconvenience of Subway Trains Over Bridges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer desires to commend the stand you take so clearly regarding a tunnel to Queens at Sixtieth Street in your editorial in this morning's issue. Your argument as to the peculiar reasoning which induces the responsible parties to believe that running subway trains over a bridge can ever be justified is very well taken. Subway trains should cross the rivers in tunnels, the elevated trains on the bridges. Further, the writer desires to call attention to some of the arguments brought out in Chairman McCall's letter to the Board of Estimate.

First, as to the cost: Little or no weight is given to the guarantee of a well-known and responsible contractor that the cost of a tunnel shall not exceed $4,500,000, and with reduction on his present work in Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Streets he further agrees to rebate to the city $500,000, making the tunnel cost net to the city $4,000,000, or with the perhaps necessary rock dredging $4,300,000, as against $6,000,000, the estimate of the commission. Surely $1,700,000 is not a small amount to be so lightly overlooked.

Second, as to delays: In building the Steinway Tunnel at Forty-second Street there was required only a little over twenty-four months, and there is no reason to claim that a tunnel at Sixtieth Street could not be built in two and one-half years from the date of a contract, but the crux of the whole situation is overlooked and omitted when it becomes known that the very necessary link in the Broadway Subway at Times Square (without which neither bridge nor tunnel can be utilized) is not yet ready to be bid for. Its construction will surely occupy two and a half to three years.

Third, as to the congestion of traffic on Queensboro Bridge: The Borough of Queens is fast growing into a highly developed industrial centre; traffic, particularly of motor vehicles, is increasing every month. These industries located there because of the broad highway they see now. What good reason can be assigned for so rearranging this highway that for many months its efficiency will be much curtailed and lost, and when completed it will be unsatisfactory? Further, there are frequent occasions now, with the 52-foot roadway, when actual congestion occurs, due to motor vehicle attractions on Long Island. Any one can figure how much more unsatisfactory the conditions would be with two 26-foot roadways, with all the attendant difficulties in turning out with traffic going in each direction on such a narrow road. There is no doubt that within five years from now additional highway accommodation will be required. If the subway trains cross the bridge there will be no place for an additional roadway, whereas if the lower deck is left as it is at present, and only elevated trains cross the bridge, there will be ample room alongside the elevated trains for two additional roadways, eastbound on the south side and westbound on the north side of the bridge.

These comments represent much study on the part of the writer, who desires to have the facts clearly placed before your readers and the civic authorities in order that Queens, the fastest growing borough, may have full justice done her.

PROTEST BY MARKS HALTS COURT HOUSE

Row in Board of Estimate When He Urges Abandonment of the Project.

COST TO BE INVESTIGATED

McAneny Quotes Corporation Counsel as Saying Law Compels City to Acquire Site and Build.

Borough President Marcus M. Marks started a warm discussion at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate by advocating that the new Court House project be abandoned immediately, on the ground that it was entirely too costly and that the city should practice economy. He was bitterly criticised by Mayor Mitchel, Controller Prendergast, and President George McAneny.

When a communication from the Court House Board requesting approval of plans, specifications, and contracts for the new Court House came up, Mr. Marks said he desired to read a letter on the subject. In part it said:

"A beautiful Court House and civic centre, affording improved quarters for Judges and juries, are no doubt very desirable; but, after careful study, I have come to the conclusion that in times like these, on grounds of economy, an expenditure running, according to the various estimates, between $17,000,000 and $30,000,000, should be avoided.

"When we hesitate to continue public floating baths; when we cut down music in the parks; when we even consider the idea of eliminating public lectures, night schools for immigrants, and vacation schools during the Summer months, then, indeed, may we well contemplate a halt in this plan, which means such a tremendous initial expenditure and an annual charge for maintenance and interest running into the millions for many years to come.

"Services to the masses of the people must take precedence over costly Court Houses and civic centres. I am, therefore, compelled, as a practical man of business, to advocate the immediate abandonment of this project."

Senator Bennett Attacked.

The Mayor, the Controller, and Mr. McAneny immediately wanted to know where Mr. Marks got his figures, and he replied that they came from reliable sources.

"Did you take your figures from a man named Bennett?" asked the Mayor hotly, referring to recent statements by State Senator William M. Bennett regarding city finances. Mr. Bennett, who was in the room, arose and said he wanted to be heard.

President McAneny ignored him and went on with a discussion of the Court House plan. He said the land that would be saved by the purchasing of additional property could be sold at an advantage to the city and that this would keep the Court House cost within its original estimate. He also said the Corporation Counsel had advised the board that the project could not be now abandoned.

"Where is that opinion?" asked President Marks; "I have not seen it."

"It is a verbal opinion," replied Mr. McAneny. "You could have had it any time you wanted it."

Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, came to the help of Mr. Marks and said the city should abandon the Court House and pocket its loss, even if it amounted to $7,000,000, as it might get it back in other ways.

"The financial condition of the country and of the city is not going to improve in years. Any business man would pocket the loss," said Mr. Browne.

The Mayor, the Controller, and President McAneny then began to cross-examine Mr. Marks. When he said the original site had bad foundations Mr. McAneny wanted to know what engineers had advised him to this effect.

"I don't believe that I should be cross-examined about this matter," said Mr. Marks, and Controller Prendergast then wanted to know why Mr. Marks had not joined him when he made some objection to acquiring additional land for the site some weeks ago. Mr. Marks replied that the matter of a direct State tax had come up since then.

Bennett Hits Administration.

Senator Bennett was then recognized. He said he had long ago foretold the financial crisis which he said was now facing the city as a result of what he termed the extravagance of the City Government.

"Mayor Mitchel has taken two flings at the Legislature," said Mr. Bennett. "Last week he said special interests controlled the Legislature, and this week he referred to the mandatory action of the Legislature in compelling the city to build a Court House. I want to say that in not grasping what is going on before it the Legislature has nothing on this board."

Mr. Bennett made further criticisms of the board and the Controller said:

"In the stories that the city's debt limit had been exceeded, given out by Mr. Bennett, he has shown that he does not understand the city's financing. His ignorance would be bad enough, but at this time his attacks are vicious. They are calculated to hurt the credit of the city and injure the forthcoming bond sale."

"Talk affecting the credit of the city at this time is almost criminal," put in President McAneny.

"Mr. Bennett's statements show more than ignorance," said the Controller. "They show absolute mendacity."

Project Goes to Committee.

"Well, I don't know what you mean," said Mr. Marks. "But, if I am honestly convinced of my course on a matter of great importance I intend to speak my mind. What else does this board want me to do?"

"You might, out of courtesy, consult your associates," put in Mr. McAneny.

"This seems to me to be an appeal to certain elements," interjected Mayor Mitchel. "The whole thing is a grand stand play."

Mr. McAneny ended further controversy by moving that the Mayor appoint a committee consisting of President Pounds of Brooklyn, the Controller, and President McAneny, to investigate the probable cost of the Court House and the probable loss to the city should the project be abandoned. The motion was carried.

Later Mr. McAneny said this did not mean that the project was to be abandoned. He said he had obtained an opinion from the Corporation Counsel that the city was committed to the site selected and the building of a Court House, but not as to the amount of money to be spent and that it would require an act of the Legislature to undo what had already been done.

Had it not been for President Mark's protest the plans and contracts for the project would have gone to the Committee on City Plans and the Committee on Corporate Stock Budget for approval.

Hyde-Babcock Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Salem Hyde of Syracuse, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Ann Hyde, to Maltbie L. Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Noyes Babcock of Syracuse, and a nephew of the late Rev. Dr. Maltbie D. Babcock, former pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, this city.

Miss Hyde was maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Naomi Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Andrews of 875 Madison Avenue, and her brother, Nelson Collingwood Hyde, which took place here on Jan. 20. Mr. Babcock is a graduate of Yale University, class of '13.

No date has been set for the wedding.

A LOCKOUT IN CHICAGO.

Building Trade Employers Order It—Will Make 200,000 Men Idle.

CHICAGO, June 25.—A general lockout of Chicago's building industry was ordered tonight after an all-day meeting of every interest in the building industry—financial, materials, and contracting.

All materials manufacturers will cease work and close down their yards, contractors will lay off their men, and the financial interests of the city will back them, according to the announcement.

The burden of the tie-up was placed by contractors upon the striking carpenters, who have refused to arbitrate their dispute over wages, although they have been on strike more than a month.

It is estimated that 200,000 men will be thrown out of work by the lockout.

WORLD'S WRESTLERS DRAW.

Bout at Manhattan Opera House Called Off by the Spectators

After three hours and forty minutes of continuous wrestling the bout for the Graeco-Roman championship of the world between Alexander Aberg and Waldek Zbysko at the Manhattan Opera House was called a draw this morning at 2:45 o'clock.

Although both men were exhausted George Bothner wished them to wrestle to a finish, but when Announcer Humphreys appealed to the spectators they demanded that it be called a draw. Aberg is the Graeco-Roman champion of the world and comes from the Russian Province of Esthonia. Zbysko is a Pole and had wrestled through the tournament in order to challenge the champion.

MRS. SLOANE GIVES $10,000

CARRANZA DEFEATED BEFORE MEXICO CITY

Zapata Artillery Repulses Gonzales, Who Expected to Take Capital Without a Fight.

SITUATION MORE SERIOUS

Grave Fears for 25,000 Foreigners—President Expected to Act on Return to Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Concern over the situation in Mexico City was increased today when it became known through official advices to the State Department that General Pablo Gonzales, the General commanding the Carranzista column operating against the Mexican capital with a view to its capture, had been repulsed in a series of artillery duels and beaten off by the Zapatistas. Details as to the extent of the defeat of the Gonzales force were lacking, but the advices made it plain that hot artillery fire was poured into Carranza's troops, who are now expected to face stiff fighting before they wrest the Mexican capital from the control of the Zapatistas. It appears that the Zapata forces have now obtained the ammunition which they lacked before, and that, instead of evacuating Mexico City and permitting the Carranzistas to enter peacefully, they have built entrenchments and do not propose to surrender the capital without a fight.

It was the announced intention of the Carranzistas to capture Mexico City within a week. Two weeks have passed since this prediction was made and the Gonzales column is not only not in possession of Mexico City, but has met with serious reverses and the inability of the Carranzistas to make good their claim of easy capture of the capital is accepted as indicating that Carranza is far from an early control of the situation in Mexico. General Gonzales has interrupted communication between Mexico City and Washington and the State Department is still without advices concerning the situation in Mexico City.

Diplomatic representatives of foreign Governments here are very much concerned over the fate of the colony of about 25,000 foreigners in Mexico City and the general muddle in the Mexican situation, which is regarded as infinitely worse than on June 2, when President Wilson issued his warning to the Mexican factions to get together. But they are disposed to await the return of the President from Cornish, N. H., in the expectation that he will, by that time, have determined upon some line of action which may be announced early in July.

The situation in the Yaqui River Valley of Sonora is still without change, so far as official advices from Admiral Howard to the Navy Department go. Admiral Howard notified the department today that on account of shoal water it would be difficult to make a landing, if necessary, at Tobari Bay, which is the nearest point on the coast to the American colony near Esperanza, and that if a landing should become necessary it would have to be made at Guaymas. Admiral Howard has divided his squadron between Tobari Bay and Guaymas.

The Carranza agency tonight issued a statement which says:

"There has been no exportation of foodstuffs from the port of Vera Cruz, according to a cablegram received this morning at the confidential agency of the Constitutionalist Government over the signature of Venustiano Carranza. Recently reports have been current that in the face of food shortage in portions of Mexico contiguous to Vera Cruz, the Constitutionalist Government was exporting foodstuffs to Cuba. Yucatan was the real destination of the consignments sent out of Vera Cruz.

"Persons in Vera Cruz, observing that consignments of beans, corn, and other products had been put aboard a Ward liner at Vera Cruz, in the opinion of General Carranza, jumped to the conclusion that these articles were intended for a foreign market.

"In line with this explanation of the true status of affairs in Vera Cruz was the dispatch received late last night at the Constitutionalist agency, which reported the conference between First Chief Carranza, Consul Silliman, and Agent O'Connell of the American Red Cross, in which the First Chief explained to Mr. O'Connell that every facility would be accorded the Red Cross in its work wherever the civil or military branches of the Constitutionalist Government could co-operate in the relief of distress.

"Eliseo Arredondo, confidential agent of the Constitutionalist Government, today expressed the view that the reassuring message of the First Chief would set at rest the persistent, although never confirmed, rumors that the Constitutionalist Government had any intention of hindering the work of the Red Cross.

"The First Chief also relates that General Obregon is now at Encarnacion, near Aguascalientes, and that Villa has offered no resistance to the advance movement of the Constitutionalist forces since the last defeat of his soldiers, and that his northward retreat continues."

The American Red Cross has been advised in a telegram from Piedras Negras that the Red Cross representative sent into the Monclova district with corn and beans for the relief of destitute noncombatants, accompanied by another American, called on General Hernandez, commanding the Mexican forces in that district, to request permission to send relief to Saltillo and more corn and beans to Monclova. General Hernandez refused to permit the Red Cross to purchase corn and beans in Mexican territory, advising that he would use native corn and beans to relieve the people if necessary, but granted permission to the Red Cross to send supplies from the United States.

Plans to bring about co-operation between the American and the Mexican Red Cross Societies were set on foot today by Miss Mabel T. Boardman. The State Department requested Consul General Shanklin, now at Vera Cruz, to get in touch with the Mexican Red Cross officials as soon as he reaches Mexico City and outline Miss Boardman's proposal.

Mr. Shanklin and O. J. O'Connor, American Red Cross representatives at Vera Cruz, were endeavoring today to arrange for the transportation of the relief supplies to Mexico City.

General Felipe Angeles, Villa's artillery expert, will arrive in Washington from Boston next Friday, according to an announcement tonight. The specific nature of his errand has not been revealed.

Lieut. Col. Aguilar, of Raoul Madero's staff, and Major Garcia, of Villa's staff, arrived in Washington tonight from the front in Central Mexico. They were said to be on their way to New York to buy munitions.

DOUGLAS, June 25.—The food situation in Sonora is perplexing, Red Cross officials say. Offers to sell American supplies sent for distribution have been reported from several of the districts where suffering from scarcity of food is reported.

An investigation now being conducted indicates that the famine is due more to depreciation of the buying power of Mexican scrip than to actual lack of supplies.

CRUISER SAILS FOR HAITI.

Admiral Caperton Leaves Vera Cruz on the Washington.

VERA CRUZ, June 25.—The armored cruiser Washington, with Rear Admiral Caperton on board, sailed hence today for Haiti. The gunboat Sacramento has arrived from Tampico.

The Red Cross has obtained permission from General Carranza to take a carload of medical supplies to Mexico City. The time for the start of the shipment is uncertain.

CARRANZA SHIPS IN CUBA.

Two There Said to Have Been Bought for Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, June 25.—The steamer Alameda, alleged to have been bought for General Carranza, has arrived, and the steamer Atlanta, also bought for Carranza, is expected to sail soon.

The Captain was ignorant of the sale, and said he was instructed to await orders here.

WEDS ENGLISH LIEUTENANT.

Miss F. E. Winants, New York War Nurse, Marries M. A. F. Hood.

Word has been received from England of the marriage in London on Thursday of Miss Frances Ellis Winants, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lucius F. Donohue of New York, and Lieutenant Martin A. F. Hood, R. N.

Miss Winants went abroad last Winter with Miss Marjorie Dana of this city to serve as a war nurse, after she had completed her studies at the nurses' training school at the Young Women's Christian Association. She was for a time stationed in the Belgian Hospital at La Panne, under Dr. de Page, whose wife was lost on the Lusitania while returning from this country with funds for war relief work.

It is not known where Miss Winants first met Lieutenant Hood, as the first intimation her relatives here had of her approaching marriage was on Wednesday, when she notified them by cable. She has been on leave of absence and was the guest of Lieutenant Hood's family in London. The young naval officer was on leave of absence at the same time.

The bride has many friends in this city, and was educated at Porter's School, Farmington, Conn.

Eltinge an Actors' Colony Founder.

Julian Eltinge, the actor, has returned from California, where he has been taking a vacation since the close of his last road season, seven weeks ago. Mr. Eltinge told of a colony he and a number of other stage folk had founded at Hollywood near Los Angeles. The group includes Jesse Lasky, Blanche Ring, Mr. and Mrs. William De Mille, Mary Pickford, Geraldine Farrar and Fannie Ward. Thirty acres have been purchased. Mr. Eltinge will be seen here in the Eltinge Theatre in September in "Cousin Lucy," a comedy written for him by the late Charles Klein.

Maxey Blumenthal Weds Next Week

Maxey Blumenthal, the bookmaker, and Miss Louise Meyers, late of Ziegfeld "Follies," went to the City Hall yesterday and obtained their marriage license. They will be married next week at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Broadway and Seventy-first Street. Miss Meyers is a daughter of the late Albert Barnes Meyers and gave her age to the license clerk as twenty-six, while Mr. Blumenthal said he was forty-eight.

Mr. Blumenthal was the guest at a dinner last Wednesday night at the Hotel Knickerbocker, which was estimated to have cost between $50 and $80 a plate and at which Nat Goodwin was toastmaster.

Forbes-Robertson to Return in Fall.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson has not said his last farewell as an actor to America. He has decided to return in October to make another tour, which will embrace those cities he was unable to visit during the last two years. He will not play again, however, in any of the cities in which he has already said farewell, and his stay in each city will be limited to a few days. His repertoire will be the same and his company practically the same as on his last tours. Percy Burton will continue as his manager.

Benefit for Geo. H. Harris's Family.

Friars Club friends of the late George H. Harris, theatrical manager, are planning a benefit to be given at Hurtig & Seamon's 125th Street Theatre on Sunday evening, July 11, for Mr. Harris's family, which, it has just become known, is in straitened circumstances. Acts from leading attractions will be given, and prominent vaudeville actors will take part. Seats can be obtained from Robert Fulgora at the Friars' Club. Mr. Harris was well known in the theatrical profession. He was for many years with William A. Brady. It was while acting as manager for one of the Hurtig & Seamon attractions that he received injuries in an automobile accident from which he died.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Foster Milliken has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Ruth Milliken of 178 East Seventieth Street, to Robert Thurston Houk, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Houk of Dayton, Ohio. The wedding is to take place in the early Autumn.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil M. Stevens is to be christened tomorrow in the Church of the Holy Innocents, Hoboken, erected by the child's great-grandmother, Mrs. Martha Bayard Stevens, widow of Edwin A. Stevens. The cap to be worn by the infant was made for her great-grandfather, George Washington Lewis, by his grandmother, Nellie Park Custic Lewis, who was General Washington's adopted daughter.

Eugene Boissevain is sailing today for Naples to join his wife, Mrs. Eugene Boissevain, formerly Miss Inez Milholland, who has been in Italy for some time.

Mrs. William Carroll Rafferty and Miss Mercedes Rafferty are in New London, Conn., where they attended the races and will spend the season at Narragansett Pier.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Watkins are entertaining a house party over the week-end at their country place, Jonathan Farm, at Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

Hilary A. Herbert, Secretary of the Navy under President Cleveland, who came here as the guest of his niece, Mrs. Lewis B. Woodruff, to attend the Arizona launching, has returned to Alabama.

Several important weddings are scheduled for today. Miss Kathryn N. Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele, and F. Skiddy von Stade are to be married at noon in the Church of the Advent, Westbury, L. I. Miss Alice Haven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Haven, and George Schieffelin Trevor will be married at 3:30 o'clock in the chapel of St. George's Church. At 4:30 o'clock, at the Hotel Gotham, Miss Dorothea Webb Parsons will become the bride of James Flanagan Dechert.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The graduation exercises of the Henderson School of Oratory will be held this afternoon in the music hall of the Country Life Exposition, in Grand Central Palace. Maurice V. Samuels will deliver the address.

Edmund Breese and a company of players will leave New York next Thursday for Sitka, Alaska, where they will spend seven weeks acting for a motion picture version of Robert W. Service's poem, "The Spell of the Yukon." The picture will be made under the direction of Herbert Blache for the Metro Pictures Corporation.

Wilfred Draycott will play his original role in "Under Cover" next season. He will return shortly from a trip abroad.

The Seringhaus Dramatic Club of the Richmond Hill House will give a performance of "Pierre Patelin" in St. Anthony's School Hall tonight. The club, which is made up of young Italians of the Washington Square neighborhood, is under the direction of Edward Goodman, Director of the Washington Square Players.

"The Birth of a Nation," the feature film which has been on exhibition in the Liberty Theatre for several months, will be shown in the Brighton Beach Music Hall, beginning next Friday night. The picture will remain at the Liberty also indefinitely.

"Search Me," a new comedy by Augustin MacHugh, who wrote "Officer 666," will be produced by Clinton W. Moffatt and Daniel Pennell in the Broadway Theatre, Long Branch, July 19. The cast will include Howard Estabrook, Vera Mellish, Walter McEwan, George Gaston, William Eville, Wilfred Seagram, Walter Russell, and Ilka Marie Diehl.

"On Trial" will conclude its present engagement in the Candler Theatre next Saturday night. Cohan & Harris have decided to break the run of the melodrama, which will have been performed 375 times on that date, to give the players a vacation. Aug. 2 it will be presented again in the Candler.

FAMOUS PIANIST, JOSEFFY, IS DEAD

Veteran Virtuoso Expires at Home from a Sudden Attack of Acute Indigestion.

MADE DEBUT HERE IN 1879

A Hungarian Who Began Study of the Piano at 8—Teacher and Editor of Music in Recent Years.

Rafael Joseffy, a celebrated piano virtuoso, who has of late years retired almost entirely from the concert stage and devoted himself to teaching and editing music, died yesterday at his home, 3,657 Broadway, of a malady which his physician could not at first determine, but which was later established by a Coroner's Office examination to be acute indigestion. It is said that at the time of his death he was working on part of a complete edition of Chopin's works.

The pianist was born in Hungary in 1852. He began his study of the piano as a boy of eight. Although he was in no sense an "infant prodigy," his father directed his studies under Brauer in Budapest, and he entered the Leipzig Conservatorium when he was fourteen, where he studied principally wtih E. F. Wenzel, but had a few lessons from Moscheles. He remained in Leipzig only two years, and in 1868 went to Berlin to study with Tausig. The latter master had most to do with shaping his ideas and his influence was approached only by that of Liszt, with whom Joseffy spent the Summers of 1870 and 1871 in Weimar.

His first public appearance was made in Berlin in 1872. Afterward he gave a number of concerts in Vienna and in most of the Continental music centres. His success was won immediately and he was hailed as a virtuoso with remarkable technical powers. The critic Hanslick described his style at this time as of great brilliance.

Joseffy came to the United States in 1879, and had made his home here ever since. He made his debut in New York the year of his arrival with an orchestra under Dr. Damrosch, and won instant recognition. Soon after his first appearance he played with the Philharmonic Society, and subsequently made many appearances in New York and other American cities with Theodore Thomas and his orchestra, constantly making his position as a foremost pianist of the time more secure.

In his later years it was recognized that he had broadened and deepened his powers. He had been characterized by a wide sympathy with varying schools of composition and showed no discrimination in devotion among such composers as Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, Liszt, and Brahms. Indeed he is identified as a pioneer in this country in making known the pianoforte works of Brahms, and was one of the first to give frequent performances of that composer's second concerto.

His chief contribution to the literature of the piano is his much-used School of Advanced Piano Playing, which was published here in 1902, and represented years of work and experience. For the last ten or twelve years his appearances in public have been very infrequent. He has been devoting himself to teaching, having been identified with one of the local conservatories, and having a limited number of private pupils, and with editing and arranging collections of music for publishers, principally in the field of piano music. Early in life he published some original compositions for piano.

Although his age and his disposition have caused his practical retirement during the last few years, his many friends and associates in the music world have thought him to be in good health. Some months ago he was ill from nervous prostration which seemed to threaten serious results, but he recovered and seemed entirely himself again. He left a widow, a son and a daughter.

The Rev. Joseph M. F. McGinty.

CHARITIES.

WE have the equipment, system, environment, all that is required to do efficient work, except money enough to meet the bills.

Every available inch of space is now being used. Lack of means may result in keeping beds empty, thus denying a chance of life to some man whose family is deprived of the wage earner; some woman whose children have had to be placed in institutions; a child who might be cured at the right time, but be ever after a public charge if denied.

Gifts, large or small, will give hope, perhaps life, to some one who sorely needs a helping hand NOW. Send what you can to Wm. M. Cruikshank, Treas., 59 East 59th St.

YALE CREWS DEFEAT HARVARD IN ALL RACES ON THAMES—TENNIS—GOLF

W. M. HALL DEFEATED IN STRAIGHT SETS

H. A. Throckmorton Wins Middle States Tennis Final—To Play Behr for Title.

Harold A. Throckmorton, the 18-year old schoolboy and metropolitan junior champion, climbed to the top of the heap yesterday by defeating Walter Merrill Hall in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4, 6—4, in the final round of the tournament for the championship of the Middle States at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club, Mountain, N. J. The youngster fairly outdid himself, putting up a brand of fast all-round tennis that had Hall, the title holder in 1911, guessing from first to last. Throckmorton will face Karl H. Behr, Middle States champion, in the challenge round at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Not content with a single victory, Throckmorton later paired with his doubles partner, Lindley Dunham, another schoolboy, and won his way into the doubles final by eliminating Cedric Major and Alrick H. Man, Jr., after a stubborn battle at 6—2, 7—5. So he and Dunham will confront C. F. Watson and Charles M. Bull, Jr., today in the final round of the doubles to decide which team shall challenge Behr and T. R. Pell, the holders of the title.

Miss Molla Bjurstedt has only one more obstacle to overcome in her triumphant progress toward her fifth championship this season. She romped off with her match against Miss Clare Cassel at 6—2, 6—2, and will contend today with Miss Ina A. Kissel in the final round. Miss Kissel had a fairly hard time disposing of Miss Helen Pollock at 6—2, 7—5. If Miss Bjurstedt wins today she will be the Middle States champion, as Mrs. Edward Raymond, last year's winner, will not defend her title.

In the women's doubles the final will be played today between Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Cassel and Miss Kissel and Miss Florence Ballin. Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Cassel qualified by defeating Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Elsie Jewett in straight sets, 6—2, 6—4, yesterday. Miss Kissel and Miss Ballin met unexpected opposition from Miss Abbey Morrison and Mrs. Van Winkle and were pressed to their limit to gain the upper hand at 6—4, 6—3.

The victory of Throckmorton was watched by a large gallery which applauded the youngster repeatedly as he steadily wore down his seasoned opponent. It was a hard beating for Hall to take, for the latter was not quite up to his usual form and drove many shots out of bounds and into the net. Throckmorton is a slim, wiry youngster, who apparently never tires and is after the ball like a deer. He put all kinds of steam into his serve and allowed Hall to break through only twice during the match.

Throckmorton seemed almost to be "playing a system." He opened by winning the first game on Hall's service and resting content with breaking even on the next eight games, whereupon he took the tenth on his own service at love and won at 6—4. He started the second set in the same way, winning on Hall's service and breaking even until the seventh, when he again broke through at 5—2. Hall then turned the trick and took Throckmorton's serve and brought the score to 4—5 by winning his own. But that was the best he could do, and the second set was the boy's at 6—4.

Again Hall opened with service in the third, and again Throckmorton got the jump by winning the first. He brought the score up to 4—1, his favor, before Hall managed to win another game. Once more the youngster settled down, and, by splitting even in the next four, carried the deciding match at 6—4. In all three sets the advantage obtained by winning the first game was enough to carry Throckmorton through.

Throckmorton did most of his scoring from the net, handling most of Hall's usually difficult lobs with great skill and precision. He had a way of lunging gracefully for Hall's cross-court drives and frequently astonished the gallery by making returns that seemed far out of reach. His overhead smashes had his sturdy opponent guessing and were invariably good for points.

The speed with which the youngster contrived to get to the net after his service seemed to worry Hall, and there were some in the gallery who thought they caught Throckmorton foot-faulting. The referee, however, allowed the youngster to proceed without a word of warning.

The point score of the Throckmorton-Hall match follows:

FIRST SET.

											P.	G.
Hall	2	5	11	2	4	4	4	1	4	0	33	4

SECOND SET.

Hall	2	1	5	0	4	2	3	4	4	1	26	4
Throckmorton	4	4	3	4	2	4	5	1	1	4	32	6

THIRD SET.

Hall	2	0	5	0	0	4	4	2	5	4	26	4
Throckmorton	4	4	3	4	4	0	2	4	3	6	34	6

Miss Bjurstedt went into her match with Miss Cassel teeming with confidence. She seemed annoyed at the thought of having dropped a grand total of three games to her former opponents, and remarked to a friend that she would not be happy if she did not keep Miss Cassel from scoring. Before she knew it Miss Cassel had walked off with the first two games. That so irritated Miss Bjurstedt that she took the next ten in a row, the first six giving her the set at 6—2, and the next four putting her in the lead at 4—0. They broke even on serves after that. Even at that Miss Bjurstedt has the record of having the fewest games scored against her of anybody in the tournament. She has won forty-eight games and lost only seven.

Those who thought that his match with Hall had sapped Throckmorton's strength—he is not a husky youngster—were surprised when he and Dunham went after Major, the former Cornell player, and his partner, Man, one time New England champion, and brushed them aside with comparative ease. Throckmorton seemed as fresh as any of them, and he did his full share of the playing. The summary:

Middle States Championship, Men's Singles, Final Round.—Harold A. Throckmorton defeated Walter Merrill Hall, 6—4, 6—4, 6—4.

Men's Doubles, Semi-Finals.—Harold A. Throckmorton and Lindley Dunham defeated Cedric Major and Alrick H. Man, Jr., 6—2, 7—5; C. F. Watson and Charles M. Bull, Jr., defeated C. L. Johnston, Jr., and Arthur M. Lovibond, 7—5, 6—2.

Women's Singles, Semi-Finals.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt defeated Miss Clare Cassel, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Ina A. Kissel defeated Miss Helene Pollock, 6—2, 9—7.

Women's Doubles, Semi-Finals.—Miss Bjurstedt and Miss Cassel defeated Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Elsie Jewett, 6—2, 6—4; Miss Ina A. Kissel and Miss Florence Ballin defeated Miss Abbey Morrison and Mrs. Van Winkle, 6—4, 6—2.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S OUTING

6,000 See Running Races and Baseball at Ebbets Field.

Honor roll students of the public schools of Brooklyn and Queens held a field day at Ebbets Field yesterday under the auspices of The Brooklyn Eagle. Over 6,000 children with their parents or guardians were in attendance. The feature of the event was the baseball game for the public school championship of those two boroughs. The team from Public School 88 of Queens won the title, defeating Public School 9 of Brooklyn by 7 to 1 runs. The pitching of Gute, who struck out thirteen of the opposing batsmen, was responsible in a great measure for the victory of Public School 88.

Following the baseball was a half-mile championship relay race, in which eighteen schools took part. The four young athletes from Public School 38 of Brooklyn came in first. The time was 1:40 2-5. The team ran in the following order: L. Mathews, P. Moffett, C. Valentine, C. Fairbanks.

Score of game by innings:

								R.	H.	E.

CHAMPION WINS AT TENNIS.

Miss Wagner Defeats Mrs. Barger Wallach on New Rochelle Courts.

Playing a strong back court driving game, Miss Marie Wagner, the State champion, defeated Mrs. Barger Wallach in the final round of the women's singles in the Quaker Ridge tennis championship tournament yesterday on the courts of the New Rochelle Lawn Tennis Club at New Rochelle. The champion was at her best and won in straight sets at 6-4, 8-6. There was little difference in the style of play, each contestant playing a back court game, but Mrs. Wallach's returns were somewhat softer than those of her opponent and this weakness was mainly responsible for her defeat.

Miss Wagner started her aggressive attack in the first set, but Mrs. Wallach succeeded in capturing three out of the first four games, two of which went to deuce. The champion won the next three games and went into the lead for the first time. Mrs. Wallach took the next set at love and brought the score to 4 all. A smart rally by Miss Wagner gave her the next two games and the match.

The second set found Mrs. Wallach with the advantage of the first two games, but under Miss Wagner's persistent attack she appeared to tire and the champion recovered the lost ground. In the tenth game Mrs. Wallach pulled up to 5 to 4 and needed only two alls to win the set. Miss Wagner again forced the issue and carried the set to deuce. Each player captured her own service, but the champion broke through in the thirteenth game and won her own service again, taking the match after a clever display of tennis.

For the second time this season Dr. William Rosenbaum and Vanderbilt B. Ward, the Eastern States champion, will today play a final match. In the first engagement at the New York Tennis Club tournament Dr. Rosenbaum won in straight sets. He qualified to compete for the Quaker Ridge Cup through a straight set victory in the semi-final round over F. T. Hunter, the young Cornell star, at 6-4, 6-3. The summary:

Quaker Ridge Challenge Cup, Men's Singles, Semi-Final Round.—Dr. William Rosenbaum defeated F. T. Hunter, 6—4, 6—3.

Men's Doubles, Second Round.—Granville Burr and Harold Swain defeated W. R. Zaumer and C. H. Noxon, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3.

Third Round.—Dr. William Rosenbaum and J. H. Steinkampf defeated Edmund J. Fixman and Allen Behr, 6—4, 6—3, 9—7; Benjamin M. Phillips and Vanderbilt B. Ward defeated George S. Groesbeck and Ingo Hartmann, 6—3, 9—7.

Mixed Doubles, Semi-Final Round.—Miss Margaret Grove and J. H. Steinkampf defeated Miss C. Barrett and O. Knitel, 6—1, 6—1.

ATHLETES GO TO BOSTON.

Irish-American and New York Clubs Send Strong Teams to Tryouts.

New York's strong contingent of athletes entered in the Eastern tryout for the national track and field championships, which take place this afternoon in the Harvard Stadium at Cambridge, Mass., left here yesterday fit for the hard struggle which awaits them. Lawson Robertson, the Irish-American A. C. trainer, chaperoned the biggest squad leaving here, and the men under his charge are expected to be prominent factors in what promises to be the season's best athletic meet excepting the intercollegiates. Paul Pilgrim looked after the New York A. C. team, which was weakened by the absence of Homer Baker, Willie Gordon, and Val Wilkie.

In the Irish squad which left on a 5 o'clock train for Boston were McGrath and Ryan, who are almost certain winners in the hammer throw and 56-pound weight throw; Abel Kiviat, Ed Fraser, M. J. Fahey, Tim Ahearne, Alvah T. Meyer, George Bronder, Jim Duncan, who will compete unattached; L. Harper, Ralph Hillman, Ed Pritchard, M. Schaaf, Hannes Kolehmainen, Joe Bromilow, Kenneth Caldwell, and J. Andromedas.

With Pilgrim went the Mercury Foot stars, Wesley Oler, Frank A. French, Wallace Maxfield, J. C. Lincoln, Fred Kaiser, Frank Lagay, R. A. Daisley, and Walter Bursch. The Millrose A. A. sent Mel Sheppard, their coach; Willie Kyronen, Mike Devanney, and Jack Cahill.

Other New Yorkers who left yesterday were Tom Joyce of the Mohawk A. C., entered in the discus throw; Roy Morse, Salem-Crescent A. C. sprinter; William Plant and Frank Plant, Long Island A. C.; H. M. Martin, Smart Set A. C., and A. L. Engels, unattached, of Brooklyn, who competes in the hurdle races.

Frederick W. Rubien, Chairman of the National Championship Committee, and Justice Bartow S. Weeks headed the New York officials who will help direct the meet.

Pentathlon at Celtic Park.

The feature event of the games which have been announced to be held at Celtic Park on July 5 under the auspices of the Irish-American A. C. and Affiliated Building Trades will be a pentathlon competition consisting of running broad jump, throwing the javelin, 200-meter run, throwing the discus, anw 1,500-meter run. The other events will be 200-yard run, handicap; 500-meter run, handicap; 1,000-yard run, handicap, half-mile walk, handicap; thirty-five-pound weight throw, scratch; 100-yard run, novice, and five events closed to the members of the Affiliated Building Trades.

Dina Best of Boston Terriers.

Classes were well filled in the eighth club match of the Boston Terrier Breeder's Association at the Hotel Gregorian last night. The best dog in the show was L. E. Rode's Dina, a perfectly marked terrier of good general conformation. It is a little less than a year old, and the last victory was when it won in the novice class for bitches at the Long Island Kennel Club Show. The selection for the best in the show was between Dina and C. Keough's Darkness. Dina had just won the ribbon for the best bitch and Darkness that for the best dog.

The reserve for the best of the dogs went to Mrs. Alice L. Simpson's Spider, which lost the opportunity to beat Darkness because of not showing well. He sulked in the ring and Darkness gained the award. Among the bitches Maurice Schachtel's Beauty was second to Dina.

There was a particularly good representation of puppies. In this class M. J. Organ's Midget won the award. There were thirty-five dogs entered in the show, with the entry list reaching sixty. William Kubach judged in the absence of Harry Bacco, who was to have officiated. Robert Waters was Superintendent.

Eastern Y. C. Ocean Race.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., June 25.—Seven yachts were on the list when entries closed here today for the annual ocean race of the Eastern Yacht Club around Cape Cod. The race will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at New London. The racing distance is 195 miles, with the finish at Marblehead Neck, which the leaders are expected to reach early Sunday morning.

The schooner entries for the gold cup contributed by H. S. Vanderbilt of New York are the flagship Constellation, owned by Commodore E. M. Sears of Boston; Vagrant, owned by H. S. Vanderbilt; Irolita, owned by E. W. Clark of Philadelphia; Shiyessa IV., Alfred Douglas of Boston, and Timandra, J. S. Fallon of Boston.

In the sloop class the entries are Avenger, Rear Commodore C. K. Cummings of Boston, and the Shimna, owned by former Commoder R. T. Paine, 2d.

Governor's Cup Polo at Rockaway.

With an entry of three teams, the program for the Governors' Cup competition without handicap has just been issued by the Polo Association. This will be the opening event of the Rockaway Hunting Club's annual tournament, which starts next Wednesday. The three clubs which will play for the trophy are Great Neck, Cooperstown, and Meadow Brook. The drawing shows that the first two will take part in the opening match, with the winner playing Meadow Brook. Last year Cooperstown carried off the honors. The conditions call for teams of four, and all the players must be members of the club which they represent. The trophy becomes the property of the club winning it three times. Individual prizes are added each year by the Rockaway Hunting Club.

YALE CREWS WIN; MAKE CLEAN SWEEP

made them row all the harder, and when he did look behind, saw the Crimson boat far in the ruck, he told his men, that was at the three-mile mark. This news was like new life to Yale. They pulled for the last ounce of strength that was in them, and the Blue increased its lead until it had buried Harvard in a defeat which will never be forgotten.

The finish of the race was a picture which thrilled every man and woman in the big crowd. As Yale went over the finish mark Morse, the stroke oar, and Wiman, at 7, doubled up like jackknives. McLane was on his feet in the swaying shell. He let out a whoop like a wild Indian and then began to splash water on the two men who were doubled up before him.

Captain Sturtevant Goes Under.

Captain Al. Sturtevant, who had rowed the race of his life, fell backward, but he caught the sides of the shell and saved himself until the haze had gone from his eyes. Soon the crew was sitting up again. Wiman was as pale as a white sheet, but with a splash in the face he was soon erect and ready to go back to Gales Ferry.

With the Harvard crew it was different. As every defeated crew should do, Harvard had rowed itself out. Harvard was game to the core. Faithful to its training, the Crimson crew stuck to its duty until it had pulled over the finish line. Then the collapse came. Lund, the capable stroke who had pulled a Harvard crew to victory for the Grand Challenge Cup at Henley a year ago, fell over backward like a log. He had the courage and sheer nerve to keep up until the finish, but then everything left him. His eyes closed and all was darkness. He fell back limp and exhausted. Kreger, the little Harvard coxswain, went to his aid. He splashed him with water and soon Lund was sitting up again. Cabot at 7 and Harwood at 4 also went under. They had given Harvard every last ounce of strength that was in them, and what more could any one ask? In the annals of today's race it must always be said that Harvard died game, defeated fairly and squarely by superior rowing, but courageous to the end.

New London Never Gayer.

It was a gay day for New London. The crowd was bigger and it had more enthusiasm than it has had here for years. All day the streets were jammed with confident Harvard adherents and hopeful Yale men. Everywhere was Blue and Crimson. The hawkers had a prosperous day, for everyone wore colors. New York and Boston were here in force in private cars, automobiles, and palatial yachts.

Never has the old whaling village seen such a collection on the river. First, there was the Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, on the Dolphin. Outside of the bridge the gray, mysterious battleship Utah was anchored with all its flags flying. Also outside the bridge was the America's Cup candidate, Resolute, trim and ready for action. Commodore Morton F. Plant and Mrs. Plant had several guests aboard the Kanawha, while other yachts along the course were J. P. Morgan's Corsair, August Belmont's Scout, Lloyd Phoenix's Intrepid, George Lauder's Endymion, Harold Vanderbilt's Vagrant, William Zeigler's Gem, and Mrs. Edward Harriman's Sultana and numerous others.

To add to the entertainment of the race day crowd Jack Tweed hovered over the city in his aeroplane.

The Harvard Club of New York and the Harvard Club of Boston came on special trains and were all trimmed up with college colors. The classes having their reunion in New Haven and Cambridge also came and gave a touch of gayety to the holiday. Even the Fat Men's Club of Connecticut had an outing here today, and every time any one got stuck in the crowd and could not proceed, it was certain that one of the club members was in front of him. The crowd was good-natured and happy, and the New London cops smiled with the visitors. Celebrities by the score were here from New York and all parts of New England, and they mingled with the rest and made merry on the observation trains.

The last word in stylish gowns and hats was seen here today on the women folks. Suits which looked like awnings and coats which were as loud as could be in both blue and crimson were resplendent in the crowd. The Charley Chaplin hat and cane were on sale by the vendors, and several foolish people cultivated this style. It all goes to show that everybody was happy, especially Yale. Charley Brickley was here and took his life in his hands by walking through the streets like any other human being. Every few feet Charley was held up by old Harvard men and was told what a great fellow he is. Brickley is lame tonight through congratulations. Lamer than he ever was after a football game. Anybody as famous at Harvard as Brickley ought to stay home.

Those Yale men who lost their trains back home are parading the streets tonight singing and shouting. They are very jubilant and have a right to be. It is the first time in seventeen years that Yale has swept the river in all three events. It was away back in '98 that they cleaned up on the historic course and beat Harvard by 21 lengths, thereby hanging up a record for the Thames which has never been beaten. That record was 20:10.

Yale's Early Lead.

At the start of the big race Yale took the water with a quick, snappy stroke, while Harvard started with a slow cautious pull. For the first 100 yards McLane called for a 42 stroke and the Blue shell edged in front. Yale kept to her 42 while Harvard was pulling 37 to the minute.

When the observation trains got their first peek of the race they saw that the Yale boat was half a length in front. After the first spurts both crews settled down to a 36 stroke. A cheer broke loose for Harvard from the trains.

Then suddenly the Yale shell started to go ahead. Kreger, the Harvard coxswain, soothed his men and stuck to the easy, swinging stroke with which they were so familiar. But even then it could be seen that the advantage which the Yale crew had gained was not to be shaken off. Yale rowers, working together like a machine, kept pulling away, and before the mile flag was reached Harvard dropped decidedly back.

At a mile there was open water. The Yale crowd, anxious and waiting for this opportunity, gathered confidence, and both observation trains snapped Yale cheers to each other. Yale's stroke was faster than Harvard's, but the Crimson shell was going along easily in the choppy water, but not with the kick that was perceptible in the Yale shell.

Appreciating the advantage the Yale shell had gained at the start, McLane, the Yale coxswain, lowered the stroke, so that at the mile and a half flag it was observed that the rhythm was 32, and the open water between the two knife-like shells was increasing. Harvard was rowing a calculated race. Their stroke remained at 32 to the minute, while Yale was gaining distance with a 32. Even at this point Yale, with its advantage, was fighting, while Harvard was going along with a confidence which was not carried out by subsequent results.

Where the Race was Won.

Right then Yale began to gloat. Nearing the navy yard, the two-mile mark, Yale forged to the front. As the crew pulled through the lane of yachts the Blue had increased the lead, and there was a length and a half of open water. Both crews were going along smoothly, but Harvard had made no effort to hit up the stroke and attempt to gain the lost ground.

Both crews were pulling a thirty-stroke at the two-and-a-half-mile mark, but there was more power in the Yale stroke, and the Eli's were still gaining. This apparently made no difference to Kreger, the Harvard coxswain, for he kept his crew down to a thirty-stroke, the same as Yale was rowing. Now there were three lengths of open water between the crews, and Harvard made no spurt. Harvard rooters wondered why no effort was made to increase the speed of the Crimson boat. There was an air of confidence and indifference about Harvard's policy which gave their supporters some encouragement.

At three miles Harvard was still losing distance. There were three lengths of open water between the crews. Harvard did not have the power to drive its shell along, while the Yale boat was gaining distance at every pull. There was a "punch" in the Yale stroke which meant business. Harvard's stroke seemed to be ideal in every way except it did not have sufficient power behind it. After passing the three-mile flag the crews hit smooth water. The reflection of the oarsmen was plainly seen in the glassy Thames. The expected spurt of the Harvard crew did not come. The Crimson rowed along at the same pace as Yale and lost on every pull of the oars. Before coming to the three-and-a-half-mile mark, the Crimson stroke was increased to thirty-two while Yale was rowing thirty. It was evident after the crews had rowed this distance that Harvard was unable to get any more power in the stroke. The crew was game, it rowed steadily and without a falter, but the kick was not there. Yale stuck to their task until the crews had covered three and a half miles before McLane dared to look around. He turned his head and saw the Crimson far in the ruck. Then he appealed to his men to keep the pace they were going. They did. Yale rowed with a drive and a confidence which was supreme in the heart of every man in the boat. Harvard then hopelessly and as a last resort increased her stroke.

Even now it was a Yale victory. From the yachts and trainloads of spectators came the tremendous cheer of the victors. Yale could not lose now, and every Yale man knew it. The rumbling cheers increased until the shrill shrieks of the sirens were lost in the volume of noise. With renewed effort Yale pulled ahead. Coxswain Kreger called on his oarsmen in the Crimson shell to pull up. They hit the stroke to 34, but there was no chance of gaining on the Yale boat. It was moving along like a machine driven by motor power.

The last half mile was a Harvard tragedy. Yale held on and went ahead. Coming into the stretch the Yale crew was a picture of perfection.

The feeling of victory had taken a strong hold on the boys in the Yale boat. Tired and almost all in as they were, McLane called for more power. He was answered, and a few hundred yards before the finish the coxswain looked back again, and saw Harvard far behind. Then he held up his hand. He tried to tell his crew that it was all over. Did they believe him or heed his cautious call to let down? They did not. They pulled all the harder, and when Yale shot over the finish mark Harvard was hopelessly buried in the ruck.

Yale won by about seven lengths. There were 21¼ seconds between the crews. Harvard came along rowing in unison just as if they were winning. They did not quit. Every pull to the finish was perfect, just as they had been taught. The Crimson eight trailed home without making any effort to make a grandstand finish.

They were rowing the stroke they knew. The only trouble was it was not fast enough. Harvard rowed its heart out, and was beaten by a better crew.

LOW TO LEAD YALE CREW.

Nephew of New York's Ex-Mayor Elected Captain for Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—Seth Low, 2d, namesake and nephew of the former Mayor of New York and ex-President of Columbia University, was tonight elected Captain of the Yale crew for 1916. He rowed No. 3 today and was bow oar last year. Three years ago he was in the freshmen eight. He prepared for Yale at the Groton School.

When Captain Denegre resigned in March the vote to elect his successor was a tie between Al Sturtevant and Low, and the choice was decided by the flip of a coin. Sturtevant, who retired from the Captaincy tonight, announced that he would return to college another year and will be available as an oarsman.

President Hadley Greets Crews.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 25.—The victorious Yale crews returned to New Haven tonight shortly before 11 o'clock. Headed by a band they were escorted by Yale students and Yale sympathizers to the home of President Arthur T. Hadley of the university, who in a brief speech congratulated them on their victory. Later the oarsmen went to the Hotel Taft for the annual crew dinner.

CREWS AWAIT RACE DAY.

Oarsmen at Poughkeepsie Will Do No More Hard Work for Regatta.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 25.—All the coaches of the crews of Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, and Stanford stated tonight that their hard work was finished and that tomorrow's practice will be very light. With the exception of Stanford none of the crews will go out for practice Sunday. The 'Varsity crews, however, will early in the evening row their shells to the Columbia boathouse, the rendezvous of the crews for the four-mile race.

Early this evening all the crews were on the water, the Cornell, Syracuse, and Pennsylvania crews being taken over the course to give their coxswains a line on their respective courses. Both the Syracuse and Pennsylvania 'Varsity crews rowed a hard four miles, but had their evening drill up the river, no hard work being done by Columbia, while the Stanford eight was put through a series of starts and spurts.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a little regatta in front of the Cornell quarters when two events will be pulled off. There will be a pair-oar race between the substitutes of Cornell, Stanford, and Pennsylvania, and a four-oar race between substitutes of Syracuse and Columbia. Coaches Courtney of Cornell, Rice of Columbia, and Ten Eyck of Syracuse will be the officials.

Rowing Major Sport at Fordham.

Rowing has been added to the list of major sports at Fordham University and there is some talk of entering a freshman crew for the Poughkeepsie regatta next year. The students and alumni are in favor of placing rowing on a firm basis and when the college opens in the Fall, the season's practice will start. It is expected that there will be a big squad of students from which to draw rowing material and the plan is to have class races every Saturday afternoon during the Fall when the weather permits. During the Winter the men will work on the rowing machines so that they may be well conditioned for the Spring training and have a substantial grounding in the principles of rowing. Fordham Prep will also have a crew and entries will be made for the Harlem regatta in both the junior eight-oar event and the high school race for eights. Two new shells have been promised for next year.

Carman to Go After Cycling Record.

Clarence Carman will go after his lost ten-mile record tonight at the Sheepshead Bay Velodrome where he races Georges Seres the French champion and Jimmy Moran in a paced race for the best two out of three heats at ten miles each. Seres lowered Carman's record Thursday night when he covered the distance in 13:17 1-5, beating Wiley and Linart by taking two heats and making him eligible to race Carman and Moran tonight. Alf Goullet, Reggie McNamara, Jackie Clark and Oscar Egg the Swiss sprint champion will race in an alternate race of four one mile heats. Hans Ohrt will be put to a severe test in the one mile amateur handicap. Ohrt will go from scratch with the balance of the field strung out for 170 yards, the biggest handicap the Frisco star has been asked to overcome.

GOLF BALL LANDS IN FARMER'S POCKET

One of Two Odd Incidents in the Fox Hills Golf Tournament.

Several extra hole matches marked the first and second elimination rounds of the Fox Hills Golf Club's tournament yesterday, and as a result Percy G. Platt of the New York Golf Club will play S. C. Clarke of Sleepy Hollow in the first semi-final match today, while in the other contest J. Harold Slater will clash with August F. Kammer, both of the home club.

Two odd incidents occurred in the course of the day. A. P. Roth of Manhattan, an old-time athlete, hit a farmer driving a horse while playing the sixth hole. The ball was not found, and Roth, realizing that it might be in the wagon, ran after the rig. The astonished driver found the ball in his coat pocket.

On the ninth green J. E. Beck of Thornburg and Henry Hering of Scarsdale encountered an old man and a dog. Their approaches were on the green, and the dog had carried the balls to his master who, evidently thinking himself doing an act of kindness, was about to throw the balls back to the players. The tangle was finally straightened out.

In the early round two favorites fell by the wayside—Maxwell R. Marston, the New Jersey champion, and Franklin W. Dyer, the medal winner. Marston was defeated by Beach, while Dyer fell a victim to Platt. In each case the match went to the home hole.

Later in the day Beach succumbed to Platt on the twentieth green. Clark beat Austin P. Palmer on the nineteenth and Slater had to go two extra holes to take the measure of B. T. Allen, former Staten Island champion. Kammer, however, had no trouble with L. G. Spindler of Fox Hills, the margin being 4 and 3.

Beach was usually the under man against Marston, but squared the match on the seventeenth and won the eighteenth with a fine three, obtained through bringing off a ten-foot putt. Platt went out in 35 against Beach, standing four up there, and when the match was dormie three for the Van Cortlandt man, it looked all over for the home club favorite. However, he won three successive holes and squared the match on the last green. Sixes were recorded on the nineteenth, and Beach, through an approach putt far too strong, had to take five and lost the hole and the match. The summary:

First Sixteen, First Round.—Percy G. Platt, New York Golf, beat Franklin W. Dyer, Montclair, 1 up; Chisholm Beach, Fox Hills, beat Maxwell R. Marston, Baltusrol, 1 up; S. C. Clarke, Sleepy Hollow, beat J. D. Newman, Fox Hills, 7 and 6; Austin P. Palmer, Fox Hills, beat Alfred Morrell, Hackensack, 1 up (19 holes;) August F. Kammer, Fox Hills, beat G. B. Fraser Wool Club Golf Champion.

C. J. S. Fraser won the championship of the Wool Club over the links of the Hackensack Golf Club, with a score of 173 for 36 holes. There were about sixty players competing.

New York Cricketers in Draw.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—During the course of the day's play between the New York Cricket Club and the Frankford team on the cricket grounds at Haverford today, the batsmen held such a mastery over the bowlers that 500 runs were registered before time was called. A drawn game was the result in favor of the New York cricketers, 1,280 to 219.

SHAWNEE GOLF NEAR END.

Mrs. Barlow Will Play Mrs. Stetson in Finals Today.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE, Penn., June 25.—Playing up to her best form Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Merion, former champion of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, worked her way to the final stage of the invitation golf tournament on the links of the Shawnee Country Club today.

Mrs. Barlow defeated Mrs. A. K. Billstein of Bala, by a 6 and 5 margin. The other winner was Mrs. Henry Stetson of Huntingdon Valley, who eliminated a clubmate, Miss Eleanor Chandler.

Mrs. Barlow went out in 43, against Mrs. Billstein, who putted badly. Except for an indifferent start the winner played like a champion, and by finishing the bye holes made the round in 90, the best of the week.

The driving contest was conducted along different lines than usual, each contestant being allowed six drives, the scoring being on the point system, according to length and direction. There was a tie at 14 points between Mrs. H. C. Smith of North Hills and Miss Elsa Pickhardt of Englewood, but on the playoff Mrs. Smith won. Mrs. T. A. Morrow of Great Neck won the handicap with a card of 132—24—108. The summary:

First Eight.—Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, Merion, beat Mrs. A. K. Billstein, Bala, 6 and 5; Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, Huntingdon Valley, beat Miss Eleanor Chandler, Huntingdon Valley, 2 and 1.

Second Eight.—Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. W. S. Hilles, Wilmington, beat Miss Madeline Randall, Fox Hills, 3 and 2; Mrs. Florian Krug, Shawnee, beat Mrs. W. I. Seaman, Richmond County, 3 and 6.

Third Eight.—Semi-Final Round.—Miss Elsa Pickhardt, Englewood, beat Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., Plainfield, 4 and 2; Miss Irma Waterhouse, Hackensack, beat Mrs. Denna Ogden, Ogdensburg, 7 and 6.

HUDSON RIVER GOLF FINALS.

Stuart D. Connolly to Play Charles H. Brown at Rockland Today.

As the result of the semi-final round in the Hudson River Golf Association's championship tournament yesterday on the links of the Rockland Country Club, Stuart D. Connolly of the home organization, will play Charles H. Brown of Saegkill, former holder of the title, in the thirty-six-hole decisive test today.

By way of novelty, the conditions were arranged so that even the semi-final matches which were played yesterday would be over the thirty-six-hole route. Connolly took a lead early in the day against C. V. Benton of Saegkill, and retired for luncheon three holes to the good. He ultimately won, 5 to 4.

Brown was never in trouble with R. L. Smith of Dutchess, the margin for the double round being 7 to 6. Coincident with the semi-final matches there was a consolation handicap at eighteen holes medal play, which was won by J. S. Loomis of Rockland with a card of 88, 18—70. The summary:

Championship Division.—Semi-Final Round—S. D. Connolly, Rockland, beat C. V. Benton, Saegkill, 5 and 4; C. H. Brown, Saegkill, beat R. L. Smith, Dutchess, 7 and 6.

Second Sixteen.—Semi-Final Round—S. O. Miller, Rockland, beat F. V. D. Longacre, Saegkill, 2 and 1; H. S. Doty, Saegkill, beat F. J. Frost, Rockland, 4 and 3.

Third Sixteen.—Semi-Final Round—R. S. Jarviss, Saegkill, beat E. A. Mosey, Rockland, 3 and 1; G. A. Loeser, Rockland, beat H. H. Oltman, Rockland, by default.

SHORT BOUTS IN RING.

Four Ten-Rounders All End Quickly at Longacre A. A.

The boxing enthusiasts who traveled to the Longacre A. A., on the Bowery, last night in anticipation of witnessing forty rounds of boxing—four ten-round contests were advertised as the attraction—were sadly disappointed. None of the bouts went more than four rounds, two of them ending when one of the contestants quit, and the remaining two coming to an abrupt end when the referee disqualified one of the principals, so that in all but twelve rounds of boxing was witnessed.

In the first event Archie Dunn and Joe Morris were the contestants, but after taking a little punishment in the first three rounds Morris decided in the fourth session that he had done enough toward entertaining the spectators and quit. The second bout also ended in the fourth round when Eddie Summers decided that Frankie Brown's blows contained too much "steam" for one individual to combat, and he left the ring.

The remaining two bouts of the all-star card ended in disqualifications, Young Lippy being disqualified in the third round of his bout with Johnny Walsh, for butting his opponent with his head; while Jack Smith received the same verdict in the last bout against Jack Turner. Smith was overzealous to land a knockout blow, for shortly after the first bell he sent Turner to the floor. The latter regained his feet and mixed willingly for the remainder of the round, but after the bell had sounded Smith sent over a right to Turner's jaw, which sent the latter down again. Smith was then disqualified.

Good Boxing at Vanderbilt A. C.

Little men were the principals in the two feature ten-round bouts last night at the Vanderbilt Athletic Club in Brooklyn, and the spectators were treated to twenty rounds of fast and interesting boxing. In the main event Young Zulu Kid and Johnny Solsberg, bantamweights, boxed on even terms for ten rounds and in the semi-final contest Joe Daly was entitled to the honors over Danny Gilbride. The latter two are featherweights and they were active during the entire ten rounds. Daly was entitled to the honors in eight rounds, while the remaining two went to Gilbride. The only semblance of a knockdown came in the ninth round, when Daly slipped to the floor, after receiving a right to the jaw. The fall was more of a slip than anything else, and Daly regained his feet immediately and resumed the aggressive.

Local Boxing Bouts Tonight.

August Ratner, welterweight amateur champion, will join the professional ranks tonight at the Fairmont Athletic Club, where he is scheduled to box Tommy Ward ten rounds. Ratner recently returned from the Panama-Pacific Exposition, where he won the gold medal in his class. The feature event will be a ten-round contest between Al McCoy of Brooklyn and Tex Kelly of the Bronx. The curtain raiser of ten rounds will bring together Willie Adams and Al Thomas.

Eddie Campi, the clever California featherweight and Kid Sullivan have been matched for the wind-up tonight at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn. Jimmy Anderson of Brooklyn and Frankie Madden of the Bowery will appear in the semi-final session.

The Sharkey Athletic Club will stage two ten-round bouts tonight. Mel Coogan of Brooklyn and Jimmy Fisane of Providence will perform in one and Billy Fitzsimmons of Yonkers and Kohoma Kid of the west side in the other.

Ted Lewis Defeats Mike Mazie.

Ted (Kid) Lewis, the clever English boxer, easily defeated Mike Mazie of Staten Island in their ten-round bout at Brown's Far Rockaway Club last night. The Englishman was the aggressor all the way, and was willing to mix things up, but Mazie was hanging on and clinching most of the time. Both boys weighed in at 135 pounds.

RESTA PICKED TO WIN CHICAGO MOTOR RACE

Predicted That Winning Car Will Do Better Than 93 Miles an Hour.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 25.—Past performances have made Dario Resta, Italian pilot of the Peugeot No. 1, favorite to win Chicago's 500-mile motor car Derby at Speedway Park tomorrow. This master of the wheel, a little stranger to American competition prior to the start of this year, rules first choice in the betting because of three miracles he has wrought in this same French flier, having won the Vanderbilt Cup and the Grand Prix at the San Francisco Exposition in February and March, and followed those performances by finishing a close second to Ralph De Palma, winning driver in the Memorial Day Derby at Indianapolis.

In addition to annexing two of the three most important events on the speed calendar, Resta has won the favor of the populace by virtue of his sensational achievement with the Peugeot in the elimination trials, when he thundered about the two-mile oval at a pace averaging 110.10 miles per hour. De Palma, driving his Fiat at Indianapolis, May 31, completed the 500 miles at the rate of 89.84 miles an hour. That the winner tomorrow will do 93 or better is the consensus of opinion.

Howard Wilcox, an American in Stutz No. 2 has averaged 104.75 miles per hour, or six miles an hour faster than he did at Indianapolis. He is holder of the world's mile straightaway mark for stock cars, and finished second to Resta in the Vanderbilt and the Grand Prix races at San Francisco. Gil. Anderson, a former champion, who will pilot Stutz No. 3 is a veteran, and in 1913 won the Elgin National trophy. Earl Cooper will pilot Stutz No. 4. This driver annexed the 1913 road-racing championship by winning seven straight firsts.

Maxwell No. 5 will be manned by Billy Carlson, an American, who leaped into prominence by winning the San Diego road race in 1914. Eddie Rickenbacher has the wheel of Maxwell No. 7. This driver won the Sioux City Speedway event in 1914 and established a record by taking 34 firsts, 17 seconds and 14 thirds in seventy-three starts in 1913.

Bob Burman, in Peugeot No. 9, holds the world's straightaway mile record, made at Daytona Beach, Fla., in 0:25 2-5, an average speed of 141.73 miles per hour, in the famous Blitzen-Benz.

Sunbeam No. 10 has for a driver Ed Van Raalte, gentleman sportsman of London, who became an expert pilot as amateur on the famous Brooklands Speedway. In the recent Indianapolis contest he drove as Norman Graham. J. Porporato, a crack Italian pilot, winner of the 1908 Targio Bologna, will handle Sunbeam No. 11.

Louis Chevrolet, a Frenchman who came to the United States in 1908 as mechanician for Victor Homery, will drive the Delage No. 12. He has recently returned to the game after a four years' lay-off. His Delage driven by Rene Thoms in 1914 won the Indianapolis classic.

Charles Keene, an American, who took eighth place at Indianapolis in 1914, won the Indianapolis classic.

Charles Keene, an American, took eighth place at Indianapolis in 1914. Today he will pilot F. R. P., No. 14. Edward O'Donnell in Duesenberg, No. 15, has won many laurels on the Pacific Coast. Harry Grant, winner of two Vanderbilt Cups, will be the man at the wheel in Sunbeam, No. 17. The Duesenberg, No. 19, will be driven by Tom Alley, holder of the world's 100-mile record on a dirt track. Otto Henning, who made his reputation at Elgin, will be "up" in the Mercer, No. 20. Willie Haupt in Duesenberg, No. 21, is a noted wheelman, a German-American of Philadelphia. George Babcock, a New Englander with a varied career, will handle Peugeot, No. 22. The Sebring, No. 23, will be piloted by Joe Cooper of Youngstown, Ohio. Billy Chandler, formerly Mulford's mechanician, has the wheel of the Ogren, No. 24, the only Chicago-built car in the race. An English globetrotter, Hughie Hughes, will handle the F. R. P., No. 25. Tom Orr, who used to loop the loop in Barnum & Bailey's circus, will pilot Maxwell, No. 27. Earl Devore, a Californian, has the F. R. P., No. 29. Ralph Mulford, winner of the 1910 road racing title and the 1911 Vanderbilt Cup, will drive his Mulford Special, No. 30. No. 31 in the list, a Sunbeam, will be driven by Carl Limberg of the famous Chalmers team. He originally was a bicycle rider.

The Speedway Park Association donated $54,000 for prizes, of which $20,000 goes to the winner, $10,000 for second place, $5,000 for third, and so on down to the tenth man to finish, who will receive $1,400. There are in addition a number of special prizes.

Those who failed to make the course at a clip of 85 miles an hour or better were disqualified in the elimination trials, held earlier in the week, and the track today was only occupied by the drivers who will actually compete in tomorrow's race. Many wonderful sprints were made, and these performances were watched by thousands of persons.

Hundreds of workmen all day have been filling the tanks with gasoline and stocking the pits with tools, extra parts, and tires in anticipation of breakdowns.

Following is the official list of starters, their order of getting away, and the average time per hour each made in the elimination trials:

No. 1, Dario Resta, (Peugeot car,) 110.10 miles; 2, Howard Wilcox, (Stutz,) 104.75; 3, Gil Anderson, (Stutz,) 104.60; 4, Earl Cooper, (Stutz,) 104.60; 5, William Carlson, (Maxwell,) 103.20; 6, Ed Rickenbacher, (Maxwell,) 103; 7, Bob Burman, (Peugeot,) 101; 8, Ed Van Raalte, (Sunbeam,) 100.80; 9, G. Porporato, (Sunbeam,) 98.65; 10, Louis Chevrolet, (Delage,) 98.90; 11, Charles Keene, (F. R. P.,) 96.90; 12, Ed O'Donnell, (Duesenberg,) 96.40; 14, Harry Grant (Sunbeam,) 96.80; 15, Tom Alley, (Duesenberg,) 95; 16, Otto Henning, (Mercer,) 94.80; 17, Willie Haupt, (Duesenberg,) 93.90; 18, George Babcock, (Peugeot,) 93.50; 19, Joe Cooper, (Sebring,) 92.30; 20, Billy Chandler, (Ogren,) 92; 21, Hughie Hughes, (F. R. P.,) 91.15; 22, Tom Orr, (Maxwell,) 89.60; 23, Earl Devore, (F. R. P.,) 89.55; Ralph Mulford, (Mulford Special,) 86.05.

Volk and Mack Win Bouts.

Sailor Volk and Red Mack were the winners in the two ten-round bouts which featured the bill last night at the New Polo Athletic Association in Harlem. Volk easily outpointed Frankie Adams, while Mack earned the honors over Freddie Lippy in an interesting ten-round bout, which served as a semi-final. "Smiling Willie" and Young Rose were scheduled to appear in the semi-final number, but because of a rupture the club physician refused to consent to the former's participating.

TO CONTROL AUTO RACING.

Speedway Association of America Files Papers of Incorporation.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 25.—The first step in what will become the controlling influence in the automobile racing game was taken today when Carl G. Fisher, James A. Allison, F. H. Wheeler, C. W. Sedwick of Indianapolis, James C. Nichols of New Rochelle, N. Y., and D. F. Wheeler and C. E. Dutton of Minneapolis filed papers of incorporation at the office of the Secretary of State for the Speedway Association of America.

Through the new association, which is organized not for pecuniary profit and without any investment, it is expected that the racing game will be placed at the same high standard maintained in the promotion of baseball.

The association will operate speedways through its membership, the plan being to interest some person in each city wishing a franchise in the association. Franchises may be held in a foreign country. The promoter becomes a member of the association, which is to be maintained through levying assessments.

Cities are to be divided into two classes, to be known as Class A and Class B.

A Board of Managers will operate the association, and these will be chosen by the membership, the members of Class A being entitled to four votes and the members of Class B to have three votes. The designation of cities in each class will rest with the decision of the Governing Board.

Crack Drivers for Auto Meet.

The auto racing meet to be held at the Brighton Beach race track on the afternoon and evening of July 5 has taken on a brighter aspect with the arrival of entry blanks from some of the most noted drivers in the country. "Wild Bill" Endicott of the Maxwell team was the first to record his entry with his teammate Nate Lonsbury following suit, this team being the largest winners of cash prizes for a whole season. These two entries were closely followed by Louis Disbrow, dirt track champion and winner of more world's records over a mile track than any other living driver. Disbrow holds twelve world's records and is conceded to be the best mile track driver in the country. Another entry received was that of Eddie Hearne.

De Witt Clinton Field Games.

Only a comparatively few of De Witt Clinton High School students attended their annual field day at Celtic Park yesterday, but those who were present had a good afternoon of sport. The track contests were lacking in entries, but brimful of close competition. Shamels, a junior, was the star, winning both the 100 and 200 yard races in fast time. In the furlong dash he made better time than Handleman, who won the senior event. Connolly was the victor in the 100 yards senior dash in 11 1-5 seconds, while Smith had an easy time beating a slow field in the half mile walk. Segrette triumphed in the half mile run in 2:33, and Connolly came back in the quarter mile for seniors and won in 1:01 4-5. Molinos was first home in the mile. The faculty race went to Mr. Cairnes, a gymnasium instructor. Prior to the games, a chess match was played on the field by boys dressed to resemble the various pieces used in the game.

GIANTS DEFEAT BRAVES EASILY—YANKEES LOSE

BRAVES SHUT OUT BY POL PERRITT

Heavy Hitting by Giants Wins Opening Game of Series at Polo Grounds by 5 to 0.

There is only one solution. Suggestion must play a large part in the career of "Pol" Perritt as a pitcher. Whether he consulted the doctor yesterday morning or some other one who acted in the capacity of soothsayer, "Pol" must have been told that the stars were right and that he would beat those Braves from Boston town. At any rate "Pol" didn't slump, as too frequently has been the custom. In fact, he went right in and beat the boys with the Indian sign. That is all that any one could require of even the best pitcher, so Perritt can take to himself a big measure of satisfaction for the shut-out which the Giants scored over the Braves at the Polo Grounds by a score of 5 to 0.

It's a long time since the Braves dropped in at the Giants' home for a little visit, and after the way they were treated yesterday they are about ready to believe that it would have been a happier ending if the train had run off the track or some other mild obstacle had interposed to keep them away. "Pol," you see, wasn't the only one of the Giants who had a crouch for the Stallings crew. They didn't make themselves popular on the last occasion, because of that Kauff incident, so every one of the Giants had revenge planned. And the way they started to mete it out would have disheartened a stone wall.

Young Tom Hughes was invited by Stallings to go on the mound, and Young Tom was fearfully inexperienced before those McGraw veterans. His best was about the worst that could have perched on the championship flag. Moreover, the Giants were in a hitting mood, and when a team starts running amuck that way it is harder to stop than a full-blooded Malay. The first inning was restful compared to the second, for there were only three singles, that brought in one run. McGraw's veterans, however, were only tuning up. In the second they started a regular anvil chorus. After Grant had struck out, Meyers doubled to left field, almost into the automobile on the sign board, and then Perritt became confident and gave the lie to all those who were saying "Here's another strike-out." His stance was perfect and the swing powerful as with all his might he heaved against a high slow one and boosted it out to just about the same spot Meyers had sailed his hit. More proof that "Pol" is influenced by suggestion! The smash was as unexpected as a clap of thunder, but Meyers managed to cross the plate, though for a moment he was too astonished to move. A three-bagger that fairly screeched its joy as it went hustling out to centre field was the contribution by Burns, and Perritt trotted home with a satisfied smile and a bundle of confidence nesting against his back bone.

But for Young Tom Hughes there was another story. His prodigality had made Stallings's jumping foot become too active for comfort, so he had to send word to Hughes that his services were no longer required for the day. The Giants had three runs, but they did not look insurmountable, for the Braves didn't know that Perritt was fated to win. Stallings cast his eye over his pitchers and said he would bet his boots on Crutcher. Next time he will be more careful. Crutcher didn't exactly need crutches to get the mound, but he did to hobble back. His record at the start of the third inning was great. Fletcher was the first up, and he got a hit in the ribs that was just as good as if it had been to the lot. Then came Robertson, and Crutcher was not at all careful as to the selection from his curve assortment. Twice he made happy choices and Robertson's bat breezed along without a sniff at the ball. A straight one then pushed its way down and Robbie's bat bit into it solidly. It sailed away frightened and never paused until it found a hiding place in the northeastern corner of the right field grand stand. "Hurry up, show a little life please," called Lord Byron as the runners loafed on the trail. Merkle and Grant made singles, and then Stallings decided that Crutcher was as effective as a wooden Indian.

Bill James looked big enough to stop the Giants, and he did it just about as certainly as a board fence. The hitting bee was over, and the Giants thereafter went along without a run and almost without a hit. Just twice did they sting slants for safeties.

The Braves got only four hits from Perritt, and two of these were by Red Smith. And, furthermore, Red was the one who killed off two budding Boston runs. In the eighth inning Fitzpatrick shot one at Eddie Grant, who was holding down third, while Hans Lobert was nursing his broken rib on the coaching line at first base. It was so hot it burned Eddie, and went on to left field. Gilbert fouled out and Connolly walked. Smith tried to dodge a high inshoot and the ball struck his bat. It went to Doyle and the Giant sat down to catch it. Smith didn't know he was going to act that way, so he didn't run and the out was easy. Had he gone on to first two runs would have scored on Schmidt's fast grounder that almost got away from Merkle. The score:

Pierce Puzzle to Cardinals.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Pierce permitted only one St. Louis runner to reach third base today, while Chicago pounded Doak and Griner for five earned runs, winning its sixth straight game, 5 to 0. Phelan, with a home run and a single, and Williams with two timely singles and a double, led the batters. Fast fielding, especially by Miller and Beck, kept down the local hits. Beck was expelled in the fourth inning for arguing on a third strike called by Umpire Quigley. The score:

BALL CLUB SUED FOR RENT.

Newark Internationals Owe $1,750 to Reliable Improvement Co.

The Reliable Improvement Company of Newark has brought suit against the owners of the Newark Club of the International League for rent for Wiedenmayer's Park, where the Newark team has its grounds. The suit was brought in the Circuit Court in Newark yesterday for $1,750, the indebtedness up to June 1, with interest. The Newark Baseball and Amusement Company is named as defendant. According to the papers filed, the rent has not been paid since September, 1914.

Tipple Pitches No-Hit Game.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 25.—Dan Tipple, the sensational young pitcher of the Indianapolis club this afternoon shut out the Cleveland team without a hit. Seven men reached first base, however, three on errors and four on passes. In the third inning Catcher Billings smashed a hard grounder through third Baseman Bronkie. This was the nearest the visitors came to a hit. The official scorer gave Bronkie an error. Tipple has pitched ten games this season and won all. Big league scouts witnessed his performance today.

DONOVAN STOPS RED SOX TOO LATE

Boston Clinches Game with Caldwell in Box, Then "Wild Bill" Starts Pitching.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., June 25.—Ray Caldwell was, it seems, rushed back too soon, and he lasted only three innings in today's game against the Red Sox, but that was long enough to let the Boston boys put over seven runs by hitting and working him for passes.

When he opened the fourth inning by passing the first two men up, Manager Bill Donovan went in the box, letting Caldwell retire to the baths. The Red Sox scored two runs during the five innings that Donovan pitched, but one of these was registered by Ruth, whom Caldwell had put on with a pass.

This same Ruth, in the second inning, landed on one of Caldwell's offerings and sent the ball into the right field bleachers, something that has not been done more than three or four times at Fenway Park.

Ruth, with his big lead, took things easy, and did not have to extend himself in the box. Peckinpaugh had a perfect batting average for the day, getting three singles and a double, and Nunamaker delivered three singles in his four chances.

Hartzell made a spectacular one-hand catch, after a long run, juggling the ball while he was taking three or four strides, after having batted it down with his gloved hand.

Caldwell's finish was in sight in the second inning. Lewis and Hoblitzel singled, and Caldwell filled the bases by hitting Janvrin. Gardner hit a grounder to Boone, who threw Lewis out at the plate. Thomas hit to Maisel, forcing Janvrin, but Hoblitzel scored. Ruth then came through with his home run, chasing Gardner and Thomas over the rubber.

In the next inning the Red Sox added three more runs on one hit. Wagner's grounder was foozled by Boone, and the bases were filled when Caldwell passed Speaker and Lewis. Mullen fielded Hoblitzel's grounder and threw Wagner out at the plate. Janvrin singled, scoring Speaker and Lewis, and putting "Hobby" on third, from where he scored while Hartzell was making his great catch in deep left field.

The Yankees scored a brace of runs in the third inning on a single, a base on balls, and another single by Peckinpaugh. Another was developed in the sixth on a base on balls to Peck, an out at first base and a single by Mullen. In the eighth Peckinpaugh led off with a single, moved along to second when Bauman was passed, and scored on Cree's double to right.

With two out in the ninth, High tripled over Speaker's head, and scored on Peckinpaugh's double. There will be a double-header tomorrow. The score:

Pirates Claim Michigan Pitcher.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The National Commission will decide between the claims of the Pittsburgh Nationals and the St. Louis Americans to the services of George Sisler, the University of Michigan pitcher, President Johnson, of the American League said today. Sisler has just finished his career at Michigan and planned to join his former coach, Branch Rickey, manager of the Browns, but the Pittsburgh club intervened with an alleged previous claim.

Western League to Continue.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 25.—At a meeting of Western League officials here today, called to discuss finances, the club owners agreed to complete the season's schedule and that there would be no reductions of salaries. It was revealed that every club was a heavy loser on the season so far.

President O'Neill expressed his belief that with reasonably fair weather the league would have no further financial troubles. The question of finances in the Western League was brought to the front recently after an unusual number of games had been postponed as a result of bad weather.

Two Semi-Pros for Giants.

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—Announcement was made here tonight that John Miljus, a pitcher, and Charles Sweeney, an outfielder, playing with the Collegians, a semi-professional local team, had been signed to play with the New York Giants. The men will report after Labor Day.

Winning Trainers and Jockeys.

During the fourteen days meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey Club at the Jamaica track, which closed yesterday, Samuel C. Hildreth and T. J. Healy each saddled the winners of seven races. Ed Cunningham came next with five winners and J. F. Clifford, C. T. Patterson, R. C. Benson, J. Whalen, N. Byer and James Fitzsimmons each gave the finishing touches to the condition of four winners. W. K. Karrick, W. R Midgely, Max Hirsch and R. F. Carman sent three winners each to the post and two winners are to the credit of J. S. Healy, A. J. Goldsborough, A. Simons, E. W. Heffner, J. Riddick and the one time jockey George Odom.

Buxton leads the list of winning jockeys with eleven victories, though he was disqualified in one of them. McCahey rode 10 winners; Fairbrother, 8; Louder, 7; Dugan and Byrne, 6 each; Burlingame, 5; McTaggart, 4; Hopkins, Borel, Heustis and Lilly, 3 each, and Davies, Warrington, Allen and Troxler, 2 each; Loftus, Notter, Morys, Corey, Cavanagh, McKeever, Steward and Waldron were each successful in one race.

Race Horse Changes Owners.

T. J. O'Brien yesterday bought the racer Cy Merrick from Dan Douglas for a price not made public. The horse transferred is a four-year-old gelding by Peep o' Day out of Persaline, and has not entered the list of winners this year at the local tracks, though he has run good races elsewhere.

DODGERS GET EARLY START.

Phillies Unable to Overcome Three-Run Lead in First Inning.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 25.—The lead of three runs, obtained in the first inning of Erskine Mayer, was just enough to give Brooklyn a victory over the Phillies in the opening game of their series today. Later Stengel looped one over the right-field fence for a home run and boosted the final score to 4 to 2.

The Dodgers, who have been the hardest club in the league for the Phillies to beat this season, had lost eleven out of twelve games up to today and are trailing along among the second division teams, but they used their bats effectively against the Phillies today, while Moran's men scattered their bingles too much to be of much service in tallying runs. Two-baggers by Cravath and Mayer helped the Phillies to escape a shutout.

A crowd of about 4,000 fans welcomed the Phillies back from their long trip on the road, but also displayed its displeasure when Manager Moran was chased to the clubhouse by Umpire Rigler for disputing a called strike on Mayer.

After all the damage had been done in the first inning, Mayer pitched a fine game, allowing only five hits in eight innings, and only one of these produced a run, Stengel's drive into Broad Street in the eighth inning. Bancroft had a bad day at short, making all three of the errors charged to the Phillies, while Brooklyn gave Pfeffer perfect support.

With one out in the first, O'Mara doubled and scored on Daubert's two-bagger. Wheat shot a single to right which tallied Daubert. Cutshaw was safe on Bancroft's fumble, and after Stengel had flied out, Getz singled, scoring Wheat. McCarty flied to Becker. Mayer settled down after this; and although Brooklyn had several chances to score, they were unable to get in a hit that counted until Stengel hit his home run and Bancroft saved a run in the sixth by "robbing" Myers of a hit with a man on second.

Becker and Killifer hit singles in the second, but they were sandwiched with strike-outs on Luderus, Whitted, and Mayer. Cravath in the fourth hit the top of the wall in deep centre and got two bases. Luderus and Becker popped flies and Whitted walked. Killifer singled, scoring Cravath, and the runners advanced on the throw home. After losing a base on balls by fouling off about five bad balls, Mayer missed a chance to tie the score by rolling to Pfeffer. Mayer hit a double against the right-field wall in the seventh. Bancroft and Byrne failed to help, but Niehoff dropped a single into right field which tallied Mayer. Niehoff was thrown out stealing. Becker drew a pass in the eighth, and Stock, batting for Mayer, walked in the ninth, but no hits were produced. Cutshaw ended the game by making a one-hand stop of Byrne's grounder, which looked good enough for a hit. The score:

FEDERAL LEAGUE.

Brooklyns Break Losing Streak by Lambasting Chicago, 12 to 4.

Chagrined because Manager Lee Magee and Benny Kauff had run afoul of the umpires and had been banished to the clubhouse, the Brookfeds trained their howitzers on the Chicagos and buried them under a 12 to 4 defeat at Washington Park yesterday. In lambasting the ball all over the lot the Brookfeds put a sudden stop to a growing string of defeats and won their first game in seven. Benny Kauff, of hurdler fame, remained in the game just one inning. With two out he singled in the opening session and tried to go to second base, but was caught. Umpire Fyfe, the duly authorized arbitrator of disputes on the bases, informed Kauff that he was out and after Benny had argued for several minutes, the ump further informed him that he should remain at the clubhouse during the rest of the game.

Lee Magee took no part in the contest but gave his men advice from the base lines. In the fourth inning he thought he detected a balk by Twirler Prendergast, but Umpire Johnstone thought different and after both men had expressed their thoughts, Magee departed for the clubhouse with Johnstone's finger showing him the way. Johnstone won this argument. The score:

Ford's Wildness Costly.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 25.—Pittsburgh won today's game, 6 to 5, although outbatted by the local team. Buffalo's single error was a costly one, and Ford's bases on balls were too numerous. In the first inning Blair dropped the ball after catching Konetchy a foot off the base and the run was scored. Score:

SOUTHERNER BACKS TALECARRIER TO WIN

Withdraws Straight Bet, Losing $2,500, but Gets $2,800 for Place and Show.

The uncertainties of racing were never better exemplified than in the third race at the Jamaica track yesterday. Talecarrier, which was at anywhere from 25 to 1 to 50 to 1 in the betting, defeated Meeting House, a son of Voter, which ran in England in Harry Payne Whitney's colors and was recently bought by Mrs. Payne Whitney to convert into a steeplechaser. He was a 1 to 2 favorite for the race, Vincent Powers making his reappearance in the saddle as a flat racer to ride him.

Just before the horses went to the post a tall, lanky Southerner, who had unbounded confidence in Talecarrier, placed a bet of $50 against $2,500 to win, $100 against $2,000 for the horse to run second, and $100 against $800 for him to show. When the horses paraded for the race and the Southerner saw Meeting House, which is a grand looker, he became less confident. So he went to the layer with whom he had made the bet and canceled so much of the wager as applied to Talecarrier's winning. The layer complied with the request. "Cold feet" cost that bettor just $2,500, for the horse won, not necessarily because he was a better horse than Meeting House, but because Meeting House burst a blood vessel at the head of the stretch and had to be pulled up, when leading, with blood pouring from both nostrils.

Andes and True as Steel had made the running until the horses had almost ran around the far turn when Meeting House joined them and made ready to win the race. Just as he went to the front he staggered, swerved from the inside to the outside of the track, and then came to a dead standstill. Powers dismounted and led the horse back to the paddock. That incident gave Talecarrier, which had been running in fourth place, a chance to catch the tiring Andes and True as Steel, and with a rush he went under the wire two lengths in front of True as Steel, with the leg-weary Andes in third place.

Last Fall when August Belmont had a weeding-out sale of his stable, Max Hirsch bought Norse King for $300 and Pennyrock for $200. Hirsch nursed the horses along, selling Pennyrock for $1,000, after he had won a race. Norse King yesterday won his second handicap at the Jamaica meeting, beating Thornhill, another Belmont cast-off, and such a clever one as Razzano without the least bit of trouble, in a race at a mile and a sixteenth. This was the feature race of "getaway day," Norse King practically leading from start to finish and cleverly stalling off a determined challenge by Thornhill when the horses swung into the stretch. The summary:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward which have not won at this meeting; selling; purse $400; six furlongs. Time—1:13 3-5.

Golden Gate, E. F. Whitney's b. g., 108, 10 to 1 and 3 to 1 (Hoffmann)..........3^{3}
Miss Philbin, Tatiana, and Belle of the Kitchen also ran.

BROOKLYN HANDICAP TODAY

Only Seven Horses Named to Start, but Field Is Well Balanced.

With the longer stretches of the track of the Queens County Jockey Club at Aqueduct, where the fifteen days' Summer meeting opens today, there should be a marked improvement in the character of the racing and probably larger fields of horses when the transfer of training quarters to that course is completed.

The Brooklyn Handicap, the Hudson Stakes for two-year-olds, and a revival of steeplechasing at Aqueduct will be the features of the opening day's card. Although there were thirty-nine entries for the Brooklyn Handicap trainers of only seven horses have accepted the weights and announced that they will start, although all the rest are entitled to go, of course, if they wish to, as no horse is declared out as yet.

Riders of the starters for the handicap as ascertained from trainers yesterday, will be Notter on Borrow, Butwell on Roamer, Vincent Powers on Short Grass, McTaggart on Tartar, McCahey on Addie M., Buxton on Sam McMeekin, and Dugan on Rock View. Though the field is small it is of such high class as to warrant one of the best races for the $5,000 prize ever run. The very element of class has probably deterred trainers who think they have no chance in such a field from starting their horses.

Entries for the several races of the day are as follows:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; selling; six furlongs. Palanquin, 111 pounds He Will, 102; Helen Barbee, 111; Lady Teresa, 110; Etruscan, 102; Sinai, 90; Wanda Pitzer, 110.

SECOND RACE.—For four-year-olds and upward; steeplechase; selling; about two miles. Dr. Duenner, 140 pounds; Gregg, 137; Gun Cotton, 136; Old Salt, 151; Aberfeldy, 131; Astute, 138; Syosset, 146.

THIRD RACE.—For two-year-olds; The Hudson; five furlongs. Paddy Whack, 113 pounds; Libyan Sands and Damrosch, 107 each; Kilmer and Emden, 102 each.

FOURTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; The Brooklyn Handicap; one and one-eighth miles. Roamer, 125 pounds; Addie M., 106; Rock View, 120; Sam McMeekin, 105; Borrow, 128; Short Grass, 123; Tartar, 103.

FIFTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; selling; six furlongs. Surgeon, 107 pounds; Hill Stream, 110; Sleuth, 117; San Vega, 115; Mamie K., 105; Lost Fortune, 117; Sir Denrah, 120; Gilt Edge, 105.

SIXTH RACE.—For two-year-olds; selling; five furlongs. Ataka, 100 pounds; Besslian, 105; Plumose, 107; Mary Blackwood, 105; Good Counsel and Blue Rock, 103 each; High Horse and Tribold, 103 each; Lady Atkin, 103.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

General List Firmer, but Less Active—The Transfer of Capital—Higher Exchange.

Trading was far less active on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The market as a whole was firmer, but pronounced weakness developed in the shares of several railroads which are confronted with difficult financial problems. The approach of July 1, which will put some of these properties to a test, no doubt accounted in part for the recrudescence of selling in this quarter, but the movement was not lacking in indications that the less well defended parts of the list were being sought out by traders for bearish operations. The steadier character of the market as a whole was illustrated by the rise in Canadian Pacific after several successive days of decline, by the recovery in United States Steel, and by the strength of a number of other industrial issues.

One still hears much of the disappointing volume of trade in some lines, but that does not disprove what has lately been said regarding business improvement. It merely reflects the fact that improvement has so far been unevenly distributed. The existence of a broad forward movement in highly important lines of industry is beyond dispute. The metal trades show that clearly, and the rising volume of bank clearings and other indications of enlarged commercial operations bear out the statement.

The processes by which capital is attracted from one market to another by an advance in interest rates have now clearly been set in motion as a result of the high rate which Great Britain is offering on its latest war loan. American securities yielding less than the nominal rate of the new British loan are being offered here. The market for New York City bonds felt this influence yesterday in rather marked fashion, the 4¼s, which lately stood at a price which yielded little better than that rate, having sold yesterday down to 98½, or better than a 4.30 per cent. basis. A security which returns only 4¼ or 4⅜ per cent. yields ground to the security paying 4½ per cent.

We are called upon to pay for what the English market sells for the purposes of transferring capital from less to more remunerative employment, and the making of those payments carries up the rate of exchange between this market and London. The rate has, of course, been so greatly depressed that a radical change in the relations of the two markets would be necessary to restore exchange to anything like a normal level, but the stiffening of sterling exchange to the extent of 1¼ cents is not without significance. The contrary action of French exchange in the face of the establishment of a very substantial credit here might be taken as suggesting that loans here are less potent as a corrective of exchange than a rise in interest rates abroad, and there is room for such an inference from the recent course of events in the exchange market, but the recent weakness of exchange on Paris is not without reference to the weakening of the French monetary position itself.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

Old War Loan in Active Demand for Purpose of Exchange.

LONDON, June 25.—Money conditions continue firm and bankers are discussing the question of raising deposit rates. The hardening of New York exchange is appreciated, but no weakening of discount rates is anticipated in view of yesterday's poor bank return.

Trading varied but little on the Stock Exchange. The old war loan was in active demand for the purpose of exchanging for the new issue, but the other stocks were weak and neglected.

The American section was inactive, with the exception of a number of markings in Canadian Pacific and United States Steel. The closing was easy.

Prices Heavy on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, June 25.—Prices were heavy on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 70 francs 75 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 26 francs 36 centimes.

DRY GOODS SALES BETTER.

Shipments Show an Increase Over Corresponding Week a Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale shipments of dry goods show an increase over those of the corresponding week a year ago as a result of the few days of weather more favorable to retail selling. A good volume of business for both immediate and future deliveries has been booked during the week by our traveling organization.

"Collections were good.

"The market on staple domestic cotton goods is firm, and we believe prices are as low as present conditions warrant."

FINANCIAL NOTES

Sulzberger & Sons Company announced yesterday that arrangements had been made with a syndicate of bankers to purchase an issue of securities, the proceeds of which will be used to retire $8,100,000 debentures maturing June 1.

The City Treasurer of Fall River, Mass., has sold $100,000 notes, due Nov. 24, 1915, to Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, at 2.62 per cent. discount.

Baruch Brothers have issued a circular describing methods of buying odd lots of securities on the installment plan.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Our Securities Coming Back.

Bankers with international connections look for heavy receipts of American securities by the next two or three mail steamers to arrive from Europe. In one international house it was estimated yesterday that the St. Louis, sailing from Liverpool today, would have on board fully $5,000,000 of bonds and stocks for delivery in New York on sales made by cable this week. If this should prove to be a fairly accurate estimate, there will be need of revision of opinion in some quarters of the Street about the extent of foreign sales of late. While some traders have been inclined to think the irregularity of prices for stocks since the British war loan was announced has been caused by liquidation of foreign holdings here, others have pooh-poohed the idea. The latter appeared to base their argument on the fact that certain industrial issues, which are not held abroad in large amounts, have displayed the most persistent weakness. Among the railroad shares, Canadian Pacific has been conspicuous by its declining tendency. Round amounts of this stock are looked for by bankers in the St. Louis's mail.

Sterling Up, Francs Down.

Haste to sell American securities by foreign owners is supposed to result from the desire of sellers to reinvest their money in the British 4½ per cent. loan. The transfer of funds back from this side to London will be a part of the operation. Evidently this procedure is being followed out on a substantial scale already, if movements in the foreign exchange market can be correctly interpreted. The demand for sterling bills, to be used in making remittances to London, was great enough yesterday to carry sterling checks forward nearly a full cent to the pound from the lowest level of Thursday. Cable rates also turned up sharply. Paris exchange, on the other hand, weakened to a new low level, with sight drafts quoted at 5.51 and cables at 5.50¼.

Interborough Consolidated.

When the stockholders of the old Interborough-Metropolitan Company voted on June 1 to form the Interborough-Consolidated Corporation there were three dissenters to the plan. They represented holdings of fewer than 6,000 shares, out of a total of 1,392,000 shares, of the old company. The question has been asked, what is the status of the stock held by these dissenters? In the first place, as was explained yesterday by a Director of the new company, they do not become stockholders in the new company unless they present their shares for transfer. As holders of the Interborough-Metropolitan preferred stock, in the second place, they cannot collect the 1½ per cent. dividend which is payable next month on the new stock. If the dissenters persist in holding the old preferred stock their dividends will be set aside for them, and they will accumulate pending further action. The bankers will not pay interest on accumulated dividends, but will stand ready indefinitely to pay the dividend when the coupons of the Interborough-Consolidated Corporation are presented. It was said yesterday that there had been no indication that the dissatisfied stockholders would seek to enjoin the Interborough-Consolidated from paying its first dividend.

Clash in Rock Island.

The long impending clash between the representatives of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific first and refunding 4s and the debenture 5s came to a head yesterday in the Federal Court in Chicago. The court has under consideration the payment of the heavy July 1 interest on several issues of first mortgage bonds and also the payment of $500,000 interest due July 15 on the debenture 5s. To default interest on a first mortgage bond would precipitate a serious situation and would reflect badly on the first and refunding bonds, of which more than $100,000,000 are outstanding. So the representatives of the first and refunding bonds want the interest paid on the mortgage bonds. Other interests also take this position, and there seems little doubt that the court will be asked to authorize receivers' certificates to pay the coupons. The representatives of the first and refunding 4s, however, cannot see why good cash should be taken out of the treasury to pay interest on $20,000,000 debentures when such a payment will jeopardize the status of prior liens. A deadlock seems imminent. The situation will be further complicated when Samuel Untermyer, representing the Amster interests, appears in the Federal Court Monday to state his case. The Amster interests favor neither side in the controversy over the debentures, but think that every interest payment should be met for the good of the property and in order to prevent a foreclosure.

City Bond Bids.

It is seldom that a big offering of city bonds is brought out under conditions as uncertain as those attending the $71,000,000 sale to be closed next Tuesday. So many are the factors which may work out over night that the leading bond men are taking only a perfunctory interest in the sale. They will bid, if they enter the sale, about one minute before the expiration of the time limit, and some bids will not be definitely decided upon until that time. The sales which have been made on the curb indicate a ready absorption of the issue, but the price, around 103, is considerably above the average which the city will receive, unless the public enters on such a large scale as to take the bulk of the issue. Incidentally, that has never happened. Most of the big investors who want a considerable block ask a bond house to bid in their behalf, leaving it to the bond men to fix the price. Dealers called most of the transactions on the curb "seller bonds," put out to make sure of a sale at 103 of the proportion which the sellers expect to get from the city at a lower figure.

All-or-None Bids.

Dealers in bonds have been taking it for granted that the Kuhn, Loeb-W. A. Read syndicate would be reformed to make an offer on Tuesday for the entire city bond issue, but there is less keenness on the part of the bankers to get large blocks of the new 4½'s. There is little question but that the country will absorb the issue, but the successful bidders will have to take small profits, and there are other attractive fields for idle money if a banker cares to nibble at the war business.

⁂

Atchison Improves.

The May earnings statement of the Atchison was in some respects the most satisfactory that has come to hand, more so even than the Baltimore & Ohio figures, for while both companies reported gains in gross and net earnings, the Atchison also increased its operating costs. Most roads have to cut maintenance at times to offset losses in revenues, but the statisticians, as well as the operating men themselves feel more cheerful when the necessity for reductions passes. The Atchison's gross revenues last month gained $722,000, while only $285,000 of the increase was carried forward to net.

COTTON DECLINES UNDER PRESSURE

Liquidation by Tired Holders Imparts an Easier Undertone to the Market.

JULY TENDERS 10,000 BALES

Liverpool a Heavy Seller for Straddle Account Because New York Is the Highest Market.

During most of yesterday's session the cotton market showed an easy undertone, with considerable liquidation by tired holders. Yesterday was the first notice day for July contracts, and tenders were estimated at approximately 10,000 bales. About five firms were prominently mentioned as having issued notices, and the tenders ranged from 500 bales to about 4,000 bales each.

The volume of deliveries was not particularly heavy compared with May, when about 47,000 bales were delivered on contracts. At the same time there appeared to be no haste about accepting delivery. The notices circulated throughout the session and exercised a rather depressing effect.

Liverpool was a heavy seller, considering the size of the market, and sales from that source were placed at 30,000 to 40,000 bales of October and January. These operations were largely for straddle account, and an inducement probably was furnished by the fact that the difference between New York and Liverpool was on an average about 100 points, which makes New York theoretically the higher market of the two, when one takes into consideration the higher freights, the rate of exchange, insurance and other items. Naturally July was the weakest option on the list, and at one time the difference between the two options amounted to 46 points.

The weather is all that could be desired. There have been no unfavorable developments for two weeks. Scattered showers were reported over most of the belt yesterday, but there was no excessive precipitation. F. M. Cordill, a traveling crop expert, wired from South Texas that the hot weather had checked the ravages of the boll weevil, and that the outlook was very fine.

The into-sight for the week, according to the New York Cotton Exchange, is 52,279 bales, against 43,514 last year. The total for the season is 14,787,000 bales, against 14,742,000 last year.

Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged, 5 to 15 points decline. The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 15 points decline, 9.45 for middling upland. The range of contract prices was as follows (closed firm):

The Liverpool market opened barely steady. There was a good demand business in spot cotton, with middling 8 points decline, at 5.20d. Sales, 15,000 bales. Receipts, 4,000 bales, including 1,000 American. Closed steady.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

It was early evident on the Consolidated Stock Exchange that the market tone had improved compared with the day before. There was not the same pressure of selling as there was on Thursday, and prices rallied easily. United States Steel common, the leading trading stock, early got above 60 again. So far as the general list was concerned, reports that Berlin, in reply to President Wilson's note, was willing to make some modifications in her submarine warfare, exerted a good effect. Spots of weakness developed in the so-called reorganization stocks, but the market, as a whole, was unaffected.

HEARS PLAN FOR EQUITABLE

Hasbrouck to Protect Policy Holders Under Mutualization.

Frank Hasbrouck, State Superintendent of Insurance, held a conference yesterday with Thomas Thacher, representing General T. Coleman du Pont, and Morgan J. O'Brien, a Voting Trustee for the majority stock, in regard to proposed measures of mutualizing the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Mr. Hasbrouck stated afterward that he was satisfied the interests of policy holders would not suffer in any degree by the transfer of control from the estate of J. P. Morgan to General du Pont.

"General du Pont has already had a conference with the mutualization committee of the society," he said, "to discuss ways and means to bring about mutualization. This cannot be accomplished, however, at once, inasmuch as first a practicable plan that will meet with the approval of the Superintendent of Insurance must be adopted, and then it will have to be submitted successively to the Directors, to the stockholders, and to the policy holders. If adopted by all three of these bodies, it will, lastly, have to be approved by the Superintendent of Insurance before it becomes effective.

"This will take a long time, but while efforts toward mutualization are under way, everything possible will be done by General du Pont to strengthen the society, conserve its assets, and safeguard the interests of the policy holders, and nothing can be done unless under the direct supervision of the Insurance Department.

"Mr. Thacher, on behalf of General du Pont, has assured the Insurance Department that the Voting Trust, which has existed for some years, will continue undisturbed."

It was learned after the conference that numerous legal details need to be attended to before a definite plan for mutualization can be considered. Then, too, the matter of price which General du Pont would entertain for his 502 shares will have to be taken into consideration, and also the question as to whether or not the price paid for the majority holdings would have to be applied to offerings of stock by minority interests.

The Mutualization Committee is expected to hold another meeting in about two weeks. It consists of five Directors, of whom three live outside of New York, one being in Chicago. When this meeting is held, it is expected General du Pont will have a tentative plan ready for mutualizing the company, although persons in close touch with the situation hardly expect that the proposal will be rounded into shape for presentation to the Directors under several months.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Good News Predominates and Gains in Business Continue.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks Dun's Review says:

> Cross currents continue in business channels, but the tide of returning prosperity is gradually rising. Good news still predominates and further progress is manifest, notwithstanding the unseasonable weather at many points, and especially in the West. This retards the retail distribution of merchandise and tends to adversely affect the jobbing trade as well, while the agricultural outlook has been somewhat impaired by excessive rains. Harvesting of Winter wheat is delayed and corn has received a setback, yet crop failures from too much moisture are comparatively rare, the other extreme having furnished the great records of loss. That the crop reports are not causing concern is indicated by the action of the grain options, wheat again falling below the dollar mark at Chicago. The depressing influences are the less keenly felt because they are believed to be temporary, and confidence in the future remains unshaken.
>
> Clearings through the banks this week at the leading cities in the United States, according to Dun's Review, aggregate $2,669,539,942, a gain of 5.9 per cent. as compared with the $2,521,655,432 of the same week last year and of 2.9 per cent. as contrasted with the corresponding week in 1913, when $2,593,478,008 was reported. Evidence of an increasing volume of business operations is provided by the returns of New York City, that centre showing gains of 6.7 and 4.1 per cent., respectively, as compared with the same weeks in the two immediately preceding years.

Bradstreet's says:

> Trade news is irregular, current distribution being repressed, but on the other hand orders for future delivery tend to enlarge. Unseasonable weather hampers retail trade, results in forced sales, restricts sorting-up orders going to jobbers, and detracts from crop promise. Besides, a number of lines, such as coal, lumber, jewelry, and shoe manufacturing, remain slow. On the other hand, there is more doing in textiles for Fall shipment; the market for cotton goods is helped by foreign business; improvement in steel continues to spread both on export and domestic account; war orders for machine tools are heavy; skilled labor is being worked overtime, and shipyards are active.

RECEIVERSHIP TALK SENDS 'MOP' TO 7 7-8

Bankruptcy Story Denied, but $40 Assessment on Stock Seems at Hand.

WILL NOT TAX THE BONDS

But Junior Securities Are to be Scaled Down if Reorganization Plan Becomes Effective.

Missouri Pacific stock, on sales aggregating 27,415 shares, dropped three points on the Stock Exchange yesterday and closed at 7⅞, the lowest figure for the day, and the lowest since the Gould interests were crowded out of the railway by its new bankers last March. There were rumors that a receivership was imminent and that receivership papers were already drawn up. There were other rumors that the reorganization plan would impose a prohibitive assessment, not only on the stock, but on some of the bonds.

A Missouri Pacific official, replying to the reports of a receivership, stated that the July 1 interest payments, amounting to about $1,000,000, would be met. With these payments out of the way, he pointed out, there was no reason for believing that a receivership was threatened.

As for the assessment, it was stated on high authority that it would be under $50 a share. It is understood that it will be in the neighborhood of $40. The assessment will not apply to bonds, only to the $88,000,000 in stock outstanding. A $40 assessment would raise about $35,000,000. Allowing for the payment of the $24,845,000 6 per cent. notes due June 1, 1916, such an amount would still leave $10,000,000 working capital. With such an amount of cash, and with lower fixed charges, it is contended the Missouri Pacific can be put on its feet and can compete on fair terms with its Western competitors.

The reorganization plan is in printed form and lacks only the indorsement of a few persons, it was learned yesterday. The plan will be underwritten, and the promoters say that it is so liberal in its terms that there should be no doubt of its success. There is no fear as regards the stock, for the underwriters will guarantee the payment of the assessment. It is essential, however, to get the assent of the holders of the principal junior bond issues, notably the collateral trust 4s and the first and refunding 5s.

It was stated unofficially yesterday that the plan, in addition to an assessment on the stock, made these special provisions:

> There will be a new company, incorporated in a Western State.
>
> There will be a new issue of preferred and common stock.
>
> Stockholders paying the assessment will get new preferred stock and new income bonds.
>
> The collateral trust 4s and the first and refunding convertible 5s will be scaled down and holders will get new preferred stock and another security. Their equity will represent more than the amount of bonds they surrender.
>
> The present common and preferred stock will be wiped out, and will have no nominal value if the assessment is not paid.

One of the representatives of the joint committee working on the Missouri Pacific reorganization plan said yesterday that the reorganization would be carried on with the definite purpose of saving security holders any losses.

"If the Missouri Pacific is plunged into receivership," he said, "the security holders will get the worst bargain they possibly could get. They would most certainly have to stand the cost of a receivership, which would be between $1,000,000 and $3,000,000. If the security holders want to save this loss they must assent to the plan of voluntary reorganization."

NEW RESERVE BANK RULE.

Board Modifies Regulations Regarding Changes in Capital Stock.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Federal Reserve Board has modified its regulations regarding increases and decreases of the capital stock of Federal Reserve banks. The changes are embodied in a new "regulation N" supplanting "regulation G," which accompanied a circular dated Jan. 28, 1915. The changes come in Paragraphs II. and III. of the old regulations, which in the regulation promulgated today read as follows:

> II. Whenever a member bank shall be declared insolvent and a receiver appointed by the proper authorities, such receiver shall file with the Federal Reserve Bank of which the insolvent bank is a member, an application on Form 87, which is made a part of this regulation, for the surrender and cancellation of the stock held by and for the refund of all balances due to such insolvent member bank. Upon approval of this application by the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Reserve Bank shall accept and cancel the stock surrendered, and shall adjust accounts between the member bank and the Federal Reserve Bank by applying to the indebtedness of the insolvent member bank to such Federal Reserve Bank all cash-paid subscriptions made by it on the stock canceled with one-half of 1 per cent. per month from the period of last dividend, if earned, not to exceed the book value thereof, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the duly authorized receiver of such insolvent member bank.
>
> III. Whenever a member bank goes into voluntary liquidation and a liquidating agent is appointed, such agent shall file with the Federal Reserve Bank of which it is a member an application on Form 88, which is made a part of this regulation, for the surrender and cancellation of the stock held by and for the refund of all balances due to such liquidating member bank. Upon approval of this application by the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Reserve Bank shall accept and cancel the stock surrendered, and shall adjust accounts between the liquidating member bank and the Federal Reserve Bank by applying to the indebtedness of the liquidating member bank to such Federal Bank all cash-paid subscriptions made by it on the stock canceled with one-half of 1 per cent. per month from the period of last dividend, if earned, not to exceed the book value thereof, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the duly authorized liquidating agent of such liquidating member bank.

OVERDRAFT EVIL ABATED.

Controller Williams Announces a Reduction to $6,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, has written a circular letter to the national banks of the country, expressing his appreciation of their co-operation with him in his efforts to "eliminate the overdraft evil." Mr. Williams says that overdrafts have been reduced from over $22,000,000 to about $6,000,000. Mr. Williams's letter follows:

"This office acknowledges with appreciation the efforts which the national banks generally throughout the country have made in co-operating to eliminate the overdraft evil.

"The reports of conditions submitted by the national banks as of May 1, 1915, show that as a result of the efforts in this connection of the national banks and of their customers and of this office the total amount of overdrafts in all national banks which on Feb. 4, 1913, amounted to $22,307,066, (or $2.67 per $1,000 of total deposits,) had been reduced on June 30, 1914, to $15,485,641, and as a result of the special efforts put forth since that time the total amount of the overdrafts in the 7,604 national banks of the United States had been reduced on May 1, 1915, to $5,904,374, or 66 cents per 1,000 of total deposits.

"The national banks of the country report that the aggregate amount of losses which they charged off during the calendar years 1912, 1913, and 1914 on account of overdrafts was $1,209,334, of which $80,223 was in the New England States, $285,617 in the Eastern States, $252,994 in the Southern States, $216,704 in the Middle States, $213,807 in the Western States, and $159,989 in the Pacific States.

"It is hoped that efforts to eliminate overdrafts entirely will be continued, and that they may before long disappear entirely from bank statements."

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The action of the wheat market showed that sentiment is more two-sided. Price changes were quite frequent, and while, at one time, the market was ⅝ to 1c below the final of Thursday, the close was ⅝c to 1⅝c net higher, which represented an advance of 1⅝c to 2⅝c from the low of the day. In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $1.27 and No. 2 hard Winter at $1.30, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, export billed; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.34, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.33½, cost, insurance, and freight, Buffalo.

CORN.

The corn market sagged early owing to prospects of more favorable weather over the belt with higher temperatures and owing to fears of further pressure of Argentine offerings. The rally in wheat caused a sharp covering movement, however, and toward the close of the day the market developed pronounced firmness, and final quotations were ¼ to ⅝c net higher. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 85½c prompt shipment.

COFFEE.

Tenders on July contracts in the coffee market yesterday amounted to 75,500 bags, but, notwithstanding this large amount of coffee, the market, after a little hesitation at the start, developed strength, and at the close of the day was 1 to 10 points net higher. Total sales were 37,000 bags, of which 45,000 were in the form of exchange. The local spot market was inactive and unchanged, with Rio 7s quoted at 7⅛c.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active, and after a steady opening prices eased off under renewed selling. The hog markets were generally firmer, but the cash trade was slow, and high-class meats are selling below a parity with the contract stocks. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 21,000 head; estimated for Saturday, 12,000 head; Kansas City received 4,000 head and Omaha 6,700 head.

SUGAR.

There were moderate withdrawals of refined sugar on old contract, but new business was light. Prices remained unchanged, all refiners listing on the basis of 6.10c for fine, although accepting orders at 6c. There was no change in the local raw-sugar market today, and, while holders of Cubas were firm in their views, refiners were in a waiting position and no sales were reported. Porto Rico sugars were still available at 4.83c for centrifugal, but these also failed to attract any demand, and the market closed the week barely steady for Porto Ricos and firm for Cubas, without sales. Centrifugal was quoted at 4.83@4.89c, molasses, 4.06@4.12c, and Cubas, cost and freight, 3⅝c. Futures opened quiet and steady, unchanged to 2 points lower, with first sales 850 tons. Late in the day the market became quite active and closed unchanged to 4 points net higher, with sales for the day 6,100 tons.

COTTONSEED OIL.

July liquidation was still in progress in the cottonseed oil market yesterday, and that position for the first time this season sold below 6 cents. The late months were weak in sympathy with July, and at the close of the day values were 3 to 5 points net lower. Monday will be first notice day for July contracts, and there seemed to be a general disposition to sell in anticipation of liberal tenders.

PROPOSALS.

INVITATION TO CONTRACTORS
INSTALLATION OF TRACKS FOR RAPID TRANSIT RAILROAD
The Public Service Commission for the First District (hereinafter called the "Commission") invites proposals to install tracks for that portion of the Broadway-Fourth Avenue Rapid Transit Railroad in the Borough of Brooklyn, which is briefly described as follows:
A three-track elevated railroad beginning at a point in private property near 38th Street and 10th Avenue and extending thence over private property to 10th Avenue; thence over 10th Avenue and New Utrecht Avenue to a point at or near 81st Street; thence over private property and cross streets to a point in 86th Street near 19th Avenue; thence over 86th Street to a point at or near Bay 41st Street; thence over private property and 26th Avenue to Stillwell Avenue; and thence over Stillwell Avenue to a point at or near Avenue Y.
The Contractor will not be required to furnish Open-Hearth Rail, Rolled Manganese Rail, Track Rail Splice Bars, Anti-Creepers, Cast Iron (Separators), Cut Track Spikes, Screw Spikes and Lag Screws, Ties and Timber, Bolts and Nuts, Nut Locks, Malleable Iron (Rail Braces, Washers and End Inclines), Tie Plates (Types A, B, C, D, W and X), Hand Rail, or Special Work (Frogs and Switches) which are to form a part of the completed tracks, but the City will supply such materials to the Contractor; nor will the Contractor be required to furnish or install electrical or signal material or apparatus. The work under the contract will include all other work, labor and material necessary for the complete installation of the tracks and for the transportation of material supplied by the City.
It may be possible for bidders to make arrangements with South Brooklyn Railway Company for the transportation of materials from the City storeyard at the foot of 38th and 39th Streets to said railroad after the construction work in the 38th Street Cut has been sufficiently advanced, but bidders must inform themselves upon this point and make all arrangements upon their own responsibility and at their own risk.
A fuller description of the work and other requirements, provisions, details and specifications are given in the form of contract and in the specifications and on the contract drawings therein referred to. Copies of the form of contract, specifications, contract drawings, bond and contractor's proposal may be inspected and purchased at the office of the Commission, No. 154 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City. The forms of contract, bond and contractor's proposal and the specifications and contract drawings are to be deemed a part of this Invitation. Copies of the form of contract made or to be made by the City for the purchase of the materials to be supplied by the City to the Contractor may also be inspected and purchased at the said office of the Commission.
Bidders must examine the form of contract and the specifications and contract drawings and must visit the location of the work and inform themselves of the conditions along the line of the work and make their own estimates of the facilities and difficulties attending the execution of the work.
The Contractor must complete the work within five (5) months after the date of the delivery of the contract.
Partial payments will be made to the Contractor monthly as the work proceeds, as provided in the form of contract.
At the time of the delivery of the contract the Contractor must furnish security to the City by depositing a bond, cash or securities in a sum equal to ten per centum (10%) of the total estimated amount to be paid to the Contractor under the contract as calculated from the quantities and the prices contained in the Schedule of Prices in the Contractor's Proposal.
Sealed bids or proposals will be received at the office of the Commission at No. 154 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, until the 9th day of July, 1915, at twelve-fifteen (12:15) o'clock p. m., at which time and place, or at a later date to be fixed by the Commission, the proposals will be publicly opened.
Proposals must be in the form prescribed by the Commission.
Every proposal must, when submitted, be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "Proposal for Installation of Tracks," and must be delivered to the Commission or its Secretary; and in the presence of the person submitting the proposal, it will be deposited in a sealed box in which all proposals will be deposited. No proposal will be received unless accompanied by a separate certified check for five thousand dollars ($5,000) payable to the order of the Comptroller of The City of New York and drawn upon a national or state bank or trust company satisfactory to the Commission and having its principal office in New York City. Such check must not be enclosed in the envelope containing the proposal.
The prices must not be improperly balanced, and any bid which the Commission considers detrimental to the City's interests may be rejected.
No proposal, after it shall have been deposited with the Commission, will be allowed to be withdrawn for any reason whatever.
The award of the contract will be made by the Commission as soon as practicable after the opening of the proposals.
Deposits made by bidders whose proposals are not accepted will be returned within three (3) days after the contract is executed and delivered and its provisions in respect of the bond or deposit are complied with, unless all proposals shall be rejected, in which event such deposits will be returned within three (3) days after such rejection. The deposit of the successful bidder will be returned when the contract is executed and delivered and its provisions in respect of the bond or deposit are complied with.
The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

Why Summer Cloths Are Favored.

The fact that the Summer cloths, being sold now for next Summer by the mills, will require less in the way of dyes, is one of the most important factors in accounting for their popularity. The great majority of these fabrics are brought out in tan shades that use up very little coloring stuff. The seller, for this reason, has nothing to bother him as far as guaranteeing fast colors is concerned, and the buyer's mind also rests easy on the matter. There are a number of different lines offered that have the same color effects as a woolen or serge, but the demand is greater for the lighter colored fabrics.

The Japanese Silk Syndicate.

An explanation other than that generally accepted for the dissolution of the Japanese silk syndicate is given by the executive of a raw silk importing house who was in close touch with the situation. The syndicate was formed with funds sufficient to buy in silk offered below a certain fixed minimum. The purpose in view was to prevent a panic among the growers. This was accomplished. The syndicate was dissolved recently, and the reason given was that no more money was available to buy in silk. According to the latest explanation, however, the reelers who had financed the project did not relish the idea of holding up the price on themselves, which would have been the case if they bought new silk from the growers with the syndicate in existence.

Salesmen of All Sorts.

The appearance of an applicant for a position as salesman often goes a long way toward determining whether or not he gets the job, but in one retail clothing house appearance counts more than usually is the case. A well-appearing salesman in this store may not be a college athlete with the ability to wear snappy clothes. He may be a man well on in years dressed in the most conservative fashion. This store hires men for salesmen with the idea that the middle-aged customer prefers to be waited upon by a middle-aged salesman, and that the young man wants one of his own years to "fix him up." The assortment of ages and sizes, too, in this store is well varied and, as the results obtained are very satisfactory to the store owners, the idea must work out in practice.

Cotton Goods Exports Fair.

The promise of early good business from China on cotton goods has not been fulfilled this week, and export business of this kind as a whole can hardly be called more than fair. South American continued to buy narrow sheetings and drills, duck, yarns, and twine in a moderately good way, and a fair Cuban demand was told of. Sheetings were also in some demand from the Red Sea district and from Australia, while some business in gray cottons and prints was done with the Philippines. War business in duck was fair to middling from all accounts. Exporters were not pleased by the report that German submarines had passed into the Mediterranean, for, if it is true, it is expected to result in an increased cost of war risk insurance, and possibly higher freight rates.

Favors a Change in the Style.

A man looked upon as a style authority in the women's wear trade believes that a change in the styles for the coming Fall would be of great benefit to the industry. He ascribes the very brisk business which came on late in the Spring season to just such a change. While the evolution of the fashions at that time was not too abrupt, it afforded the manufacturers just the opportunity they required to spur up the demand by offering something new. Originality, this man said, has made little progress during the past year despite the discussion which has been given to the subject. Not only are the same styles being worn now, he said, but the "uniform idea" has extended to fabrics and colors, where before there was some latitude allowed on the last two.

Fancy Hose Sell Best.

The best part of the current demand for hosiery, at least so far as the jobbing trade is concerned, is for fancy effects in silks, both for men and women. Stripes, clocks and other forms of decoration are highly favored, both in black and white effects and in colors. For Spring, 1916, a nice business is being taken by the manufacturers on artificial silk hosiery, at prices somewhat higher than these goods sold for at the opening of the present Spring season, due to the higher cost of the raw materials and yarns. Those lines of cotton hose which have been opened for the next Spring season show practically no change in price from last year, in spite of the talk there has been of the shortage of dyestuffs and the higher costs of dyeing. However, the bulk of this merchandise is being sold with a subject-to-dyestuffs clause in the orders.

Gray Goods Were Featureless.

There was little feature to the gray goods market here yesterday, the fluctuation in cotton not having added anything to the desire of the buyers to operate at full prices. While the undertone of the market was for the most part firm, here and there signs of weakness came to the surface. A fair inquiry was reported for sheetings and osnaburgs from the bag trade, not much of which was turned into busniess. Further reports of second hands letting out printcloths under the market were heard, yesterday's offerings covering a wider range than on the previous day. In addition to this, it was said that limited sales of 39-inch 68-72s, 38½-inch 64-60s, 60-52s, and 60-48s were made by first hands, for spot and nearby delivery, at a sixteenth off the regular market. Nominally spot prices were:

39 -inch,	80-80s	6c	38½-inch,	64-56s	3⅝c
39 -inch,	72-76s	5¼c	38½-inch,	60-52s	3½c
39 -inch,	68-72s	4⅞c	38½-inch,	60-48s	3⅜c
38½-inch,	64-64s	4c	27 -inch,	64-60s	2⅝c
38½-inch,	64-60s	3⅞	27 -inch,	56-52s	2¼c

About the Underwear Trade.

While it cannot be said truthfully that the weather was of as much assistance to the jobbers this week in the moving of seasonable underwear as it was last, there was a pretty good demand for these goods generally. In certain quarters it was said that the feature of the week's business was the increase in the demand for union suits, both for men and women. Not much was heard of Fall business in any quarter of the market. There was a rumor that agents for the Russian Government were in the market for fleeced goods for shipment later in the year, but it could not be pinned down. On Spring goods the feature of the week was the effect that the gradual weakening of the cotton market and slow buying had on some of the cheaper lines of balbriggans. In some cases prices on these goods were reduced five cents a dozen from the opening figures. Reports of resultant business differ, but it is expected that not a great deal of change in the situation will be seen until next month, when the jobbers come to market.

⁂

Princess Effects to Lead Early.

According to opinions expressed by local manufacturers of dresses the bulk of the early Fall popular-priced demand will probably be for Princess effects with semi-fitted waists and wide skirts. The redingote idea is expected to come to a head later. The skirts will be even wider than was the case this Spring, it is said, three yards being a good average width. In extreme cases some skirts are shown which are twice that wide around the bottom. Some of the Princess models show front and back panels, and more than the usual running to high collars and long sleeves is reported, the latter being largely of the set-in variety. Fancy bottoms feature a good deal of the higher-priced goods. wider latitude in the matter of fabrics will be given the buyer this season, for along with cloth dresses and silk dresses are shown models that make use of both cloth and silk. In the cloth dresses for early Fall lightweight serge in various shades of blue, principally navy and Belgian, and in dark brown, myrtle green, &c., seems most favored by the manufacturers.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Decisions on Textiles, Pads, and Scientific Apparatus.

Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia, were sustained yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers in claims that merchandise invoiced as "knitted mufflers" is properly dutiable at the rate of 40 per cent. ad valorem under the provision for "silk mufflers." The articles were in chief value of silk and finished. The Collector accordingly returned the goods at 50 per cent. ad valorem as silk wearing apparel. His action was reversed with an order to reliquidate the entries.

Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago, objected to the Custom House duty of 60 per cent. taken on linen handkerchiefs returned as embroidered. The importers claimed that the articles were not embroidered, and should be admitted at 40 per cent. ad valorem as hemstitched handkerchiefs. Judge Howell held that some of the goods were embroidered and others not. Those not ornamented were allowed to enter at the rate claimed, the Collector's decision as to the balance being affirmed.

Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, lost in a fight for lower duty on gowns and other articles of wearing apparel claimed by the customs officials to be embroidered, and therefore dutiable at 60 per cent. ad valorem. The importers claimed lower rates as cotton, silk, or wool wearing apparel at the appropriate rates. The testimony was regarded by the board as unsatisfactory, the Collector being affirmed.

T. Buettner & Co., Chicago, imported goods invoiced as cotton novelty braids or cotton ric-rac braids. They were assessed at 60 per cent. ad valorem as "cotton braids, ornamented." The importers contended that duty should be taken at 25 per cent. as fabrics with fast edges not exceeding 12 inches in width or at 30 per cent. as manufactures of cotton. While the importers did not deny that the articles in controversy are cotton braids, they contended that the braids were not, in the language of the tariff, "ornamented in the process of weaving," and were therefore excluded from the provisions of the paragraph under which the Collector assessed duty. Judge Howell, denying the claims, said the articles are clearly ornamental in design, and might be readily taken for lace edgings or insertings. He added that it was not denied that the goods are "braids," and it was apparent that the ornamentation was done in the process of weaving.

E. P. Stahel & Co. were upheld in the claim that silk bindings not over 12 inches in width are properly dutiable at 45 per cent. ad valorem under the specific provision for "silk bindings." The action of the Collector, in returning the goods at 60 per cent. as silk trimmings or braids, was reversed.

It was decided in the protest case of F. Weber & Co., Philadelphia, that blocks of drawing paper cannot be regarded as "blank books" within the meaning of the tariff. Duty was taken at the rate of 25 per cent. as drawing paper. Under the claim made by the protestants the rate is 15 per cent. Judge Fischer said the blocks cannot be deemed blank books, but are mere sketch pads conveniently arranged to be carried about by artists.

E. H. Sargent & Co., Chicago, acting as forwarders and customs brokers, claimed that various articles of scientific apparatus imported for and by order of the Northwestern University should be admitted free of duty. In denying the request Judge Hay pointed out that certain regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury have not been complied with. These relate to affidavits identifying the merchandise. The assessment was affirmed.

HERE TO HELP TRADE.

A Commercial Agent and a New Zealand Manufacturer.

Among the callers yesterday at the local branch office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Custom House were J. A. Massel, a special agent of the Department of Commerce, and David Manson of Christchurch, New Zealand. Mr. Massel has just returned from South America after conducting an investigation for the department into the possibilities of the market in the Southern continent for American machinery and machine tools.

The special agent is very enthusiastic about the possibilities of the countries visited and the reception accorded him by the citizens of South America, especially those of the Argentine and Chile. Mr. Massel said yesterday he hopes to return shortly to further investigate the different fields in the engineering line. He will be glad to confer with manufacturers interested.

Mr. Manson, who is department manager for the Kaiapoi Woolen Manufacturing Company of Christchurch, who is also making the bureau his headquarters while in the city, is interested in buying all classes of hosiery and underwear, cotton shirtings and denims. He said his firm, apart from its manufacturing end, acts as a general distributor. He is especially desirous of meeting manufacturers in the above-mentioned lines. He says New Zealand is suffering from a dyestuffs famine such as is threatened here. The German-made colors are excluded from New Zealand, which has made it necessary for Mr. Manson to look for a supply in this country for his mills. He is hopeful of securing enough to carry his works for awhile at least.

IMPORTS A LITTLE MORE.

Large Increase in Dry Goods Here Over Preceding Week.

General imports in the week ended June 19 were slightly in excess of those of the week before, while dry goods nearly doubled, according to the Custom House statement issued yesterday. The inward movement of general lines totaled $17,641,309, compared with $17,584,622 in the preceding week, and $15,848,663 in the week before that.

Indigo entries, both natural and synthetic, for the week reached a value of $42,395, while aniline colors were brought in worth $8,215. Dyewood extract entries were unusually heavy, amounting to $297,882, while dyewood had a value of $2,993. Logwood was manifested at $11,415. No alizarine colors were reported. Argols were valued at $70,540, and chemical salts at $6,103. Jewelry, precious stones, and watches aggregated $877,196.

India rubber, manufactures and waste totaled $2,010,311, while hides and findings were returned at $1,739,717. Antimony entries were $15,600 and tin imports reached $344,362. Copper entries were valued at $525,909, and its ore at $33,179. Fresh beef imports were down to $2,335. Coffee receipts were $913,007, while those of raw cocoa amounted to $128,015. Sugar was brought in to the value of $3,583,088, representing 322,885 tons. Wool totaled 9,154 bales, worth $678,039.

Dry goods entered for consumption amounted to $1,763,332, silk entries being appraised at $757,337. In the preceding week dry goods entries were set down at $955,528, and silk merchandise at $105,238. Withdrawals from bonded warehouses last week aggregated $559,751, while dry goods warehoused totaled $520,871. In the corresponding week a year ago the values were, respectively, $587,874 and $533,447.

BEGIN TEST OF COTTON ACT.

Brokers Sue for Tax Refund on Score of Unconstitutionality.

Miller & Auchincloss, counsel for the Cotton Exchange firms of Weld & Neville and Hubbard Bros. & Co., brought two suits in the Federal District Court yesterday against John Z. Lowe, Jr., Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second District of this city, to recover taxes aggregating $1,960 levied under Section II. of the Futures Act, otherwise known as the Lever law, and paid under protest.

Stephen M. Weld, Edward M. Weld, Philip B. Weld, Webb Floyd and Harry S. Thompson, members of Weld & Neville, in their complaint state that a tax of $960 was levied on them in violation of the Constitutional provision which states that "no tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State." A similar claim is made by Samuel T. Hubbard, Walter Hubbard, and W. Eustace Hubbard of the firm of Hubbard Bros. & Co., which paid a tax of $1,000.

The taxes complained of as unconstitutional were assessed at the rate of 2 cents a pound on cabled orders to Smith, Edward & Co. of Liverpool, England, to sell 200 bales of American-grown cotton at the best price obtainable for delivery in Liverpool during October and November next. In the Weld & Neville suit it was contended that the transmission of the cable message ordering the sale of the cotton was incident to a transaction involving the exportation of American goods, and therefore the law under which the tax was levied was unconstitutional. In the suit of Hubbard Brothers & Co. it was asserted that the Lever law was unconstitutional for the reason that Congress had no power to prescribe the form of contract that may be dealt, and that it cannot do so by taxing certain forms of contract and leaving other forms untaxed.

To Help Russian Trade.

The Imperial Russian Embassy states that the Chamber of Export at Petrograd offers its services to exporters and importers desiring to establish direct relation with Russian business houses. The chamber will also take charge of samples for use at a permanent exhibition of samples which it expects to establish. The chamber expects further to extend its work in publishing a directory in Russian and English for the benefit of the import and export trade of Russia, American business houses being invited to have their names listed therein.

Sheepskins Rule High.

LONDON, June 25.—A sale of Cape of Good Hope and Natal sheepskins was held here today. There were 652,000 pelts offered, but only half were sold. The attendance was good and there was a fair demand. The best grades advanced ¼d@¾d, while others were unchnged to ¼d higher.

TEST CASE ON RUGS.

Hearing Before Appraisers to Determine Duty on Them.

The taking of testimony before the Board of General Appraisers in the test protest case of Henry Beuttell & Sons, involving the construction to be given the rug and carpet provisions of the tariff, has closed. During the trial of the issue, practically all the representatives of the local importing rug and carpet firms appeared as witnesses. Many of these testified in behalf of the protestants, while the Government also called a number of merchants to support its contentions.

The merchandise in dispute consists of mats not exceeding 18 by 36 inches in size, and small to medium sized rugs for floors of standard dimensions, known in the carpet trade as stock sizes or, in other words, sizes commonly carried in stock by dealers. All of the articles in controversy are seamless and are composed respectively of Wilton and tapestry Brussels carpeting. Collector Malone returned the goods at 50 per cent. ad valorem under the provision of Paragraph 300 of the present law for rugs similar to Axminster rugs.

Ex-Judge Sharretts, counsel for Beuttell & Sons, argued that the Wilton rugs are properly dutiable at 30 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 294, which specifies Wilton carpets or carpetings. The counsel also asserted that tapestry Brussels mats, and rugs for floors, are chargeable with duty at 20 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 297 as portions of Wilton and tapestry carpeting, respectively, by virtue of Paragraph 303, which provides that rugs and mats not specially provided for shall be subject the rate of duty imposed on carpets or carpetings of like character or description.

The classification adopted by the Collector was in harmony with an order issued by the Treasury Department in which it was held that the words "portions of carpeting" implied that the rugs and other articles named in Paragraph 303 included only such rugs as were composed of portions of carpeting sewn together. Charles D. Lawrence, of the Department of Justice, maintained that the Treasury's interpretation of the tariff law was correct and urged that the Collector be affirmed. Briefs were filed yesterday. The board is expected to render a decision shortly.

Employer Favors Militiamen.

William B. Joyce, President of the National Surety Company, announced yesterday that he was desirous of encouraging employes of his company who are in the National Guard or who may undertake military service. They will be given the necessary leave of absence whenever their military duties require, without loss of pay or loss of vacation time.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

In Town.

S. ELBERGER & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against S. Elberger & Co., manufacturers of waists and dresses at 148 Greene Street. Liabilities are $6,000 and assets $3,000. They made an assignment on Thursday.

The FOX COMPANY, INCORPORATED.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against The Fox Company, Incorporated, dealers in millinery, &c., at Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, and White Plains. Liabilities are $7,000 and assets $4,000.

MANGAN PUT ON TRIAL.

Teamsters' Union Agent Accused of Killing Luke Doyle.

William P. Mangan, business agent of the Teamsters' Union, was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Wadhams in General Sessions for the murder of Luke Doyle of 128 Essex Street, who was shot down in North Moore Street on March 11 and died later in a hospital. The trouble is said to have dated back to a split in the union in 1913.

Patrolman Clark of the Greenwich Street station testified that he saw Mangan running away from the scene of the shooting with a gun in his hand. He said he chased him along West Street and saw Mangan throw the gun away.

The trial will be continued on Monday.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, June 25.—As indicated in an earlier report, the plateau disturbance has assumed definite shape, and now forms a deep low central over Montana. It has caused showers in the North Plateau States, and these have been associated with a marked fall in temperature amounting to 30 degrees in Western Montana. East of the Mississippi the barometer gradients are unusually weak, and mostly fair weather has prevailed except that showers have occurred in the Carolinas, Florida, and along the East Gulf Coast.

With the advance of the plateau low, temperatures in the northern tier of States will rise materially, but the warmer weather will not reach the Atlantic Coast districts before Monday or Tuesday.

Showers are probable in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi generally fair weather will continue during Saturday and Sunday.

Winds for Saturday and Sunday along the North Atlantic Coast will be light west; Middle Atlantic Coast, light south to west; South Atlantic Coast, light southeast to east.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Saturday. Sunday, fair.

New England—Fair Saturday and Sunday.

Western New York—Partly cloudy Saturday and Sunday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Former City Home of Mme. Nordica Sold—Fischel Deal Closed for Park Avenue Block Front—Builders Buy Audubon Avenue Corner — Junius Morgan Leases Murray Hill Residence.

Light trading characterized the realty market yesterday. Among the chief features of interest were the announcement that the former city home of the late Mme. Lillian Nordica had been sold, and that negotiations had been closed for the leasing by a syndicate, headed by Harry Fischel from the New York Central Railroad, of the westerly Park Avenue block between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets for improvement with a twelve-story apartment house.

The Nordica residence was a large house at 8 West Ninth Street, covering a plot 58.9 by 93.11, adjoining the Berkeley apartment at the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue. The house was bought by George W. Young shortly after his marriage to Mme. Nordica, being originally two old dwellings, that at 6 having been purchased from the Quincy estate in 1910, and the adjoining one at 8 from Mrs. Mary A. Ward. The two houses were then altered into a single residence from plans by Warren & Wetmore. Last April a foreclosure action was instituted by John W. Sterling and the Title Guarantee & Trust Company against the Securities Company, which held title for Mr. Young, in a judgment for a mortgage of $25,000.

Another Park Avenue Block Front Deal Closed.

It was announced yesterday by the brokerage firm of L. J. Du Mahaut, Inc., that th deal for the leasing of the Park Avenue westerly block front between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets from the New York Central Railroad by the Park Avenue Improvement Company had been closed and that work on the twelve-story apartment, which the leasing company plans to erect, will begin in a short time. The company was incorporated at Albany last week, with Harry Fischel, David Kraus, and Herbert S. Goldstein as Directors. The property fronts 200.10 on Park Avenue, 90 on Fiftieth Street, and 75 on Fifty-first Street, and is opposite the Schaefer brewery block purchased last year by St. Bartholomew's Church for its new edifice. A twenty-one years' lease, with two renewal privileges, has been obtained.

Builders Buy Heights Corner.

A plot 25 by 100 feet on the southwest corner of Audubon Avenue and 179th Street has been purchased by the Aldus Construction Company from the Rexton Realty Company, Samuel Kempner, President.

A six-story apartment, with stores will be erected on the site by the buyers.

Bronx Sales.

Eugene J. Busher has sold for Katherine B. Smith her private residence at 655 East 164th Street, on lot 25 by 100, fifty feet east of Cauldwell Avenue.

Country Seat

Gentleman's beautiful country seat and productive farm for sale. 190 acres, 35 miles from N. Y., two miles from county seat on fine stone road. One of the most beautiful and attractive places in the county, the show place of the community. Grand view for 20 miles in every direction.

Large house in perfect condition, beautifully decorated, parquet floors, 3 baths, electric lights, fine well-kept lawn of several acres. Large new garage, capacity for four machines, creamery, new house for working men, gardener's cottage, large poultry yard. Everything is up to date and in the most perfect condition and must be seen to be appreciated.

Can be had either with or without equipment of tools, machinery, stock, herd registered Holsteins, etc. Also all or any part of 235 adjoining acres can be had if wanted.

The owner has lost his health and is forced to live in warmer climate, otherwise this place would not be for sale. This is a big bargain.

This is an honest advertisement written by the owner. The place will be a surprise to you. No trade or exchange of any kind considered. Call or write

14 THAW WITNESSES SAY HE IS SANE NOW

New Hampshire Men and Women Tell of Entertaining Him in Their Homes.

STATE SEEKS EVELYN THAW

Moving Pictures of Defendant Taken in Canada May Be Shown in Court to Prove He Was Eccentric.

Counsel for Harry K. Thaw practically completed their case yesterday at the jury trial of Thaw's sanity before Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hendrick by calling to the stand fourteen more witnesses, eleven men and three women, all residents of New Hampshire, who testified that in their opinion Thaw was sane. Adjournment was taken at 3:40 o'clock in the afternoon until Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, when four experts on the subject of insanity will be questioned. Then the State will have its inning.

It was Thaw's best day in court and he expressed satisfaction in the way things were going. "Yes, the jury must believe that I am sane after hearing all this testimony," he said, as he was leaving the courtroom. He was pleased, too, by the fact that the cross-examination by the State had failed to break down the testimony of his witnesses, several of whom were not examined at all by the State.

It was nine years ago yesterday that Thaw killed Stanford White at the Madison Square Roof Garden, but no reference was made to that fact by Thaw or by counsel for either side.

There were many reports in circulation in the courtroom yesterday which gave evidence of the thoroughness with which the State is preparing its case against Thaw. One of these, which was vouched for by Deputy Attorney General Cook, was that Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, the prisoner's wife, might, after all, appear on the stand and help clear the name of Stanford White. He had heard, Mr. Cook said, that Mrs. Thaw had been seen in the city within the past two days, and he had subpoena servers searching for her. Another report was that moving pictures taken of Thaw while he was in Sherbrooke, Canada, would be exhibited in the courtroom to prove that Thaw acted in a most eccentric manner just after his escape from Matteawan. On top of this it was announced that permission had been obtained from the court to take the testimony of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard, concerning Thaw's withdrawal from that institution under more or less peculiar circumstances in 1892.

Lawyers to Visit Dr. Eliot.

According to the present plan representatives of the Attorney General's office and of Thaw will go to Cambridge, Mass., on Monday to get what Dr. Eliot has to say. Questioned about these points the Thaw lawyers expressed indifference to what might be done along these lines. Another of his counsel laughed when told that the moving pictures were being sought by subpoena servers and seemed a bit incredulous that the State was contemplating a move which he thought bordered on the melodramatic.

"I think the jury should have the opportunity to see how Thaw acts when he is not in court surrounded by counsel," Mr. Cook said. "From what I know of the pictures I am sure they would tend to convince the jury that under certain circumstances the behavior of this man is eccentric and not such as would be observed in a normal person. I have a subpoena out for them."

The pictures were taken by Hal Reid in August, 1913. No request was made to the court yesterday for permission to show them to the jury, but Mr. Cook said he would do so if the subpoena was served. The pictures have been shown here and in other cities.

In connection with the defense of the name of Stanford White Mr. Cook said he felt that he would be able to show that Thaw was not misled by the story it is asserted was told him by his wife concerning her treatment at White's hands, and that insanity was the real reason for his act in killing White. If he could obtain the evidence he was seeking, he said, he would trace the life of Evelyn Nesbit from her thirteenth year, some time before she met White. Mr. Cook said that he had had several talks with Evelyn Nesbit's brother and that he was prepared with a lot of new questions to ask Thaw when he calls the prisoner to the stand as a witness for the State.

Thaw did not give out any statements yesterday. While, by the changing expressions of his face, he showed his pleasure over the evidence given in his behalf, he exhibited no nervousness and seldom spoke to his counsel or the newspapermen except to reply briefly to some remark. He bowed to the friends who came down from New Hampshire to help him out and shook hands with a few of them in thanking them for their aid.

One of the most interesting moments yesterday came when Merrill Shurtleff of Lancaster, N. H., a lawyer of prominence in that State, testified that William T. Jerome, while in Colebrook, N. H., in September, 1913, as the representative of New York State after Thaw had been arrested there following his deportation from Canada, had threatened to kidnap Thaw and rush him into New York State by force if an effort was made to get him out on bail.

"I met Mr. Thaw on his arrival in Colebrook," said Shurtleff, "and he asked me if my firm would take over his case. Later I had a talk with Jerome. Then I told Mr. Thaw that Mr. Jerome had stated to me that if we applied for bail in Colebrook he would take him back to New York if he had to do it by force. I don't believe the word kidnapping was used."

"That was what Mr. Jerome, the Deputy Attorney General of New York State told you?" demanded Abel I. Smith, Jr., who was conducting the examination.

"Yes," said Mr. Shurtleff. "He said it to me. When I told Thaw he didn't seem excited at all. In fact, I don't think the stories about kidnapping excited Thaw nearly as much as they excited his guards."

Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Becker objected to such testimony on the ground that it had nothing to do with Thaw's sanity and was being produced solely for the purpose of the effect it might have on the jury. He did not, he said, want it made necessary for him to call Mr. Jerome and other witnesses to deny such testimony, and thought it should be excluded by the court. At this sally Mr. Stanchfield asked to be heard.

Alienist Watches Thaw.

"Your honor," he said, addressing Justice Hendrick, "I think such testimony is necessary. I have noticed Dr. Carlos MacDonald, the State alienist, in court here at a prominent place at the counsel table. He sits within a few feet of Thaw. Dr. MacDonald has been watching Mr. Thaw very closely and I have been much interested in watching Dr. MacDonald.

"Whenever a witness says anything that might be looked upon as unusual Dr. MacDonald takes down a note about it. When the word kidnapping was used he watched closely to see if it had any effect upon Thaw and made a note of it. So when he goes on the stand for the State Dr. MacDonald will be able to say that the talk of kidnapping was all a delusion on Thaw's part and a sign of insanity. Now, I feel that we have to prove by substantial evidence that the talk of kidnapping was a fact and not a delusion."

Mr. Shurtleff said that he had talked with Thaw almost daily for months and he had never seen anything about Thaw to indicate that he was irrational. He was excused without being cross-examined.

In order to emphasize the Jerome incident and show that Thaw had not expressed enmity to the one time Deputy Attorney General who followed him for nine years in the courts and during his flight through Canada and New England, counsel for Thaw next called Irving W. Drew of Concord, a law partner of Mr. Shurtleff, and for twenty-nine years a member of the New Hampshire bar. Mr. Drew said that he considered Thaw rational and had introduced him to Mrs. Drew. Asked if Thaw had ever attacked Jerome, Mr. Drew said:

"I never heard him do so. Thaw told me that Jerome was hired to do this business and he supposed he was doing it as he felt was right."

Clark D. Stevens, for twenty-nine years a policeman of Concord, N. H., who was appointed by Sheriff Holman A. Drew of Coos County as special keeper for Thaw and who was with him day and night from Sept. 15, 1913, to Jan. 22, 1915, gave testimony which Thaw considered of the greatest importance.

"Probably no one in New Hampshire knows Thaw better than I do," said Stevens. "I believe he is absolutely rational, and I trusted him where I wouldn't have trusted many another man. At times I didn't see him for as much as two or three hours. He, on these occasions, gave me his word of honor to meet me at a certain place at a certain time, and he never violated it. Yes, he had many opportunities to run away if he wanted to. Once when we were in the woods on a two days' fishing trip he was fishing up the river and I was fishing down it. There was a terrible thunder shower and I could not reach the place where I had told him to meet me at 6 o'clock.

"But when I got there at 12 o'clock at night, six hours late, I found Mr. Thaw sitting there waiting for me to come and get him. I was with Mr. Thaw for sixteen months, and we talked about many things. I never saw anything irrational about him. I often slept in the same room with him, I ate with him, and walked with him, and talked with him."

Cross-examination brought out that Mr. Stevens was paid $5 a day and expenses by Thaw as his custodian.

The testimony of the three women witnesses added interest to the sessions. The first was Mrs. Walter M. Lang, wife of a real estate man who rented Thaw a house in Manchester. Mrs. Lang said Thaw never displayed egotism and she was sure he was sane.

"Do you know the difference between a sane person and an insane person?" she was asked on cross-examination.

"A sane person acts rationally and an insane person acts irrationally," she replied.

"Are you speaking medically, legally, or New England style?" asked Mr. Cook.

Talked "New England Style."

"New England style perhaps," she replied.

"And that's a very good style, too," broke in Justice Hendrick.

Mrs. Charles A. Chandler, wife of the proprietor of the Mt. Madison House at Gorham, N. H., where Thaw spent his vacation last Summer, described him as very quiet and gentlemanly, and kind and courteous in his manner. Thaw was at the hotel from May 27 to Oct. 2, she said, and she never saw him go into the barroom or heard of him having a drink sent to his rooms.

The last of the women to testify was Mrs. Eugene W. Sergant, wife of a Manchester manufacturer. Mrs. Sergant is a strikingly handsome woman, and her appearance aroused much interest among the jurymen. She said that the best people of Manchester, who were considered very particular in regard to those they welcomed to their homes, had entertained Thaw. She said she had a daughter 19 years old, and that she had introduced her to Thaw, and had entertained Thaw at dinner. She considered him a very gallant and courteous man, she said.

"I considered him rational, absolutely so," she said. "I met him first at a football game which I attended with my husband. We talked about the teams. He was at the house several times, and I saw him on the trolley car, and my husband and I visited him."

Mrs. Sergant said she had talked with Thaw on many subjects, among them his hunting and fishing trips, on one of which he was lost for two days.

"Did the people of New Hampshire feel that they had lost something?" asked Mr. Cook.

"Oh, we weren't a bit worried," came back Mrs. Sergant.

"What made you think Mr. Thaw was rational?"

"I knew he was because he acted the same as other men I knew were rational," she replied.

Dr. Noel E. Gullett of the State Industrial School at Manchester testified that Thaw had taken much interest in that institution. He had discussed with Thaw discipline at the school, he said, and Thaw had expressed the opinion that corporal punishment was wrong in dealing with children, as it made them resentful. The Deputy Attorney General questioned Dr. Gullett at length about Thaw's talk concerning the whipping of children, but Dr. Gullett said this discussion was brief, and that Thaw simply expressed his opinion about the effect it had on the children's bringing up.

"He did not try to tell us how to run the institution," said Dr. Gullett. "I am a Thaw partisan, and I came here readily because we believe in our State that Thaw is a sane man and should be liberated."

Walter M. Lang of Manchester told of renting Thaw his house in that city. He said he was convinced Thaw was rational. A feature of his testimony which aroused interest was his remark that believing Thaw would be interested in the wineroom of the house he had mentioned it to him.

"He told me that he had no interest in the wineroom, as he had no use for it," said Lang.

Mr. Cook asked him if he knew anything about paranoia, and Lang said he did not.

"You wouldn't know dementia praecox if you met her on the street, would you?" asked Cook.

"No," replied the witness.

"And all of your talks with him were on topics of the day. You never talked to him about Jack Clifford or Barrymore?"

"I did not."

Played Bridge with Thaw.

Eugene P. Nute, for fifteen years a United States Marshal in New Hampshire, told of playing bridge with Thaw.

"We never played for money," he said. "People told me he was one of the very best bridge players they had ever met. I know he could play much better than I could."

"Would it surprise you," said Mr. Cook, "if I told you that one of the most expert chess players was in Matteawan and that he didn't know anything else?"

Robert P. Johnston, who has a flour mill in Concord, described Thaw's actions at dances, parties, and charity entertainments. His deportment, he said, was always absolutely proper, and he was modest and retiring. He never asked the young ladies to dance with him, the witness said, and couldn't be induced to do so.

"Has the one-step and the kitchen sink permeated New Hampshire yet?" asked Cook.

"To some extent," the witness replied.

"Well," continued the attorney, "don't you know that Thaw was locked up in Matteawan for eight years and didn't have a chance to learn the new steps?"

"He had plenty of opportunity in New Hampshire," replied Johnston.

Next to call Thaw sane was Burritt H. Hinman, District Attorney of Coos County, and later came Charles A. Chandler, proprietor of the Mount Madison House at Gorham. Chandler said that during all the time Thaw was at his hotel there was not a single complaint from other guests about his presence. He described Thaw as most modest and retiring. One man who had canceled his reservations when he heard Thaw was coming, said Chandler, remained at the hotel later, and before going told Thaw he was glad he had been there. Thaw never had a drink at his hotel, the witness said.

Eugene W. Sergant of Manchester and William H. Topping of The Manchester Daily Mirror were the other witnesses. Both said they believed Thaw sane. Topping told about gifts Thaw made to the poor of Manchester and of a party Thaw gave which was attended by the children of "the best people of the city."

When the trial is resumed at 10:30 o'clock on Monday, Mr. Stanchfield will call as experts General Frank S. Streeter and Dr. Charles P. Bancroft, members of the Lunacy Commission appointed by the Federal Court in New Hampshire; Dr. D. Percy Hickling, alienist, of Washington, D. C., and Dr. Charles K. Mills of the University of Pennsylvania. The testimony of these witnesses, he said, would complete his case.

FIGHT OVER WOMAN ENDS IN MAN'S DEATH

Police Sergeant's Son Accused of Striking Blow That Killed Michael Freedman.

ROW STARTED IN SALOON

Cloak Model Who Was with Merchant Gave Clue That Resulted in Arrest.

Through a clue given by a young woman friend of Michael Freedman, a manufacturer, who was atacked and beaten while on the street with her and died of his injuries a few hours after he had returned to his home at 135 West Eighty-sixth Street, Thursday morning, detectives of the Fourth Branch Bureau yesterday arrested Frank Deacher, 21 years old, of 257 West 126th Street, son of Police Sergeant William Deacher of the Oak Street Station, on the charge of homicide. Deacher's brother, Edward, 19 years old, and two companions, Morris Mackey, 24, of 416 West 125th Street, and Matthew Byrne, 17, of 163 Morningside Avenue, were arrested as witnesses.

When the young woman, whose identity the family of the dead man desire to shield, telephoned to Freedman's home to inquire about his condition, and was told by his brother, Louis A. Freedman, that Michael had died, she told him:

"He lost his life in defending me from insult. I don't know the men who attacked him, but I could recognize them."

"My brother Michael," said Louis Freedman, "was continuing the business at 1270 Broadway which my father, Moritz Freedman, established forty years ago. The young woman was a cloak model whom he had known for some time. He called at her house in West 124th Street Wednesday night, and, after a walk, they went into a café at 125th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue to get a sandwich and drinks, she told me over the telephone.

"They were there when four young men entered. One of them made an offensive remark at my brother's companion, which he resented, but the bartender interfered and ordered the newcomers to behave. A few minutes later some one of the quartet of youths threw beer over the clothing of the woman and my brother. Michael then left with the woman and was walking along 124th Street, when the men rushed after them from the saloon and attacked him. The woman told me she tried to defend him by stabbing at his assailants with her hatpin. One of the attacking party, one of the Deachers, hit my brother twice. He fell at the second blow.

"Whether it was the blow or the fall that caused his death I don't know, but he died of a fractured skull. Michael refused to go to a hospital, but assisted by the woman he managed to get home at about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. We did not know how seriously he was hurt until some hours later, when I and my brother-in-law, Harold Beran, heard him groaning in his room. Mrs. Denzer, Wolf, and Eran worked over him for several hours. He died at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

"I did not know the young woman who gave me the information, so I made an appointment to meet her. I had a detective there and we went to the bureau."

After the woman had told her story, Detectives McAvoy, Donnelly, Hawkins, Leonard, and Love searched the police records at the West 125th Street Station. There they found that a policeman had taken a youth to the station house at about the time Freedman was attacked. He was said to be Bryne, whom the policeman had seen running from where Freedman was found, but as there was no complaint against him he was released. When Bryne was found at his home he told who his companions were. Deacher, the police say, admitted hitting Freedman, but insisted he was hurt by falling on the sidewalk.

All of the accused men come from good families and have good reputations. Bryne graduated a year ago from St. Joseph's School. They are members of St. Joseph's Church at St. Nicholas Avenue and 125th Street, and of the St. Joseph Athletic Club.

They were arraigned yesterday in the Harlem Court and remanded to Coroner Reardon, who released Frank Deacher in $2,500 bail pending the inquest, and the others in $100 bail each.

The father of Freedman died on Christmas Day. His brother, Frank, was killed by an automobile at Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street on May 19, 1913.

METUCHEN, N. J., June 25.—Andrew Garsick, 15 years old, the sole support of his mother and three young sisters, was convicted by a jury of the Middlesex County Court of Common Pleas of stealing 50 cents worth of brass junk from the shipyard of former City Treasurer John H. Gregory, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men of Middlesex County. He was sentenced today by Judge Peter Francis Daly to pay a fine of $50 and to be put on probation.

Steven F. Somogyi, counsel for the boy, made a plea for leniency. Judge Daly said he would have to impose a fine inasmuch as the lad had cost the county the expense of a trial.

FOUND DEAD IN BATHROOM.

Coroner to Investigate Demise of Mrs. J. C. Brackenridge.

Mrs. Marcie Brackenridge, 50 years old, wife of John C. Brackenridge of Church Street, near Division Avenue, Richmond Hill, was found dead in a bathroom last night under circumstances which caused the authorities to think she might have committed suicide. Asphyxiation by gas is believed to have caused death. Mrs. Brackenridge had been ill for some time.

Members of the family are of the opinion that when Mrs. Brackenridge fell she struck a small chain leading from a gas fixture, which let the gas flow into the room. Coroner Vogel of Queens Borough will perform an autopsy this morning to ascertain whether death was caused by asphyxiation or not. Mr. Brackenridge was formerly Commissioner of Public Works in Brooklyn.

MURDERED THIRTEEN MEN.

Alabama Prisoner Leaves Note Confessing Many Crimes.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 25.—Syd Jones, hanged in the county jail yard here today, left a note in his cell in which he confessed responsibility for thirteen murders. Two of his victims were white men, one a Mobile & Ohio brakeman, and the other a Nebraska Deputy Sheriff. The others were negroes.

"I am sorry I missed getting Richard Moore Sept. 12, 1912," Jones wrote. "Just one more would have made an even number."

Relatives Get Estate of Law Partner of Job Hedges.

Andrew Shiland, who was the law partner of Job Hedges, left a net estate of $206,663 when he died on March 24, 1914, according to the appraisal filed in the office of the State Controller yesterday. The widow, Mrs. Ada L. Shiland, receives a life estate in $145,428. Two-thirds of the remainder interest in this sum passes to the son, Andrew R. Shiland, who also receives a specific bequest of $50,000 and personalty appraised at $240. A stepson, George B. Hedges, receives the remaining one-third interest and $5,000 in cash. Elizabeth Shiland, a sister of the testator, receives $5,000, and Mary S. Lyon, a cousin, $1,000.

The assets were grouped as stocks and bonds, appraised at $243,938; equities in real estate, $85,059; bank deposits, $5,152, and personalty valued at $18,334.

The larger items of securities included 825 shares of Pennsylvania Railroad stock, appraised at $46,251; 250 shares of Consolidated Gas Company stock, $33,500; 220 shares of Great Northern preferred, $28,182, and 105 shares of Interborough Rapid Transit stock, $21,840.

Relatives Get Balance of Mrs. Mary Van Wagenen's $153,585.

Mrs. Mary Louisa Van Wagenen, who died at her home, 74 West 103d Street, on Jan. 23, 1914, left a net estate of $153,585, of which $86,000 is bequeathed to charitable and religious institutions, according to the appraisal filed in the office of the State Controller yesterday.

The following persons, not related to the testator, received respectively: Alice B. Titus, $15,239; Robert F. Crary, $14,332; Philip Huntington, $13,281; Louisa Cox Benedict, $5,115, and Isabella Hart, $3,012. The rest of the estate was divided among relatives.

The bequests to institutions were: Twenty-five thousand dollars each to the General Clergy Relief Fund and the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church, $12,000 to the New York Protestant Episcopal Church Mission Society, $8,000 to the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples, $5,000 each to the Society for the Relief of Half Orphans and Destitute Children and St. Luke's Home for Aged Women, and $3,000 each to St. John's Guild and the New York Bible Society.

ESTATE PAYS $100,000 TAX.

Affidavits filed yesterday with Henry C. Johnson, Jr., Transfer Tax Appraiser of Queens, gave the value of the estate of Luke Kouwenhoven, who died at his home on the Shore Road in the Steinway district of Long Island City, as $1,606,989. For expenses in connection with the settlement of the estate, Leach & Williams, attorneys for the executrix, Mrs. Fannie G. K. Williams, make application for $100,000. The attorneys also ask for $14,000 for fees for the executrix.

A check for $100,000 was deposited with State Controller Travis to cover the inheritance tax. The schedules show that the personal estate amounted to $1,300,489 and the real estate to $306,500. The large personal estate consisted of ninety mortgages, of a total value of $1,225,518. There were ten parcels of real estate of a total value of $306,500, nearly all of them in Long Island City. An income tax of $1,241 is due and the total debts and deductions amount to $119,098.

A bequest of $1,000 is made to Clara D. Cooper of Bridgeport, Conn.; $1,000 to Annie Mindermann of Long Island City, and $3,000 to the Union Church, Long Island City. The remainder of the estate is shared equally by the four nieces of the testator, Sarah L. K. Haines of 228 East Thirteenth Street, Indianapolis; Helena D. K. Hulst of 19 North Parsons Avenue, Flushing; Agnes E. K. Bartow of 233 Lincoln Street, Flushing, and Fannie G. K. Williams of Long Island City.

MRS. REYNOLDS LEFT $3,621,432

Sole Heir Is Mrs. J. F. Van B. Thomas, a Daughter.

Mrs. Emily A. Van Buren Reynolds, who was the widow of Dr. James Banks Reynolds of 2 East Eighty-eighth Street, when she died on Feb. 26, 1914, left a net estate of $3,621,432, according to the appraisal filed in the office of the State Controller yesterday. Mrs. Josephine F. Van B. Thomas, her daughter, is the sole legatee.

The assets are grouped for appraisal purposes as realty, $2,943,053; bank deposits, $47,371; jewelry and personalty, $68,482; stocks and bonds, $656,103; and interests in the estates of deceased relatives, $100,882. The bulk of the realty holdings was held as that of tenant in common with Frederick T. Van Buren, Eleanor C. Wittman, John W. A. Davis, Mary E. B. Mitchell, and Louise V. B. Bond. Apart from these, the testator held an equity of $250,000 in 1,069 Fifth Avenue, the full appraisal valuation of which is given at $350,000.

Among the personalty items were the following paintings with their appraised valuations: "Arab Horseman," by Schreyer, $5,000; "October," by J. F. Murphy, $3,000; the "Waterfowl," by Thaulow, and "Frederick the Great," by Gerome, $2,500 each; "Magdalene," by J. J. Henner, and "The Prayer," by Gerome, $2,000 each; "Knitting," by Joseph Bail, $750; "Landscape," by Robert C. Minor, $500, and "Meadow," by Leon Richet, $300.

In the jewelry list was a diamond and pearl dog collar, appraised at $7,000; an emerald and diamond ring, $3,363, and a diamond neck chain, $3,000.

G. F. MacKENDRY DIVORCED.

Wife Gets Decree with $25,000 Cash and Income of $160,000 Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, June 25.—Mrs. Annette Reynaud MacKendry of New Canaan received a divorce today from Glenn Ford MacKendry of New York and New Canaan. Mrs. MacKendry charged desertion and the case was tried before Judge Williams of the Superior Court. The couple were married on May 3, 1898.

By the decree the wife receives $25,000 outright and a trust fund of $160,000 placed in the Equitable Trust Company, the income to be paid over to her four times a year. Mrs. MacKendry also gets the magnificent home in Mount Vernon known as Killieban. She is to have the custody of her fourteen-year-old son, John Reynaud.

MINUTE-LONG KISS RESULTS IN DIVORCE

Mrs. L. C. Robertson Gets Decree Against Importer Who Visited Miss Tempest.

LAUGHS AT CO-RESPONDENT

"Protector" Gave Her $300 a Month, Is Testimony of "Woman in Case."

The trial of the suit of Mrs. Laurien C. Robertson for a divorce from Edward F. Robertson, an importer, before Supreme Court Justice Delehanty and a jury came to an end yesterday with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The result was a blow to Miss Mina Tempest, who was named in the suit, because she had fought hard to prove the charges untrue, among which was an allegation that she gave Robertson kisses that lasted sixty seconds.

Miss Tempest was called again to the witness chair when court opened yesterday morning. In manner subdued she denied that the relations between her and Mr. Robertson had ever been improper. She admitted that he had visited her in her rooms in the Sonoma Apartments, at 1,734 Broadway. In reply to a question she said that Gay L. Schiffer, a broker, was a very good friend to her and her protector.

Mrs. Robertson appeared in court for the first time. She sat near the counsel table, with her face covered by a veil. She kept her eyes fixed upon the witness, and laughed quietly when Miss Tempest said that Mr. Robertson had always lived up to the code between gentlemen that forbade one from displaying undue affection to the fiancé of a friend. Concerning Mr. Schiffer the witness said:

"I first met him about eighteen years ago, and we grew to be very good friends. He became a partner in my lingerie business, and we would have married if my illness had not prevented."

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mr. Robertson, asked Miss Tempest if other relations than those of business existed between her and Mr. Schiffer.

"He is my protector," she replied, "and a very good friend."

Mr. Robertson had testified Thursday that $600 he had paid for set of furs for Miss Tempest had been returned to him by Mr. Schiffer. Miss Tempest put her handkerchief to her eyes and trembled. But she straightened up and stared at Gustav Lange, Jr., counsel for Mrs. Robertson, who cross-examined her. Asked what she meant when she said that Mr. Schiffer was her protector, she replied:

"Nearly all the time I have known him he has allowed me $300 a month. He has always been very considerate and thoughtful in his conduct."

Miss Tempest said that sometimes when she needed money for clothes Mr. Schiffer gave her more than $300 a month. In order to show how much he really did give her a number of checks from the "protector" were produced. These called for amounts ranging from $75 to as much as $1,600. The total amount was $54,812. Some of the checks were dated as far back as 1900.

ROOSEVELT AT REHEARSAL.

Colonel Would Rather Talk to Police Friends Than to Pacifists.

Colonel Roosevelt renewed old acquaintances on the police force yesterday afternoon, when he went to the Gravesend race track to see a rehearsal for the Police Carnival to be held there today and next Saturday. The Colonel expressed genuine delight at everything he saw, and congratulated Police Commissioner Arthur Woods on the showing made by the men of the department. Colonel Roosevelt said he was glad to get out to the Gravesend race track, away from the pacifists.

"That's bully," said the Colonel, as he watched a rifle drill by policemen, trained for the exhibition by Captain Halstead Dorey, U. S. A., aide to Major Gen. Leonard Wood.

Frequently from a special platform where he watched the rehearsal the Colonel caught sight of a familiar face. More than once he ran to the front railing and shouted at a veteran policeman to come forward and shake hands.

"Hello, old man, I recall your face," said the Colonel.

Colonel Roosevelt roared with laughter when he watched an exhibition in which a police dog caught a thief entering the room of a woman. The screams of the "fair victim" were heard by the dog, which made quick work of the criminal.

Colonel Roosevelt motored into town from Oyster Bay especially to see the rehearsal of the Police Carnival. He was met at the race track by Commissioner Woods, Deputy Commissioner Godley, and Mayor's Secretary Rousseau.

Police Commissioner Woods yesterday announced a list of the boxholders at the carnival to be held on the Brooklyn Jockey Club's grounds. For today the boxholders are Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Rear Admiral Frank E. Fletcher, R. A. C. Smith, Clarence H. Mackay, Robert W. Goelet, Jacob Ruppert, George S. Ward, T. W. Lamont, and the Commissioners of Police of Newark, Paterson, and Yonkers.

The boxholders for July 3 are Cleveland H. Dodge, W. A. Harriman, Elbert H. Gary, General Victoriano Huerta, J. P. Morgan, and Francis Lynde Stetson. Colonel Roosevelt has also signified his intention to be present.

Adele Ritchie's Husband Guilty.

Charles Nelson Bell, husband of Adele Ritchie, the actress, pleaded non vult yesterday before Judge Osborne, in the Court of Quarter Session, in Newark, to a charge of assault and battery upon George Steele. At the time of his arrest, nearly a year ago, Bell entered a plea of not guilty. He retracted this plea through his counsel, Frank M. McDermit, and was released in $1,000 bail pending sentence on Monday. Steele charged Bell with hiring two thugs to beat him.

FLORIDA RAILWAY FAILS.

W. B. Winslow Appointed Receiver on Bondholders' Petition.

Carl J. Sauer, a resident of Elizabeth, N. J., brought suit yesterday in the Federal District Court in behalf of himself and other bondholders, against the Florida Railway Company, the Columbia Trust Company, the Suwannee & San Pedro Railroad Company, the Live Oak & Gulf Railway Company, the St. Mary's, Suwannee & Gulf Railway Company, the Florida Construction and Realty Company, and the Union Trust Company of Florida.

William B. Winslow of 55 Liberty Street was appointed receiver for the Florida Railway Company by Judge Augustus N. Hand, under a bond of $50,000. The application for the appointment of a receiver was made by the plaintiffs' attorneys.

Sauer and the other plaintiffs are holders of bonds of the Florida Railway Company, secured by a mortgage made July 1, 1909, to the Carnegie Trust Company, as trustee, and under which $2,508,000 in bonds have been issued and are now outstanding. A large portion of the bonds, the plaintiffs allege, were paid to the Southern Investment Company for the purpose of canceling that company's lien and pledge upon all the shares of stock and bonds of the Suwannee & San Pedro Railroad Company, the Live Oak & Gulf Railway Company, and the St. Mary's, Suwannee & Gulf Railway Company, and the balance of the proceeds of the bonds were used in the acquisition, or construction of the line and terminals of the Florida Railway Company, between Live Oak, Fla., and the Cities of Jacksonville and Fernandina.

After the collapse of the Carnegie Trust Company on Jan. 7, 1911, the complaint explains, the Knickerbocker Trust Company became its successor as trustee. At the time of this transfer the Carnegie Trust Company was in the possession of $326,388.67 in cash derived from the sale of bonds, and of this amount, by direction of the Supreme Court of New York, turned over to the Knickerbocker Trust Company $310,000, the other $16,388.67 being retained by the court's order by the Superintendent of Banks for the purpose of adjusting accounts and obligations payable out of the fund. When these disbursements were made the Superintendent of Banks on Sept. 16, 1911, delivered to the Knickerbocker Trust Company $14,709.61. On engineers' certificates of work done filed by the Florida Railway Company, the Knickerbocker Trust Company, the complaint states, paid out the $324,709.61.

In a decree made in the State Supreme Court on May 8, 1913, the plaintiffs state, the Knickerbocker Trust Company, now the Columbia Trust Company, was authorized to turn over to the Union Trust Company of Florida, as successor trustee, all notes and securities held by it under mortgage. Through the failure, refusal, and neglect of the Union Trust Company to qualify, the bondholders alllege, they are without a trustee to protect their interests, institute proper proceedings, or take other steps for the enforcement of the obligations of the Florida Railway Company. They therefore asked, as there had been defaults in the payment of interest since July 1, 1913, and because the Florida Railway Company had brought in the Federal District Court of Florida a six-million-dollar Sherman law damage suit against the Knickerbocker Trust Company and other defendants, that a receiver be appointed, an accounting had, and the mortgage foreclosed.

STOLE TRUCK WORTH $9,000

Detectives Pick It Up, but the Driver Gets Away.

Detectives Oliver and Fenally of Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon trailed a large truck loaded with cases of merchandise along Mulberry Street from Prince to Kenmare Streets. At several stables the driver stopped and tried to hire room for his team for the night, but was refused.

At Kenmare Street a man who afterward said he was Arthur Pietri, 24, of 268 Bowery, approached the driver when the latter signaled to him. Then the driver saw Oliver watching him, and, recognizing him as a detective, jumped from the truck and ran into a near-by tenement house and escaped. Pietri after a short chase was caught and taken to Police Headquarters.

The truck was identified by a member of the firm of Ruggiera Brothers, truckmen, of 148 West Twenty-third Street, as one which was stolen on Twenty-fourth Street earlier in the day. It carried $9,000 worth of silks and woolens consigned to a firm in San Francisco. Pietri is charged with suspicion of grand larceny, although he denied any participation in the theft.

SHADOWS BETRAY THIEVES.

Police Surround Block and Get Three Alleged Intruders.

Harry J. Dougherty, 70 years old, watchman at the plant of the White Motor Company, Eleventh Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, last night caused the arrest of three men on charges of attempted burglary. They said they were John B. Leary of 516 West Fifty-seventh Street, Joseph Birmingham of 510 West Forty-third Street, and Thomas McLoughlin, no home. They were locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

Dougherty, in the stock room of the building, which is one story high, saw the shadows of five men against the skylight overhead. He gave the alarm and eight policemen surrounded the block. Dougherty and Policemen Fay and Morris stood in the rear of the building at the foot of a fire escape. On a prearranged signal all the patrolmen in front and side streets blew their whistles and rapped their sticks. Five men went tumbling down the ladder into the arms of the policemen. Two escaped.

WITH ONE EYE PICKS AN ALLEGED THIEF

Ferdinand Newman Sure Walter Decker Robbed His Wife of $800 Ten Years Ago.

HIS SPOUSE NOT SO CERTAIN

Accused Sues Their Daughter for $500 on a Charge of Spreading the Story of the Crime.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 25.—Whether it was through a mistake or malicious intent that Mrs. Minerva Chamberlain, as is alleged, told certain members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Belmar M. E. Church and others that the Walter Decker who sang in a recent entertainment at the Belmar School was the man who ten years ago robbed her mother of $800 and served three years in the Rahway Reformatory is for a jury in Judge Walter Taylor's district court to decide. Mrs. Chamberlain has been sued for $500 damages by Mr. Decker, who charges that his character has been defamed; that the alleged slanderous remarks were uttered by Mrs. Chamberlain with deliberate intent to do him harm, and that as a result he has suffered great humiliation. The case came to trial today.

More than twoscore women were in the courtroom when the case was called. Most of them were witnesses, while others had been attracted by the promise of sensational developments.

Both of Mrs. Chamberlain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Newman of West Belmar, thought Decker was the man who ten years ago boarded with the Newmans for two weeks and robbed Mrs. Newman. Decker smiled broadly, stroked his chin, and pushed back his iron-gray hair while he was being identified.

Mrs. Newman said the Decker in court looked and acted like the Decker she had known ten years ago. He talked the same, laughed the same, was in the same business, and had the same name, she said, but she was not really sure that he was the same man.

Mr. Newman, who has lost an eye since he knew a Walter Decker ten years ago, declared that that fact did not hinder him from identifying the Decker in court as the Decker who stole $800 from Mrs. Newman.

"To the best of my knowledge that is the same man," he declared, pointing a finger at the complainant. "And if you would tell the truth, I believe you'd admit it," he cried, his finger still leveled at Decker. The latter smiled engagingly, but shook his head.

Several women testified to the fact that Mrs. Chamberlain had told them that Decker was the man who had robbed her mother. Mrs. Chamberlain had told them, they said, that Decker had been captured by detectives on the gangplank of a steamer in New York, had been brought to Freehold, and sentenced to three years in the Rahway Reformatory.

OSBORNE WILL NOT RESIGN.

Warden Saw Whitman Here—Prizefight in Prison on Fourth.

OSSINING, N. Y., June 25.—It was stated today that Thomas Mott Osborne will not resign as Warden of Sing Sing. Mr. Osborne made a hurried trip to New York City today and called upon the Governor. After the conference it was said there was no truth in the rumor of his resignation.

The news soon spread through the prison that the rumor of resignation was false, and the "inmates" rejoiced and went on laying odds and making wagers on the outcome of the Fourth of July fight between Slugging Chuck, a negro champion, and the prison "white hope" Battling Ryan. The fight is for the prison heavyweight championship and will be fought on a platform in the prison yard.

Telephones in Subway Entrance.

The right to install two coin-box telephones in the corridor leading from the Metropolitan Life Building to the Twenty-third Street Station of the subway was granted yesterday to the New York Telephone Company by the Public Service Commission. Their introduction may mean the beginning of a general installation of telephones throughout the subway. Two years ago a law was passed providing for it.

CLAIMS MISSING HUSBAND.

When Frank O. Charles Disappears, Wife Announces Marriage.

Miss Evelyn J. Rowe, as she was supposed to be, of 105 Third Street, Newark, yesterday announced that she was married in January to Frank Charles of 171 Third Street. Her announcement was made because Charles has been unheard of by his wife or friends since Wednesday, when he drew $800 from the Mutual Bank of Roseville. This was a part of the funds of the Terence J. Malloy Savings Association, of which Charles was treasurer. From the time he drew the money his friends have not been able to trace him.

Mr. Malloy, after whom the association is named, said this afternoon that he did not know why the money had been drawn, but that the association would loose nothing even if Charles never appeared again, as he would personally pay the amount into the association treasury.

Mrs. Charles says she is in total ignorance of the whereabouts of her husband. They were married by the Rev. Dr. John A. Miller of the House of Prayer.
